The thrill of victory and the agony of the feet

Parking issues dominate city council meeting

By DAVID LELAND

NO MATTER how the Carmel City Council slices the pie, there's not enough parking to go around. Such was the case Dec. 2 when the council had before it six issues involving the elusive spaces.

Perhaps the most controversial matter involved the refund of $62,595 (plus interest) to businessmen Roxy Rapp and George Brook-Kothlow for their in-lieu parking fees assessed by the previous administration.

On Nov. 19, the planning commission decided that Rapp and Brook-Kothlow's subdivision of the former Sprouse-Reitz Variety Store, which now houses Books Inc. and The Nature Company, did not increase parking demand in the city.

The in-lieu fees were charged by the previous city council last February when the store, located at Ocean Avenue near Mission Street, was subdivided into two businesses.

At that time, the council used the standard parking assessment of one space for every 1,000 commercial square feet. It was impossible for Rapp and Brook-Kothlow to provide sufficient parking for the 6,000-square foot building so they were forced to pay $20,865 per space.

While the planning commission regarded the imposition of in-lieu fees as punitive, it did not have the power to return the fees.

The council approved the refund (3-1 with Councilman Jim Wright dissenting), after a brief discussion in which Wright questioned the planning commission's ability to overturn a city ordinance.

Councilman Bob Evans pointed out that the imposition of the in-liue fees on Rapp and Brook-Kothlow had gone against the city's general plan, so the original ordinance was invalid.

The council also returned about $4,000 in interest the $62,595 had gained while in the bank. But two members of the council expressed doubts whether this would be admitting that the city was at fault in charging the fee in the first place.

But acting legal counsel Michael Stamp convinced a majority of the councilmembers that this case stood alone and each following case would be judged separately. In other words, no precedent had been set by the return of the interest.

The council approved the return of the $4,000 in a 4-2 vote, with Evans and Wright dissenting.

THE COUNCIL also acted on several other issues — many of them related to parking and traffic — Dec. 2, including:

• A report on the circulation element of the general plan, presented by the general plan committee.

The report states that the city should attempt to establish more public parking and that the minority who think this will attract more people to Carmel are in error.

But the report also recognizes there is limited space to park cars in Carmel. It suggests that Carmel decide what level of parking is appropriate for the city.

The report further recommends an overall parking strategy for Carmel which would integrate several modes of transportation, such as public transit, carpools, pedestrian and bicycles.

• Denied the issuance of parking permits to homeowners who do not reside in Carmel. These parking permits allow a car to stay twice as long in a parking slot. Under the permit, a 20-minute zone would become a 40-minute zone.

• The council approved a $2,500 donation toward the Monterey Film Festival. It was unclear whether this money would be given directly to the organizers of the film festival or if it would be used to buy $2,500 worth of tickets, which would be distributed.

The film festival will be held for four days in February, with as many as eight films being shown at Carmel's Golden Bough and Village theaters, according to David Bean, festival executive director.

• The council also unanimously postponed until January any action on the long-running Carmel Beach Restoration Project Phase II.

Councilmembers are waiting to hear from the California Coastal Conservancy regarding a $200,000 grant proposal. Greg D'Ambrosio, director of administrative services, said he has not yet received written conformation.

The project, which has a price tag of $750,000, has been the subject of much public discussion since a town hall meeting was held on Nov. 4.

At that time public sentiment favored the construction of the beach restoration project. It appears that councilmembers have been receiving phone calls to this effect.

"I'm convinced a substantial number of the community are for the project," Wright said.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letters to the editor are welcome. Views on all matters are acceptable, following the guidelines of good taste. While there is no limit on length, brevity is encouraged. Letters are subject to editing for style and length. Each letter must contain name, address and signature. A phone number is needed for verification only. Anonymous letters are not accepted.

Volunteers needed

Dear Editor:

All of you know the tremendous service that Meals on Wheels is doing in our area and it takes many volunteers to make it work.

At the present time it takes 22 volunteer drivers 5 days a week to deliver meals to over 200 shut-ins and another 15 volunteers in the kitchen.

The purpose of this letter is to ask for help from anyone interested. It just takes a lot of good people to make Meals on Wheels succeed.

Pacific Grove Business & Professional Woman's Organization selected Sally Griffin, who 15 years ago, started Meals on Wheels as the 1986 Woman of Achievement.

If any of you feel like helping as a volunteer, please call Sally at 375-4454 — it will make you feel like a million dollars!

P.S. Also, there is a need for volunteer office help a few hours a day.

Fatherly advice

Dear Editor:

I found a recent news service (source not noted) item regarding Mayor Eastwood's new column featured in your paper very amusing. Though the article tended to poke mild humor at the contrast between Mr. Eastwood's character portrayals on film and his ability to communicate via print media, I feel privileged to have known the truth of those differences for many years.

Though I haven't seen the column and confess to being ignorant of its contents and issues, I would bet my last dollar that Mr. Eastwood's intent and purpose can only better serve the whole of your commuity. In my book, the man has understanding, compassion and an extremely honest approach to satisfying the oath he took for his office.

If anyone wants to ask how I know all this, I will tell them of a little girl who once wrote the only "friend" she knew in the entertainment field. She asked for advice on how to know if a would-be "movie producer" was for real. Her "friend" wrote back telling her to always check with her parents about anyone she didn't know. That advice saved a lot of heartache and pain.

I'm that little girl and my friend was the out of work, post-Rawhide, pre-spaghetti western "star," Clint Eastwood.

I always wanted to say "thank you."

A dangerous game

Dear Editor:

This past week the entire country and much of the world learned to its sorrow that success at the polls and popularity do not relieve men in high places of responsibility for what is done in their name, be their constituency a nation or only a hamlet.

A "rogue elephant" is a strong term to be tacked onto our captain but we can be thankful for the fellow who recognizes wrong action and refuses to play on the team. Ignorance allied to arrogance can make for a very dangerous game indeed.

A brilliant eccentric

Dear Editor:

Like Mr. Joseph Pagano, I admire the mystic paintings done by Jeanne D'Orge (Mrs. Charles Cherry). After reading his letter to you in this week's Pine Cone (Nov. 6, 1986), I truly regret having missed the opening ceremonies of the current exhibit of her work at the Cherry Foundation.

Mr. Pagano wrote "I feel sure that Jung himself would have been moved and profoundly impressed...Clearly this woman had an extraordinary connection to the archetypal depths of the unconscious...All who attended must have experienced new relationships to the collective unconscious...Our guide was the artist Jeanne D'Orge."

That lady, a brilliant eccentric, passed away in 1964!

A great idea

Dear Editor:

Tom May's suggestion that the Crocker Bank building would be an alternative to the completion of a new library annex is great!

I would hope the city council would give his suggestion very serious consideration.

Polls premature

Dear Editor:

Phase II of the Carmel Beach Restoration Project is now being considered by the city council. If current thinking prevails the plan will be implemented.

All of the issues have not been presented but polls are being taken to determine whether the public likes the project.

A previous city council was recalled for paving Ocean Avenue. Other councils passed laws prohibiting sidewalks in the residential districts and severely criticized the construction or repair of sidewalks in the commercial districts. This tradition is not being considered in current planning.

Carmel-by-the-Sea is world-renowned for its natural beach and Mother Nature insists on maintaining its own development. The tax payer should be informed on what the estimated cost of maintenance will be for Phase II.

Traditionally Carmel-by-the-Sea has disliked signs. There has been little discussion on the number of signs and markings needed. The signs must notify the public on where to park, how long to park, what size vehicle is allowed, where the entrance to the beach is and other hazards related to beach use as well as any other signs or markings required by state or federal agencies.

Carmelites have enjoyed their beach for years and over the years few have complained about hazards or the need for sidewalks. Most of Carmel is developed with narrow streets serving a mix of cars, bicycles and pedestrians. Perhaps a different problem exists at this location and a study needs to be done on accidents and injuries.

When conflicts with tradition occur it is common practice to refer such conflicts to the people rather than representative government choosing for them.

Why not inform the voters and let them decide what is in the best interest of Carmel-by-the-Sea. Phone polls may not get the same result.

Gardening support

Dear Editor:

Please allow us to express our thanks to you and your readers for the tremendous support of the Vocational Landscape Gardening program at the Correctional Training Facility.

Carmel residents were well represented among the many donating nursery containers during the recent pot collection drive sponsored by Peninsula Beautiful. The event was a big success due to the kind cooperation of local nurseries, landscape gardeners, gardening societies, and especially the volunteers of Peninsula Beautiful who came through with help when called upon.

Approximately 15,000 containers were donated ranging from 2 inches to 2 feet in diameter! Many of these pots will return to the peninsula communities in the form of ornamental plants grown by the 72 inmate trainees in the landscape gardening program at Soledad for public beautification projects.

To the Pine Cone and its readers, we say thank you for the much needed support. We eagerly look forward to future projects of mutual benefit!

Tasty and convenient lunch

Dear Editor:

Just wanted to share my feelings and those of my co-workers. It is very difficult to find a decent affordable lunch in Carmel. That is why we were very annoyed that Wishart's Bakery is no longer able to sell pizza. It was a tasty, convenient and reasonably priced lunch.

We would like to know why this benefit to local merchants and salespeople has been taken away.

Open space and the Forest

Dear Editor:

I note with interest the latest California Coastal Commissions actions on designating open space for the sand borrow area in Sawmill Gulch, the site of the rejected water reclamation plant and storage reservoir.

With all that sand removed for Spanish Bay the vacated area should produce a large hole that could be well used for storage of rain water and storm water off the Presidio hill area. I understand that a reservoir for storage of water for the golf courses was engineered as part of the aborted sewage reclamation project. It seems to me that water storage facility of some 60 million gallons is still needed and its use should qualify as open space.

Before that area is again filled with dirt and replanted, should we not consider that capturing of runoff in the winters a major task for this open space area? I always thought our trees, our flora and fauna in the Forest were severely effected during our droughts by lack of water and stress. Even if such captured rainfall is not used to replace drinking water for our many golf courses, our environmentalists should recognize this potential benefit to keep our forest and wildlife in greenery when we get hit again by Mother Nature's disastrous droughts.

I understand that some 1,500 to 2,000 ac. ft. of runoff occurs in normal years in that Sawmill Gulch area and special retention pipes in the Presidio can accumulate some 500,000 gallons during storms for release downstream. Even in droughts some 1,000 ac. ft. of water flows down hill in that area during winter storms. This open space offstream reservoir could be part of a longer range rainfall entrapment plan to assure good management of the riparian corridor known as Sawmill Gulch.

Compared with other very high costs of new dams and fancy reclamation projects, this increased reservoir storage of runoff and rainfall certainly is cost effective and can be accomplished within a one- to two-year time frame. What are we waiting for? Let's give it a try, what do we have to lose?

Boys and Girls

Dear Editor:

Oh, boy, the things we see on television these days — and nights also. Boys look like girls and girls resemble boys.

The other night we were staring numbly at the boob tube when I noticed something that seemed normal for a change.

"Now that's the way a man should look," I said. "See the neat haircut and the masculine clothes?"

"That's Princess Stephanie with her new hairdo. Her clothes are the latest style in women's wear," my wife replied.

"Well, she certainly fooled me." Next came a lovely lass dressed to the nines.

"Look at that pretty creature," I said. "That's the way a proper lady should dress. Wonder who it is?"

"Boy George dressed for his court appearance," replied the wife.

"And the pretty girl next to him?"

"That's Marilyn, his boyfriend."

"Think I'll have a drink, go into the next room and listen to the ballgame on the radio."

Mistreating a friend

Dear Editor:

With Coca Cola Co. leading the way, the U.S. Congress and much of the corporate world is putting the economic screws to South Africa, a country that has always tried to be America's friend.

On Aug. 15, the U. S. Senate voted overwhelmingly to impose economic sanctions on South Africa. Earlier, on June 18, the House passed its version of the act, an act designed to force American industry out of South Africa. The acts are presently being reconciled, according to report.

The act is reportedly designed to force some 280 American companies to withdraw their investment from South Africa under penalty of fines up to $500,000. Private citizens could be jailed for up to five years.

Sen. Malcolm Wallop (R-Wyo.) attempted to attach an amendment to the act that read in part, "the provisions applicable to South Africa under this Act shall be equally applicable to the Soviet Union."

It is well established that the Soviets are backing South African terrorists. They also back the Nicaraguan Sandinistas. The long drawn out war in Afghanistan has been described as Soviet genocide.

We Americans finance a multi-billion dollar defense program to defend America from the Soviet Union.

So, what happened to Sen. Wallop's amendment to treat the Soviets the same way we treat South Africa?

It never had a chance in Congress. Wallop's amendment was shot down just as surely as the Korean airliner 007.

Controversial seawall tops planning agenda

By NANCY HILLS

FOUR IMPORTANT issues — the Craig McFarland seawall, a permanent water conservation ordinance, the Louise Bennett property and R-4 — will give the Carmel Planning Commission plenty to consider at its next meeting.

The commission will meet at 3 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 10 in the Carmel City Council Chambers. Each agenda item has a specific time scheduled so interested parties will not have to wait through other items. The R-4 is at 3 p.m., Bennett property at 4:30 p.m., water ordinance 5:15 p.m. and the McFarland Seawall at 6 p.m.

THE CONTROVERSIAL Craig McFarland seawall repairs come before the Carmel Planning Commission at 6 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 10 in Carmel City Council Chambers. The commission voted in September not to require an EIR on the repairs and will make a final determination on that decision at the meeting.

McFarland Seawall

THE COMMISSION is scheduled to make its final determination on requiring an environmental impact report (EIR) for repairs on the fiberform wall located at the north end of Carmel Beach. The commission could also make determination at the meeting to allow the project to proceed.

The commissioners voted on Sept. 24 to waive the EIR on using two- to three-ton rocks — called loose rip-rap — to shore up the foundation along the northernmost portion of the seawall.

Environmental concerns addressed by a planning staff report and residents include the effects of the rip-rap on wave action and erosion patterns, loss of beach area to rock and a change in the appearance of Carmel Beach.

In response, Myron Etienne, McFarland's attorney, and Carl Hooper of Bestor Engineers, designer of the seawall and the planned repairs, maintain that all the environmental concerns are mitigated or corrected by the project.

McFarland has also agreed to maintain the wall, release the city from any liability and improve its appearance through landscaping, Etienne said. He will also deed a portion of the beach which he now owns to the city.

An 80-foot portion of the 220-foot wall rests on sand and gravel rather than bedrock like the rest of the structure. The loose rip-rap is supposed to press against the sand and hold it in place, according to Hooper.

Because an easement for the section of beach where the rip-rap will be placed was granted to the city in 1962, the staff will request the that the commission approve the project, but that McFarland should apply for an encroachment permit from the city council.

A 30-day public comment period followed the planning commission's decision for citizens to respond to the "negative declaration" on the EIR.

During that time, the city received letters and a petition with 28 names requesting the commission require the EIR. Public controversy is one criteria for mandating an EIR.

The state Office of Planning and Research took an additional 30 days to distribute the public notice to state agencies.

The commission's vote overturned the previous planning commission's October 1985 decision to require an EIR on the repairs. The Carmel City Council upheld that decision when it was appealed in December 1985.

McFarland again appealed the decision this past August, this time to the new council. The council returned the appeal to the planning commission, which in a 4-2 vote, decided not to require an EIR.

The commissioners who voted against the EIR — Olof Dahlstrand, Ed Hicks, Fred Keeble and Bruce Roberts — all stated they did not like the wall but it was already in place and an EIR would not change that fact. There was no other way to effect the repairs, they felt.

Chairman Ken White and Commissioner Carla Ramsey cast the dissenting votes, stating they felt there was "substantial doubt" about the effect the repairs would have on wave action, the beach, and bluffs next to the wall.

A later geotechnical report on the wall revealed that the north end, next to Pescadero Creek and Canyon, rests on sand and gravel rather than bedrock. Hooper proposed digging a trench along the endangered portion of the wall and filling it with the loose rip-rap which to press against the sand and gravel and hold it in place.

The rip-rap, according to the application, when in place would be no greater than 10-feet wide at the base, eight feet at the crest and reach a height no greater than medium sand level.

In a report to the commission, the planning staff outlined the city's concern about the wall which were answered by McFarland's attorney.

• The rock will creep seaward, exposing the wall foundation and requiring additional rock be added until settling is complete.

A report by consultant Rogers Johnson, the firm that made the repairs on the beach bluffs for the city, states the rock could be expected to move two to three feet forward for every vertical foot until the settling is complete. Until the migration stops, additional rock would have to be added next to the wall.

The report adds that the migration would probably be most severe during storm conditions, a time repairs would be difficult or impossible and when the wall would be most in danger of collapse.

Etienne and Hooper said they believed the forward movement would not be that great and that McFarland agreed to maintain the wall. Etienne has proposed that the seawall's height be checked no later than Sept. 30 of each year and new rock added no later than Oct. 30 of the same year.

• The repairs could create unstable earth conditions and/or changes in geologic substructures.

Etienne states the reason for the repairs is to correct unstable conditions that exist now, and therefore, the repairs would mitigate this concern.

The staff report states that the "excavation of the trench may weaken the soils" underneath the wall and "the nature of any impact resulting from this action is unknown."

• Impacts from wind and wave action could be increased by the presence of the rock.

Again, Etienne states the project is to mitigate the effects of wind and wave action. Furthermore, he wrote, as proposed and designed, the project will avoid the effects, making them insignificant. Etienne asked that the commission find that the project will reduce erosion.

The staff report states that the effects of the "lateral surging of waves and the creation of eddy currents created by the rip-rap" have not been fully studied.

It was the possible effects of the rip-rap on wave action that Jean Grace, a coastal geographer and chairwoman of the beach task force, expressed concern about to the commission Sept. 24.

Grace told the commission she felt the waves striking the rip-rap would increase in speed and intensity, creating a whiplash effect. That could increase the erosion on properties to the south of the wall, she said.

Grace added that the size rock planned for the project has been known to be "thrown over seawalls" by heavy surf.

• The rock will change the flow of Pescadero Creek coming out of Pescadero Canyon.

Etienne cites the reports of both Bestor Engineers and Rogers Johnson which state that the stream will only be changed from eight to 20 feet out of the 100 feet it already meanders.

That conclusion, the staff reports states, is "substantially correct" according to current information, but it also has not been fully studied.

Carmel resident Virginia Atkinson addressed the commission with much the same concern on Sept. 24. Atkinson said she wondered if the Pebble Beach golf course's tenth green would be undermined by the change in the stream's flow.

• The rocks would result in a loss of beach area, impede pedestrian foot traffic and change the appearance of the beach.

Most of the rock, according to Hooper, would be beneath the sand. As the sand level changes, a portion of rock will be exposed from zero to four to five feet above sand level, Etienne wrote the city.

Additionally, McFarland has offered to deed a portion of the beach in front of the wall to the city to make up for any loss of beach area.

The staff, however, states that the rip-rap will result in a permanent loss of beach and the deeded land has already been used by the public for a number of years. Deeding the land will not make up for the loss of the Council extends building ban, with changes

By NANCY HILLS

IT WAS quick, but not necessarily painless.

The Carmel City Council voted Dec. 1 to extend an urgency ordinance that bans building or new businesses that increase water usage.

One substantial change which permits additional remodeling in existing residences and two additional refinements, one a termination clause, were voted into the ordinance by the council. Otherwise the ordinance remained the same as the one approved in September.

A form of the ordinance approved Dec. 1 was first passed in August when the city of Carmel was told that it had used 99.99 percent of its annual water allocation from the Monterey Peninsula Water Management district from July 1, 1985 to June 30, 1986, the "water year."

A permanent version of the ordinance will be reviewed by the Carmel Planning Commission at 5:15 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 10 in Carmel City Council Chambers.

If the planning commission approves the permanent ordinance, it will go to the city council. If the commission approves it on Dec. 10, the council will receive it in January. All permanent ordinances that affect land use must first be reviewed by the planning commission.

However, the permanent ordinance that will be brought to the planning commission is not planned to have any major differences from the urgency ordinance approved Dec. 1, Staff Planner Brian Roseth said.

One addition to the permanent ordinance the council requested be added for consideration is mandated retrofitting to low-flow shower heads by Carmel hostelries within six months.

THE COUNCIL approved a major change in the urgency ordinance to allow structural additions, such as bathrooms or kitchens, in existing residences if the property is retrofited below existing city and state standards. That would include installing ultra-low water use toilets, 1.5-gallon per flush. Water use saved by removal of existing water fixtures interior or exterior and retrofitting can be applied to adding new water fixtures. This allows the addition of new bathrooms and kitchens, previously prohibited by the urgency ordinance.

The provision applies to the same property only. All construction worth more than $5,000 requires retrofitting of water fixtures, but the standard is 3.5-gallon toilets.

The standard used by the city to determine water use will be the same as used by the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District.

Previously, the ordinance stated no increase in water fixtures would be allowed. The new provision permits remodeling of residences that had been prohibited by the "no increase in fixtures" rule.

The district uses a water-use value for each type of fixture to determine if water use will be increased.

The council added the provision to relieve "hardship cases" such as one resident who told the council she could not sell her home until the finance company was satisfied that another bathroom could be added to the house.

In tears, Barbara Mosieur told the council she needed the money from the sale to help care for her seriously ill mother.

Still prohibited are business licenses or use permits that increase water use, floor space or the number of shops.

THE TWO additions to the ordinance are a bi-monthly review of water consumption in the city and a "sunset clause" which would terminate the ordinance if the water management district abandons its water allocation system.

The city has filed a lawsuit against the water management district over the allocation system which divides the available water supply among the seven political jurisdictions within the district's boundaries.

The suit claims that the allocation system involves the water district in illegal land use planning and that it should have come under the California Environmental Quality Act

Council agenda overloaded with city parking issues

"We heavily endorse this project to maintain the banks along Scenic Drive," she said. "We hope you will respect the wishes of the community."

• The coucil received a report from Police Chief John McGilvray on tour bus parking and routing.

The report explored possible options for allowing tour buses to spend more time in Carmel without driving out of town after dropping passengers off at the Carmel Plaza on Junipero Avenue.

Currently tour buses are allowed to wait 20 minutes in one of the parking slots on the west side of Junipero Avenue between Ocean and Seventh avenues. The council approved 3-2 (with Wright and Councilman Bob Fischer dissenting) a policy which would allow this time period to be expanded to one hour.

The council also unanimously approved a policy which would allow the city to convert some existing parking places now used for cars into spaces that would be used exclusively for buses.

The two policy statements will be forwarded to the city traffic committee for further evaluation.

PARKING, OR the lack of it, dominated the Dec. 2 meeting of the Carmel City Council. At least six items on the agenda Tuesday involved parking and/or traffic problems in the city.

Comments sought on Del Monte land use plan

THE MONTEREY County Board of Supervisors will be considering several amendments to the Del Monte Forest Area Coastal Land Use Plan at its Dec. 16 meeting and is now accepting written comments regarding the proposed changes.

The primary change in the land use plan concerns Holman Highway with regard to the Spanish Bay project.

In receiving its use permit for building the deluxe hotel-golf course complex in Spanish Bay, the Pebble Beach Co. agreed to build an additional access to the project at Haul Road and Highway 68 near Pacific Grove.

The completion of the Spanish Bay project is expected to load an additional 100 car trips each day on Highway 68, according to Pebble Beach Co. representative Candy Ingram..

Now, in order get a more accurate appraisal of the actual impact of traffic coming and going from the resort, the county is suggesting that the additional entrance be delayed to "within three years after occupancy of the Spanish Bay Hotel."

beach area, the staff contends.

The appearance of the rock will change seasonally as the sand level rises and falls, according to the staff report, and there is a concern that during high tide, access to the northern end of the beach will be cut off.

• Truck traffic to deliver the rock will disturb the neighborhood — particularly in Pebble Beach where the rock will have to be transported through.

Etienne states that the rock will require only 50 or 60 truckloads, spread over four or five days of work. That will have an imperceptible effect and impact on traffic, he wrote.

The staff report disagrees with that contention, stating that 50 or 60 truckloads will have a major impact on traffic in Del Monte Forest. The staff has suggested conditions to help reduce the effects of the truck delivery.

Water ordinance

THE PLANNING Commission will consider the permanent water use ordinance at 5:15 p.m. at the Dec. 10 meeting (see related story this issue). The date was previously reported in The Carmel Pine Cone as Dec. 17.

The ordinance will be much the same as the urgency ordinance approved by the Carmel City Council on Dec. 1. One provision that will be discussed is retrofitting of all hotel and motel shower heads to low-flow fixtures within six months.

Bennett property

A SPECIFIC plan workshop will be conducted at 4:30 p.m., Wednesday, Dec. 10 on the development of the 56,000 square foot Louise Bennett property located between San Carlos and Dolores streets at Third Avenue.

The property contains many mature trees, is a major natural drainage site and has a few lots on over 30 percent slopes.

Attorney George Brehmer, representing the property owners, has requested the development of 11 residential lots on the site. The plan was developed by Carl Hooper of Bestor Engineers.

The development would require the water course be diverted through a channel or underground pipeline and some of the lots would require fill dirt to be developed.

As directed by the planning commission on Nov. 5, the planning staff has developed "building footprints" for the 11 lots to avoid the removal of as many trees as possible. Brehmer protested the "footprints," saying that it would constrain the creativity of the architects.

At the Nov. 5 meeting neighbors of the undeveloped property protested the number of lots proposed, expressed concern over flooding that had occured in the area and the loss of the wildlife which frequently visits the area.

They also expressed concern that the development would increase traffic and parking in the area, a problem, they said, that has been growing over the years.

A 1985 plan proposed five lots for site, but the planning commission gave its tacit approval of the 11-lot development proposed by Brehmer. The property contains 14 legal lots of record.

Primary concerns the commission will address are:

• The drainage and natural flooding of the area.

• Tree removal. Gary Kelly, city forester, has identified 57 significant trees on the property. The commission will review the "building footprints" proposed by the planning staff and the impact on the trees.

• Density. The commission has not officially approved the 11-lot proposal, though commissioners Olof Dahlstrand and Fred Keeble in particular advocated the smaller but more numerous lots.

• Lot coverage and building size.

R-4

THE ONGOING saga of the R-4 district will continue in a workshop planned for 3 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 10.

The commission will go on a tour, beginning at 3 p.m., to observe the area and other projects with various designs, building densities, open space and building size. When it returns, the workshop will begin.

Staff Planner Brian Roseth said the commission hopes to establish maximum densities for the R-4 during the meeting, and if the commission gets far enough along, a public hearing will be scheduled for January.

The two major potential development sites are Tom Handley's Hayward Lumber yard between Junipero Avenue and Torres Street and the "lower lumberyard," owned by Bob Murphy, on Junipero and Fourth.

The commission will address:

• Density. Alan Williams, representing Handley and Murphy, has stated he believes that a density of 66 units is needed to make development of the property economically feasible.

The commission is considering varying the density from a lower density on Torres Street side of R-4 which borders the residential district to a higher one on the Junipero Avenue side.

• Expansion of commercial uses. Right now, the commisson is allowing most of the commercial uses allowed in the residential-commercial district, which is primarily service-oriented. Motels are prohibited. No retail business has been allowed, except the current businesses located in the area.

• Views. Preservation of public views of Point Lobos are under discussion.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

The Mid Carmel Valley Fire Protection District will hold a Public Hearing on the proposed adoption of an Ordinance updating the Uniform Fire Code and Uniform Fire Code Standards to the 1985 editions.

The Board of Directors, in accordance with Section 13869 of the Health & Safety Code of the State of California, set the Public Hearing by Board action at their Regular Meeting on November 19, 1986.

The Public Hearing is scheduled for: Wednesday, December 17, 1986, 7:30 p.m. Mid Carmel Valley Fire Department, 8455 Carmel Valley Road, Carmel, CA 93923. (408) 624-5907.

The public is invited to attend the Public Hearing to present comments on the proposed ordinance.

Copies of the ordinance are available to all interested citizens of the Fire District, and three copies of the 1985 Uniform Fire Code and Standards are available for review at the Fire Department. Copies of the proposed ordinance will be mailed if a self-addressed, stamped legal size envelope is provided with the request.

All written comments sent by mail and received by the Fire District before 5:00 p.m., December 17, 1986 will be presented to the Board of Directors at the time of the Public Hearing.

This notice is published in accordance with District Policy.

Endangered bird species complicates new dam issue

By NANCY HILLS

RETAINING bond counsel and financial advisors for the proposed San Clemente dam and a report on endangered species of bird will top the agenda of the next Monterey Peninsula Water Management District board meeting.

The water board will meet at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Dec. 8 in the Monterey City Council Chambers.

Continuing in its pursuit of the proposed dam, the water board will vote to retain the services of the firm Orrick, Herrington and Sutcliffe as counsel for the public bond issue on the dam.

If retained, the San Francisco-based firm will review the proposed financing and rate each proposal the board will consider bringing to the voters.

Another San Francisco-based financial firm, Sutro, if retained, would develop the proposals and financing for the bond.

The board will also hear a report on the Least Bell's Vireo, a small bird which is on the endangered species list and was last spoted on the Monterey Peninsula in 1981. The spotting was what is considered to be a vagrant male.

The bird also has a habitat in East Pinnacles, 30 miles away and prefers conditions similar to the proposed dam site.

The dam is scheduled for an "advisory vote" in November 1987.

Henrietta Stern of the water district explained that according to Section 7 of the federal Endangered Species Act, the water district must develop a biological assessment on the species and its relationship to the dam site.

The assessment not only must include a determination if the Vireo is present at the site, but also if the site is a potential habitat. Since re-establishing the species is also an issue, destruction of potential habitats must be investigated.

The same species, of which it is reported by U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service there are only 300 left, has hindered development of the Pamo Dam in San Diego and the Gibraltar Dam in Santa Barbara while those cities negotiate with USFWS.

However, since the bird lives primarily in Southern California and the reservoir would produce conditions like the vireo's preferred habitat, it is not expected to halt the San Clemente Dam project.

Four other species, including a lizard and three plants, are also listed for potential biological assessments at the dam site by the district. They, however, are not on the endangered species list, but are candidates for that honor.

Third screening of dam alternatives set for Dec. 10

THE MONTEREY Peninsula Water Management District board will conduct its third screening of alternatives to the proposed San Clemente Dam at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 10 in the Monterey City Council Chambers.

Federal regulations require that all "feasible" water supply alternatives be analyzed at an equal level of detail in an environmental impact report (EIR) and the federal environmental impact statement (EIS).

The board will review the six individual and/or combination alternatives that passed the secondary screening on Oct. 30. The projects will be assessed for environmental performance as well as additional water supply yield and economic criteria.

Two smaller sizes of the San Clemente dam along with increased pumping in Carmel Valley and Seaside aquifers will also be considered. A 10,000-acre foot off-channel Chupines Creek dam combined with increased pumping is another alternative.

Varying sizes of the San Clemente dam from 24,000 acre feet to 29,000 acre feet will be considered as single projects.

Non-dam alternatives combined in various ways include conservation and increased pumping of the upper Carmel Valley aquifer and Seaside aquifer and dredging of the existing Los Padres Dam.

(CEQA) when instituted in 1981. That means it would have required an EIR.

If the water district abandons the water allocation system due to the lawsuit or any other reason, the urgency ordinance would terminate.

Roseth explained to the council that the ordinance would only terminate if the allocation system was eliminated and not if the city received more water in its allotment because more water could still be used up and the city would be back where it started.

The water district can impose a water meter permit moratorium on the city if the allocation is exceeded. It is that situation the city council tried to avoid by approving the urgency ordinance in August, hoping to reduce or at least maintain the same level of consumption in the city. Unless the allocation system is abandoned, the city could face the same problem again, Roseth said.

Additionally, water use figures audited after August show that Carmel had actually used 104 percent of its allocation, but the water district has not imposed a moratorium on the city and legally is not required to review the water use again until August of next year.

However, water consumption for the past three months has stayed under 100 percent.

In the meantime, the water management district is reviewing the allocation system with representatives from the planning departments of its political jurisdictions. The Technical Advisory Committee (TAC), has met twice to determine if the allocation should be changed and will meet again Dec. 18. No major decisions have been reached yet.

The Policy Advisory Committee (PAC), elected officials of the jurisdictions, will meet directly after the TAC on the same day to vote for recommendations to the water district board. The water district board plans to consider those recommendations in January.

General plan group to meet Dec. 5

THE GENERAL Plan Committee will meet to review Carmel's general plan and ordinances 3:30 p.m., Friday, Dec. 5 in Carmel City Council Chambers.

The committee meets at 3:30 p.m. every Friday to work on recommendations for revising the general plan and its enabling ordinances. Those recommendations will be reviewed in public hearing before the Carmel Planning Commission.

The committee is currently reviewing the ordinance which mandates building regulations in the residential district.

By DAVID LELAND

WHILE CARMELITES may only dream of a white Christmas with the summer weather that abounds, they can still celebrate in joyous tradition this weekend in Carmel.

The festivities begin at 5 p.m. Friday, Dec. 5, in front of the Carmel Plaza (on the corner of Junipero and Ocean avenues), where a redwood tree will be strung with lights.

Joining the public works department, who will light the tree, will be Mayor Clint Eastwood. Eastwood will present 12 awards for the winners of the best dressed store window contest sponsored by the Carmel Business Association.

There will also be caroling, with Santa Claus scheduled to arrive by fire engine at about 5:30 p.m.

The city's official Christmas celebration, an old-fashioned Christmas singalong and party, will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 6, at Sunset Center, located on San Carlos Street and Eighth Avenue.

After an opening statement by Mayor Clint Eastwood and an invocation by Rev. Charles Anker of Carmel's Church of the Wayfarer, the singing will begin.

A choir of about 30 voices from the city's church choirs and other volunteers will offer well-known music of the Christmas season. On some of these selections the audience will be asked to join in song. (See tear-out section in this issue of The Pine Cone for words.)

In addition to choral music, Boy Scouts from the Carmel area will decorate the Christmas tree in the lobby of the Sunset Center for the event.

Residents are urged to bring canned goods to place under the tree for distribution by the Salvation Army, or a toy that is marked for a particular age group.

School children from Carmel Schools have been putting their artistic talents to work in past few weeks drawing holiday pictures, which will also be hung in the lobby of Sunset Center with the Christmas tree.

The afternoon will be highlighted by a visit from Saint Nick at 4 p.m., who will bring candy canes for the youngsters and holiday spirit for all.

Lighting the tree of life

REP. LEON Panetta of Carmel Valley, honorrary chairman of Hospice of the Monterey Peninsula, was on hand Monday to light the Hospice Tree of Life (on top of the Monterey Sheraton) at ceremonies held at Portola Plaza in Monterey. The tree is made up of 2,600 individual lights, all representing and in memory of family and friends who have died. The Santa Catalina Upper School Chorus performed for those attending the ceremonies. (Holly McFarland photo.)

CV property owners to meet Dec. 10

THE CARMEL Valley Property Owners Association will discuss the Carmel Valley Master Plan — among other items — at its monthly meeting next Wednesday.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 10 at St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church, Robinson Canyon Road off Carmel Valley Road in Carmel Valley.

Weihnachtsmarkt

Every year on December 6, there's a St. Nicholas Day celebration at the Barnyard. Just like an old European-Style weihnachtsmarkt, the merchants set their wares on open-air tables, clowns and jugglers, musicians and singers entertain while delicious smells come from the restaurants and bakeries.

As dusk approaches, anticipation grows and the crowd senses that St. Nicholas is on his way. Suddenly, appearing from the darkness, the looming figure rides into the center coutyard on his great white horse. He raises his golden staff, and as if by magic, the magnificent Christmas tree explodes into color, festive lights blaze from every rooftop as a choir joins in song.

Truly this is one of the most memorable Christmas celebrations anywhere and a tradition that children and adults will always remember.

ROCK SINGER Ike Turner (left), entered Carmel's Brightside ACT Center slightly more than a month ago for cocaine addiction treatment. He said at a press conference Monday that drugs are a thing of the past and he will spend much of his time lecturing young people on its perils. Mark Willison, public relations director for the treatment center, looks on. (Nancy Hills photo.)

Ike Turner is singing a different tune these days

By DAVID LELAND

A MONTH ago rock singer Ike Turner spent each day doing whatever it took to keep his pipe filled with cocaine. But today a drug-free Turner is singing a different tune — it's a song he wants to sing for the world.

After completing a 28-day program at Brightside ACT Center, an alcohol and drug recovery center in Carmel, Turner's outlook on life appears to be a far cry from the hell of addiction which he described to reporters earlier this week.

"I wish I could give everybody what I feel today," said Turner, former husband and singing partner of rock singer Tina Turner. "I'm on top of the world."

Speaking at a press conference celebrating his graduation from Brightside, Turner told of his downward spiral into the world of drug addiction, which began for him in 1970.

Turner, 55, said he began snorting cocaine but quickly found himself smoking freebase, which is made by combining ether with cocaine to bake out the impurities. This makes the high more intense than snorting, but the effect of the drug lasts less than 10 minutes. Then, the addict craves more.

"I was lost," said Turner, who wouldn't venture how much money he had spent on coke in the past 16 years. "I was in hell."

Part of the descent for Turner was the separation in 1976 from his wife Tina. The two had been performing together since 1960, when they recorded A Fool In Love. They also recorded their rendition of Creedence Clearwater's Proud Mary, which gave them instant fame and recognition.

After the breakup, Turner was constantly reminded of his ex-wife by her continued popularity, which included her hit song What's Love Got to Do With It. His addiction increased. The news media tried to get him to respond to his pain, but he declined.

"I was afraid of being rejected by the public," he said. "I was just existing. I didn't want to fight what she said."

Recently, Tina Turner released her best-selling autobiography, I, Tina, which describes Ike Turner as a tyrant and wife abuser.

Turner added that he had sent his ex-wife a birthday card in November, but had not heard from her. "I'm still her friend," he said.

In relating his experience with drugs, Turner said nothing could stop his use, except for two brief periods when they were unavailable. One instance involved a trip to Australia for 15 days, where drugs could not be found. Another time found Turner serving a 17-day drug-related jail sentence in Los Angeles in the 1970s.

Turner said he was not even deterred from freebasing when, in 1975, he caught on fire while preparing his mixture. The accident resembled a one similar to comedian Richard Pryor's, which caused Pryor third-degree burns over much of his body.

Turner said the incident happened after putting two ounces of cocaine in a fruit juice bottle and then putting the ether in before the water.

"I knew better," he said.

This resulted in an explosion, which caught Turner's clothes on fire. He was able to extinguish the flames by wrapping himself in carpet. He began freebasing again immediately after the fire was put out.

•

BUT ALL of that is behind him now, Turner said, for him the future will be drug-free.

"I'm going to be an example for myself and anyone that's got a problem," Turner said.

Turner added the withdrawal process was not as painful as he'd expected. The first two days were hard, he said, but then it was a "joke."

It remains to be seen how big a joke life is for Turner outside of the protective environment of the treatment center. A fact that Turner acknowledged.

"I'm scared. They make you go," he said. "I've learned more here than in my whole life."

Brightside charges $7,900 for its resident program, which has three phases. The patient's needs are assessed upon arrival; then he is detoxified and then attends lectures, counseling and Alcoholics Anonymous meetings for the remainder of his stay.

The recovery center also offers a two-year program for guidance and support.

Turner's plans now include a concert tour, acting in a movie and talking to others about the perils of drug addiction.

Turner has become a spokesperson for the Los Angeles-based anti-drug Blast the Habit Now foundation, according to Nicole Aviv, Turner's manager. Aviv was also responsible for taking Turner to Brightside and entering him into recovery.

"I didn't even know I was addicted," Turner said.

Turner said part of the message he will give to young people when he lectures is that it's OK to seek help for your problems.

"I've never met a baser who didn't want to stop," he said. "You can't find one who's successful."

Turner said Aviv persuaded him do something with his talent. It was drugs, she said, that were keeping him from success.

Making up for lost time, Turner said he has written five songs while in Brightside and will begin performing next month in Chicago.

His performance at the Fantasy Club in Chicago, Dec. 14, with his six-member band, will mark Turner's first stage appearance since 1981. His last concert joined him with singer Chaka Khan at the Bonaventure Hotel in Los Angeles.

Turner will also travel to Moscow this spring to appear in a movie.

But first and foremost Turner said he plans to keep off drugs.

"The high I looked for in drugs wasn't there, it was in me," he said of his newfound life. "I have a lot to give and I plan to give it to the world."

News notes:

Laub files answer to city lawsuit

A "WITCH hunt" is what Carmel businessman Paul Laub has characterized the city of Carmel's lawsuit against him in a reply filed with the Monterey Superior Court Dec. 3.

The city's lawsuit requests an accounting of Laub's businesses in Paradise Mall on the corner of Ocean Avenue and Dolores Street. A hearing is set for Jan. 9.

The city has maintained in its lawsuit that Laub is illegally using portions of the basement building for retail and that there is no active business license for some of Laub's businesses at that location, including "Clintville," which specializes in Clint Eastwood paraphernalia.

In the lengthy 12-page response to the city's suit, Laub states that the case should dismissed, that the allegation by the city is "clearly sham, false and frivolous," and that he has a special license for the building.

Laub, who characterizes himself as the "highest profile businessman in Carmel," also claims to have paid "every penny" of his business taxes and that his books have been reviewed by the city as recently as August 1986.

The reply also contains a list of past actions the city has taken against Laub, including the removal of Christmas lights and his own suit over in-lieu parking fees.

College/career center schedules final 'talk'

THE COLLEGE/Career Center at Carmel High School has scheduled the final "college talk," information on various colleges, at the center.

The center, which aids students and parents in the college application process, is open Monday through Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. and is staffed by trained volunteers.

The final college represented will be Boston University at 9 a.m. Friday, Dec. 5.

Carmel Fire Dept. accepting toys for the needy

THE CARMEL Fire Department began its annual drive to raise food and toys for needy families on the Monterey Peninsula this Christmas.

The annual drive began Nov. 28 and will continue until Christmas Eve. The fire department will be accepting donations in the form of canned and non-perishable foods, workable toys, money and other appropriate gifts. The donated items will be distributed by the Salvation Army.

Donations may be dropped off between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. at Carmel Fire Station on Sixth Street between San Carlos and Mission.

THE 10TH annual lighting of the Carmel Valley Christmas tree will be held Friday at the Mid Carmel Valley Fire Station on Carmel Valley Road.

An open house will be held starting at 6 p.m. Friday, Dec. 5 at the fire station, with the tree lighting to take place between 6:30 and 7 p.m. Refreshments will be served following the ceremonies.

The 40-foot Christmas tree itself, which is located on the south side of Carmel Valley on Saddle Mountain and is visible for miles in each direction, will be "lighted" by William "Bill" Brown, one of the founding members of the Mid Carmel Valley Fire District.

The volunteers of the fire department have maintained the tree and sponsored the tree lighting since 1976.

The event is open to the public and is free. For more information call 624-5907.

Red Cross to hold blood drive Dec. 11

WITH THE spirit of giving in the air during the holidays, the Carmel Red Cross and Community Hospital has decided to hold a blood drive next Thursday.

The December Blood Drive will be held from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 11 at the American Legion Hall, corner of Eighth and Dolores in Carmel.

Lunch and beverages will be served to all doners. For more information contact the Red Cross at 624-6921.

Carmel Red Cross conducts classes in CPR techniques

IN 1986 650,000 people in the United States will die from heart attacks ... fully three-quarters of those attacks will happen at home.

Cardiopulmonary resuscitation, commonly called CPR, saves approximately 250 lives every day in the United States.

With that in mind the Carmel-by-the-Sea chapter of the American Red Cross has launched a campaign to train as many people as possible in CPR techniques.

These classes will teach new standards in CPR techniques, as well as choking rescue techniques — the famed Heimlich maneuver — according to Phil Gray, chapter publicity chairman.

The classes, including demonstrations and lectures, require about four hours to complete. Trained Red Cross CPR instructors will conduct the courses.

Those completing the CPR course will be awarded with Red Cross certificates. Class size, however, is limited. For more information, or to register, call 624-6921.

Hearings on Hatton freeway EIS set to begin

By DAVID LELAND

THE ENVIRONMENTAL impact statement (EIS) for the proposed Hatton Canyon Freeway suggests five alternatives which could meet traffic needs along Highway 1 near Carmel. Strengths and weaknesses of these options will be discussed at a public hearing next week.

The hearing is scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 11, at Carmel Middle School, located on Carmel Valley Road approximately one mile east of Highway 1. The Middle School gym will be open from 4 to 6 p.m. for a pre-hearing map showing, with state transportation staff available for questions.

The 200-plus page EIS, issued by the state Department of Transportation (Caltrans,) concerns itself with the area beginning 0.3 miles south of the Carmel River extending north to Route 68.

The EIS addresses the following factors in evaluating the five freeway options: cost, transportation need, floodplain impacts, noise, natural resources, traffic congestion and aesthetic impacts.

All five proposals have adverse effects on the canyon's wildlife, with the more extensive plans eliminating portions of Monterey Pine forest, wildlife habitat, prime farmland and Hickman's onion, a rare onion found only in Monterey and one area in San Luis Obispo County.

But the EIS does offer mitigation measures to offset some of the adverse construction impacts. These include a project design to reduce cuts and fills to minimize impacts on wildlife; replanting disturbed areas with native vegetation; preserving the largest population of Hickman's onion and design changes to minimize floodplain encroachment.

For those unable to attend the Dec. 11 meeting, Caltrans will be accepting written comments until Jan. 11 at its office in San Luis Obispo.

THIS AERIAL photo shows where Caltrans plans to realign Highway 1 to accomodate the proposed Hatton Canyon Freeway, if approved. The $22.9 million project will be open for public hearings at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, Dec. 11 at Carmel Middle School.

OF THE five alternatives proposed by Caltrans in the EIS, two are endorsed as best meeting the considerable traffic needs of the area.

The EIS figures show more than 30,000 vehicles a day use the Highway 1 route, which makes it one of the most heavily traveled two-lane highways in the state.

As a result of this congestion, this portion of Highway 1 has become unsafe for motorists, especially those driving in the two-lane section of the road. In a three-year study, figures showed of 262 accidents in the proposed project limits, 169 occured in the two-lane section with 93 in the four-lane section.

Of these accidents, 83 involved injuries and three collisions were fatal.

Caltrans forecasts by the year 2000 traffic will have increased to 42,500 cars traveling daily between Carmel Valley Road and Ocean Avenue.

With this in mind, Caltrans suggests two similar projects in the EIS. Both have identical adverse impacts and both would promote safety, only the cost and three lanes separates the two.

The Hatton Canyon option (which is the original plan) would place Highway 1 on a new alignment east of the existing highway. The $22.9 million project would also extend the existing four-lane freeway from Highway 68 south to Carmel Valley Road and would widen the Carmel River Bridge by 44 feet.

Further, it would have interchanges at Carpenter Street and Carmel Valley Road. South of Carmel Valley Road, the freeway would continue as a two-lane highway with a separated Rio Road crossing to one-tenth of a mile south of Carmel River.

The other recommended option is a combination of the Hatton Canyon Highway, which also widens the existing three lanes. The price tag on this construction is $25.6 million.

The combined option would require the county to pay $2.7 million for the widening portion of the construction

The three existing alternatives named in the EIS involve widening the road by either three, four or six lanes. While all of these cost less than the two projects recommended by Caltrans, none sufficiently meets transportation needs.

Not only that, it appears that widening the road would further increase noise impacts as well as showing adverse impacts on aesthetics of the area.

Caltrans figures show the widening of the highway to three lanes would cost $2.7 million; four lanes $3.1 million and six lanes $8.2 million.

The EIS also shows a "no-build" option. While this would cost nothing, the transportation needs would not be met and state-allocated funds may disappear and not return in the future.

If the Hatton Canyon Freeway option is selected, construction would begin around 1990 and take about two years, according to Ken Jones, Caltrans engineer and Hatton Canyon team leader.

Carmel-by-the-Sea

CONTROVERSY HAS permeated the Hatton Canyon Freeway since Monterey County first adopted plans for widening the existing highway to four lanes 30 years ago.

While neither proponents nor opponents question the need for improvement along the 2.8-mile stretch of road, conflict centers on the questions of alignment and funding.

Opposition to alignment has come from three groups in Carmel: the Committee to Protect and Preserve the Carmel Area; the Hatton Canyon Freeway Committee and the Save Hatton Canyon Committee. All three are concerned with the environmental aspects of realigning the highway, primarily the destruction of Monterey Pine trees.

Carmel itself has swung both ways since the 1970s, when it first requested that the Hatton Canyon alternative be expedited. It was joined in this request by Monterey County.

In the mid-70s, Monterey County contributed $1 million for construction of the Hatton Canyon alternative, if it was initiated prior to the 1979-80 fiscal year. One year later, the county withdrew its offer due to lack of funds.

And, in 1978, Carmel changed its stance and requested that Hatton Canyon be excluded from Highway 1 improvement proposals.

But in 1983 Caltrans agreed to fund the highway after local agencies agreed on the project.

It is hoped, the EIS states, that improvements on Highway 1 will reduce accidents; reduce congestion; cut travel time; slightly improve air quality and provide increased accessibility for bicyclists and pedestrians from Carmel High School.

CV Master Plan hearings continue on Tuesday, Dec. 9

THE MONTEREY County Board of Supervisors will continue its hearings on the Carmel Valley Master Plan when it convenes next week.

The board will meet to consider the plan at 1:30 p.m., Tuesday, Dec. 9., in the supervisors chambers at the county courthouse in Salinas.

At its Nov. 25 meeting, the board heard public testimony regarding the plan. The public hearing was closed after this session, but the supervisors said they would still accept written responses until Monday.

It is expected the board will begin sorting out several nagging issues at its Dec. 9 gathering. Among these problems are the fate of the Odello property, water and transportation.

Sue Hutchinson Eastwood's right-hand 'man'

By DAVID LELAND

CARMEL MAYOR Clint Eastwood may have traded in his .44 Magnum for a gavel but he remains protected with aide Sue Hutchinson. Call her a "hired gun."

'There is such a great deal of people trying to talk with him (Eastwood) that it makes it difficult for anyone to talk with him,' said reporter Tom Keane of the San Francisco Chronicle. 'She seems to have been given a great deal of authority from Eastwood. She has definitely spoken for Eastwood when he was not available.'

Hutchinson, who also served as Eastwood's campaign manager in the recent mayoral election, makes sure the mayor is not disturbed by crank calls, bizarre fan mail and outlandish requests.

"People call up and ask for huge sums of money (from Eastwood)," said Hutchinson, in her deep, gravelly voice. "They also ask if he can get them out of jail." Hutchinson said she is also suprised how many "cousins" the mayor has.

Hutchinson arrives at Carmel City Hall each morning and sets up shop in the mayor's office, which she shares with him. Although she works in a city office, Hutchinson is paid by Eastwood.

"She's on my payroll. There's no reason for the taxpayers to take on the burden of my profile," Eastwood explained.

Both Eastwood and Hutchinson declined to discuss salary.

Whatever the reasons the easygoing Eastwood hired Hutchinson, she brings a savvy acquired by more than 20 years of involvement in the political arena.

"She's a classic political operator," said John Davies, a fellow worker in a 1985 effort to defeat Measure A in Santa Barbara, which attempted to shut down offshore drilling facilities. "She knows how to get things done and she loves the game."

Originally from Long Beach, Hutchinson had her first taste of politics when she worked on a grass roots campaign to elect Gov. George Deukmejian to his first political seat as state assemblyman.

Throughout the '60s and '70s Hutchinson continued volunteer work and also began organizing campaign projects. Issues ranged from working for Sohio Oil in an effort to enable them to process oil at the mouth of Long Beach Harbor to mounting an inititive opposing rent control.

MAYOR CLINT Eastwood relies on aide Sue Hutchinson, here conferring in the mayor's office at city hall, to make sure the messages that get to him are important. It is a full-time job for Hutchinson to screen the mayor's mail, answer phone calls and schedule appointments. (Holly McFarland photo.)

•

HUTCHINSON SAID she is a strong advocate of less government involvement with an emphasis on private interests, a stance which appears to coincide with that of her boss.

"I think rent control is a terrible idea," she said. "It's telling you how to run your business. It's anti-private ownership."

Before joining forces with Eastwood, Hutchinson also ran the phone banks in south Los Angeles County for the 1984 re-election of President Ronald Reagan.

Her partnership with Eastwood began about a year ago when the two were introduced by a mutual friend. They clicked, but it wasn't until Eastwood decided to run for mayor of Carmel that he contacted Hutchinson to become his campaign manager.

"He wanted someone who could deal people to people," Hutchinson said.

The next few months proved to be one of the most interesting political experiments in recent history. While Hutchinson organized Eastwood's appointments, she also staved off a hungry, world press corps in search of the internationally-famous actor-turned-politician. He declined all "outside" news media requests for interviews; a few, however, did slip through.

"Usually you're trying to grab the press," Hutchinson said. But in Eastwood's campaign, the press tried to do just the opposite.

Hutchinson was also kept busy during the election days by returning donations for the Eastwood campaign, which came from as far away as Pennsylvania. Eastwood said the only contributions accepted were from the city of Carmel.

Hutchinson brings with her to Carmel a winning record of fighting tough campaigns, which increases her value. Perhaps this tenacity can be best heard the way she answered Eastwood when he asked near the end of the campaign: "What if we go this far and lose?"

"It would be tough, but no way," Hutchinson said then.

•

THE VERY nature of Hutchinson's position as Eastwood's gatekeeper creates friction between her and many people trying to get in touch with the mayor. Many accuse her of selectively weeding out those calls which she deems unimportant.

Hutchinson denies this. "The bottom line is does it have to do with Carmel," she said. "In personal versus city business, the priority is city business."

But many residents are wondering just what a private citizen, paid out of the mayor's pocket has to do with city affairs.

"You normally don't allow someone who is not bonded behind the counter (in city hall)," said former mayor Charlotte Townsend, who Eastwood defeated in April's election. "I've never heard of outsiders coming in and having access to city equipment."

Besides, Townsend said, it seems impossible to separate outside issues and city business. "She's not just handling the cinema stuff," she said.

But according to City Atty. Don Freeman any involvement Hutchinson has with the city is done on a volunteer basis. Freeman added that it is not uncommon for agencies to accept volunteer help.

Carmel: 'Greenwich Village in a frock coat'

(Editor's Note: The following piece was written by renowned World War II correspondent and Pulitzer Prize winner Ernie Pyle — 1900-1945 — for the Friday, Dec. 4, 1936 issue of the Carmel Pine Cone under the heading: "Scripps-Howard Roaming Reporter Writes About Carmel.")

By ERNIE PYLE
Reprinted from the Washington News

CARMEL YOU know, is the famous West Coast art colony. The "Greenwich Village of the Pacific," or something like that.

It is a town of 3,000, some 125 miles south of San Francisco. It is right on the ocean, and it is a charming place. Great writers and artists have lived here. And still do.

Carmel is, at least in dreams, the town of the intellectual thought and the creative instinct and the informality of genius. Anything goes in Carmel. Theoretically.

But — if you were a Carmel storekeeper with inclinations for Roosevelt, you kept your mouth shut this fall. A business man dared not say, in Carmel, that he liked Roosevelt.

And even worse, liberal thinkers here were amazed when I said there was probably no other town in America where that was true. They thought it was true everywhere.

Greenwich Village in a frock coat. Montmartre with nose glasses. Carmel, you slay me!

CARMEL IN most ways is delightful. It is slow and quiet and Mexicanish in atmosphere. There are stray trees in the middle of the streets. Lots of places don't have sidewalks. The streets at night are dark as pitch.

The beach is ashy white and smooth, the town rolls up from it; everything is under pine trees and behind thick manzanita bushes. You never see a whole house. Just angles and slices — appealingly through pretty gardens. Snowy stucco is the motif, behind green.

The architecture is a pleasant hodgepodge. Private homes are New England farm houses, and low English cottages, and beachy places, and jutting Pueblo Indians, and there's the Mexican theme, and even straight Hollywood Spanish. Nearly all are beautiful and livable looking. I have seen only two or three real mansions, and they were grotesque amid the soft quietness of the town. Their owners should be ashamed, but probably aren't.

•

CARMEL WAS started in 1903 by a San Francisco lawyer — one of those poets at heart who was frustrated by being a fine business man.

In the first days, lots were practically given away to writers and had they held onto the real-estate worm they wouldn't have to worry now.

Fred Bechdolt was one of the early gang. He has lived in Carmel for 30 years, and he isn't old yet. He writes for magazines, and calls himself a hack. He sat all afternoon and talked about the early days.

Carmel's great years, he says, were '07, '08 and '09. You had to come from Monterey by horse and buggy, the road was so terrible. The only non-geniuses in town were the storekeepers. The geniuses were sincere ones, not posers.

Such genuine people of letters as Mary Austin and George Sterling. Mary Austin wrote in a crazy platform built high up in a tree. George Sterling's fireplace was the mecca of all the spirits of Carmel, and the fountain of Sterling's own despair.

People thought what they thought, and nobody cared. The artists and writers worked three hours a day, and just lived the rest of the time. There was much social foregathering, in a fresh and simple manner.

Jack London came and went, and Upton Sinclair, Harry Leon Wilson came, and is still here. Carmel has been host to great people. Robinson Jeffers, the poet, is its present celebrity.

Then, just before the war, a different class started coming in from San Francisco. The artistic rich — the men with dough who had always wanted to paint, you know. They built nicer houses, and introduced the dinner coat into Carmel, and daubed and preened.

THE WAR was the end of old Carmel. After the war the people who retire on permanent incomes got next to Carmel. Living was cheap here, the spot almost idyllically beautiful, the climate nice. In they came, people who never belonged and never will.

Today they have almost about taken Carmel. It's a shame. And the silly part of it is, they're nice people. I met some of them, and they're grand people, except — they think the way people think who have just enough steady income to insure them nothing to do from now until death. They are status quo people. They are Hoover Republicans.

There is still, however, a great deal of liberal thought of the newer school in Carmel. Some tell me the town is now about 50-50, liberal and conservative, with a tiny fringe of out-and-out radical.

Carmel is still a lovely place — outwardly. People go slowly about their business, or lack of it. People are friendly. They say it's a good place really to work, if you want to hole up and do it. It's also a good place to have lots of friends, and cocktail parties every afternoon, and dinner jackets and bridge.

Outside of being pretty, Carmel is now about like any other small town. Plus the fact that if you're for Roosevelt the pensioners are liable to buy elsewhere.

(P.S. — Carmel did go Democratic this year, by the skin of its teeth, but only a few will admit their votes.)

Townsend said that many people who are used to intimate contact with the mayor's office in Carmel have become disoriented with the change in administration and Hutchinson's screening tactics.

In fact, some people in Carmel have taken to calling Hutchinson the "stunt mayor" due to the number of times she fills in for Eastwood.

Townsend said many elderly residents still come to her in emergencies for answers to questions on the city when they cannot get in touch with Eastwood.

"People call me at home and ask my advice," Townsend said. "They don't know where to turn."

Indeed, it appears that a small price for voters in electing Eastwood (by a 3-1 margin) is the fact that he is the only mayor on the peninsula, according to Townsend, who keeps an unlisted phone number.

Even though the election is over, Eastwood remains the object of attention for the media. Part of Hutchinson's job is to keep the wolves at bay — a job which according to at least one journalist she does only too well.

Tom Keane, a reporter for the San Francisco Chronicle spent about seven months attempting to talk to Eastwood. He said he continually left messages with Hutchinson to no avail.

Keane finally got in touch with the mayor 500 miles south of Carmel at Malpaso Productions in Burbank, Eastwood's film production company, where he was putting the finishing touches on his newest film Heartbreak Ridge. This tactic bypassed Hutchinson altogether.

But Keane seemed to accept Hutchinson as part of the job.

"There is such a great deal of people trying to talk with him (Eastwood) that it makes it difficult for anyone to talk with him," he said.

He added that "She seems to have been given a great deal of authority from Eastwood. She has definitely spoken for Eastwood when he was not available."

ROUNDUP

Jenkins teaches art in Carmel

Gary Jenkins, artist/instructor of the PBS television series, The Magic of Floral Painting, will lead an art workshop at Sunset Center in Carmel.

Pre-registration is necessary for the workshop, offered 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday through Sunday, Dec. 12-14, in room 10 of Sunset Center.

Jenkins studied at the Ringling School of Art in Sarasota, Fla. before moving to Southern California where he worked as an artist with a greeting card company. He has written three books on the subject of painting florals and has just finished a book on landscape painting.

For further information, call 394-2107.

Beaded gowns recall 'jazz age'

"The Elegant Jazz Age" is the theme of an exhibit of beaded dresses made between 1914 and 1930. The Costume Committee of the Monterey History and Art Association has assembled the collection, which will be shown through January at Pacific House in Monterey.

Admission is free to the exhibit, open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily. The committee devoted more than 100 hours to restoring a single fragile, beaded gown. Accessories of the period will also be shown.

Pacific House is located near Custom House Plaza in Monterey. For details, call 372-3740.

Holiday program at Monterey Library

As a holiday special, Monterey Public Library will present the second in its "Stories for Adults" series. Storyteller/actor Ashley Ramsden will appear in a one-man production of Charles Dickens' A Christmas Carol.

The program will begin at 7 p.m. Monday, Dec. 8 in the community room of the library, 625 Pacific St., Monterey. Seating is open to ages 16 and up.

CBEST exams scheduled at college

The Monterey Peninsula College Counseling office will administer CBEST, the California Basic Educational Skills Test, which is required for those entering the teaching professions for grades K-12.

The next test will be given Feb. 7. Registration deadline is Jan. 12, or late registration will be offered Jan. 16 for a $3 fee.

Spotlight on counseling staff

By MARIE M. ISHIDA
CHS Principal

MY CONTRIBUTION to this column will take on the form of spotlighting different departments and people. The success of Carmel High is due in large part to its staff. To that end, their accomplishments and what they do should be highlighted. The spotlight this month is on our counseling staff. The following article was contributed by them.

The counselors neglect to say, however, what really makes them effective in not only the services they provide but HOW they provide them. Your student has the opportunity to work with three of the warmest, most loving individuals I have ever met. Yet, rest assured they have high expectations, and hold students accountable for their actions.

This year at Carmel High School there have been some major changes in the counseling staff. The current staff consists of Louise Tanous, head counselor; Mike Gunderson, a new addition from North Monterey County High School; and Lynn Archer, a part-time counselor. Louise is in charge of the freshman and sophomore classes, as well as special education. Lynn is in charge of testing and the Opportunity Program students. There is also a counseling secretary, Jean Westcott, who produces all student schedules and report cards.

This year, because of the increase in the counseling staff, more individual and group counseling can be provided. Students are encouraged to see a counselor for help in academic planning, study skills, interpersonal relations, self-esteem and emotional issues. Special groups are also being held through the Community Human Services. These groups, run by Cindy Coates, deal with the particular issues of concern to the individual in each group.

A parent support group is also forming for Carmel parents. Meetings will be held in the Career Center at Carmel High School on Monday evenings from 7 to 8 and began Dec. 1. Cindy Coates will act as group facilitator. Topics will include school progress and grades, the life-threatening recreational activities available to today's young people, curfews, divorce, step-parenting and other parental concerns. Interested parents can call Louise Tanous at 624-1821 for more information.

In addition to the counseling services, there is an excellent College/Career Center at the high school, staffed by 20 knowledgeable volunteers. The center provides students with information concerning career options, college choices, and financial and scholarship information.

The counseling staff view one of their main functions as that of maintaining open lines of communications among students, parents and school staff. They welcome calls and visits from parents because an informed parent is the school's most supportive resource.

Safe drivers

THE FINALS of the 1986 Monterey Peninsula Safe Driver Competition, scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 6 at Laguna Seca Raceway, will include 20 peninsula high school students competing for $1,000 scholarships. Finalists include Maissa deBarros (left), a student at Robert Louis Stevenson School, and Peter Wangoe (center), a Carmel High School student and a Safe Driver winner last year. Joining them is Dr. Dick Lawitzke, director of testing for the competition and head of driver's education at Carmel High.

FIRE LINES

By Mitch Kastros

Making the holidays safe

THE CHRISTMAS season is one of our most beloved traditions, but it also creates some of our greatest fire hazards. Knowing these hazards and how to prepare for them can help make for safe holiday season.

For those who choose to buy a cut Christmas tree from a lot remember that the tree was probably cut in late October, perhaps sooner. This means that by the time you take this tree home, it has been separated from its root system for more than a month and has been losing its natural moisture content, which causes drying.

To prevent the tree from drying out too fast, you should cut a couple of inches off the stump end and place the tree in a stand that holds water. Make sure there is plenty of water in the stand at all times. Although the tree as a whole will not absorb the water, the stump will to a certain degree, and thus will slow down the drying process by helping to retain the moisture that remains in the tree.

The use of various types of chemical solutions to preserve trees is a misconception, waste of time and completely useless. Any publications that recommend their use for flameproofing and preserving trees are in error, regardless of the source.

In addition to keeping your cut tree in water, we recommend that you treat it with a fire retardant. This will slow down the burning process in the event of a fire. Fire retardant can be purchased at some local paint sotres. Only buy retardants that carry the California State Fire Marshal's seal of approval, and ask for the type specifically designed for Christmas trees. A few Christmas tree lots apply fire retardant to their trees, and Fort Ord automatically flameproofs all of its trees for sale.

Those who choose to cut their own tree should apply the same practices for flameproofing and preserving the tree. Although the tree may be fresher than one purchased at a lot, it still needs to be cared for and made fire-safe.

Remember, although you may take care to preserve your cut tree by keeping it in wate and flameproofing it, the tree is dead and will eventually dry out completely. When this happens depends on when the tree was cut, how fresh it was when it was cut, and how it is cared for.

The effectiveness of flameproofing on a tree will diminish as the tree gets drier. A fresh, treated tree is virtually flameproof. Sparks and small, shortstanding flames will not ignite it. A dry, treated tree will take more spark and flame than usual to ignite it, but it will burn. Of all the cut trees that are available for Christmas, the Douglas Fir, when thoroughly dry, will burn faster than any other, although they all burn quickly.

THE SAFEST "real" Christmas tree to have in your home is a potted, living tree. Just as cut trees do, living trees come in all shapes and sizes and can be enjoyed year-round. Fresh, living trees are flameproof and don't have to be treated to maintain fire resistance. Occasional watering is all that is needed to maintain the moisture content of the tree. The only real precaution that should be taken is to protect your floor or carpet where the tree stands, and when watering.

An easy and clean way to water your live tree is to place ice cubes on the dirt at the base of the tree. This method eliminates the chance of spilling water on to the floor by allowing the water to slowly soak into the soil and not overflow from the pot or saucer.

No matter what kind of tree you put in your home, always make sure to keep it away from heater vents, floor furnaces and fireplaces.

When you get your decorations out for the tree and home, take a few moments to check your Christmas lights. Look at your light strings and make sure there is no exposed wire from inside the cord, the cord itself is not brittle and that the sockets are all intact. Older strings of lights are likely to have some exposed wire, be brittle and have broken sockets. If this is the case, don't put them on your tree or in the house because the insulation in the cord has broken, making the chance for a short circuit likely. Discard any light strings in this condition.

Follow the recommendations that the manufacturer puts on Christmas light boxes for stringing light sets together. Too many strings of lights off of one outlet can create a lot of heat in the cords, break down the insulation and cause a short. This can also overload the circuit. Finally, don't put any lights on aluminum or other metal trees.

If you need to use an extension cord, use a heavy duty, double-insulated cord. Christmas lights, floodlights and other electrical decorations draw a lot of power, so a heavy duty cord is essential. It is a safer cord, and should be used any time an extension cord is needed. The thin extension cords (zipcords) that are available break down too easily from abuse and electrical currents, and therefore are not safe.

Finally, don't use "octopus" plugs to create more outlets. This is a very dangerous practice because of potential overloads. If it is absolutely necessary for you to temporarily create more outlets, use a heavy duty outlet strip that has a circuit breaker to shut the strip off in case of an overload. This will prevent the circuits in your home from overheating. These outlet strips are available at most hardware stores, department stores and discount outlets.

A LARGE concern of the fire department has always been cut Christmas trees after they have been removed from the house. These trees represent tons of additional fuel that, when improperly disposed of, can create serious fire hazards.

An easy, safe and enjoyable way to dispose of your cut tree in Carmel is at the annual Christmas tree burn at Scenic and 13th. The event is sponsored by All Saints' Episcopal Church and will be held at 5 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 6. Call 624-3883 for more information. The local disposal companies have a program for picking up trees free of charge. Call for details.

Don't dispose of your tree by throwing it into a vacant lot or down a canyon. This only provides additional fuel for the upcoming fire season.

The fire department does not recommend that you burn your tree in your fireplace. This is a very dangerous practice due to the rapid spread of the fire and the intense heat that is generated. Burning your tree in the fireplace can also make you susceptible to a chimney fire if your chimney is not properly cleaned.

The Carmel Fire Department hopes that you will have a happy and fire-safe holiday season. Taking the time to make sure your home is protected from fire hazards will help assure that you do.

Our annual food and toy drive for the needy is in progress. Call the fire department for details.

Western Stage announces auditions

Tom Humphrey, managing artistic director of The Western Stage of Hartnell College, has announced auditions for full-time acting positions for the winter/spring plays to be produced in Salinas.

Salinas auditions are scheduled 1 to 7 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 6-7, at the Performing Arts Center of Hartnell College, 156 Homestead Ave., Salinas.

The plays to be produced will include Company, Fifth of July, All the King's Men, The Man Who Came to Dinner and two original touring musicals. All shows rehearse and perform from Jan. 6 through May 3.

Humphrey is looking for acting company interns, men and women, for singing and non-singing roles. Scholarships are available.

An accompanist will be provided at the auditions. Humphrey suggests bringing short up-tempo and ballad audition pieces for singers, plus two contrasting monologues under two minutes.

For an audition appointment call Dianne Busch or Mona Hyre at 755-6987 or 755-6988.

Caring is Sharing

County Bank and Trust is proud to announce our CARING IS SHARING program for the holiday season. It's a Children's Art Contest that will provide local Senior Citizens with Christmas dinners. County Bank and Trust will donate $1.00 for each entry received by close of business on Wednesday, December 17, 1986 to a local Senior Citizens Organization. Turn your special thoughts about the holiday season into a warm meal for a needy Senior. You can make a difference!

Visit any County Bank and Trust branch office for additional entry forms.

How CARING IS SHARING works: Children ages 3 to 12 are invited to enter an original pencil or crayon drawing portraying "What Sharing Means To Me During This Holiday Season." Judging will be based on originality, neatness and content. Each category will be awarded three prizes:

	1st Prize*	2nd Prize*	3rd Prize*
AGE 3-6	$100.00	$25.00	$10.00
AGE 7-10	$100.00	$25.00	$10.00

CARMEL VOICE

Carmel feature

ALL THOSE cameramen and equipment you saw recently in Carmel was part of the film crew for Town & Country magazine. They will make Carmel their feature for the May 1987 issue, this word from Ann Hearst, associate editor for the magazine. Models for the filming were flown in from New York City. Look for the May issue, it should be a good one!

A BIG LOSS

Former local entertainer and publisher, Sioux Scott, passed away this week after being striken in her Carmel home. We first met Sioux (along with her former partner, Jerry Winters) during my KRML days and she was always one for a good laugh and one who was "always up." Most recently, during her publishing days, she was most cooperative with other media members who on occasion, exchange ads, etc. She was never one to turn me down and I shall always be grateful for her spirit and cooperation. Too bad she can't be around to see her work come to fruition. I know her partners will carry on the tradition.

THE WITNESS

Sam Butera sends me his itinerary for 1987. He and the Wildest (as they are known) will be at the Tropicana Hotel in Las Vegas Jan. 6 through March 1, 1987. He also lists some of his albums which are for sale. Sam and I go back to the days when this reporter was Louis Prima's national sales promoter and publicity director during the Vegas days. He's a great tenor saxophonist too and no one blows better.

OFF TO YOUNTVILE

Joe Candia, former owner of the Union Station in Carmel, ecstatic about his new home in Yountville, near Napa. He says "It's a real beauty." Joe will continue his rose business there as he has here for the past five years. He may even begin playing some golf what with Silverado being so close by and the weather great there most of the year.

ANOTHER GOLF BUG

Mike Montana really becoming engrossed in golf. Recently he toured the fairway of Manu Kea on the big island of Hawaii with Phil Congilio. Phil is his landlord on Ocean Avenue (office space). Mike's shop is on the other side of the street on the corner of Ocean and Mission. Mike's a southpaw and is very competitive. If you play him, you'd better be ready for a "little action." Nice to have a player around...there aren't too many who like the action. He knows it'll make him a better player.

DELIGHTFUL DEBBIE

Perhaps you might get the impression that there is a "Debbie" in my life but truthfully, there isn't! But there is a Debbie who always delights the patrons at Toots Lagoon with her perpetual smile and personality. Her name is Debbie Davidson and she usually works there during the showing of the football games on the big screen in the rear section of the restaurant. Someone mentioned she came from Silicon Valley, but in reality, she's from the Corral de Tierra area.

BIG "C" ROASTED AND TOASTED

I think the highlight of Variety Club's toasting of Clint Eastwood was the performance of Sammy Davis Jr. when he vocalized to the tune Misty, which was a tribute to Clint's directing of Play Misty For Me" which was filmed when this reporter owned KRML. No there were no residuals involved (if there were, I wouldn't be writing this column). Sammy's interpretation of Misty was one of the best we've heard and he can still belt a great song. I was watching this TV spectacular with a friend and after seeing those in attendance she remarked, "How come there are so many old people in Hollywood?" "What happened to the young people?" Good question. Clint had his children, mother, sister and Sondra on hand for this festive occasion. Carmel was mentioned by many of the entertainers there and it should help bring more tourism to the area. It was eerie to see and hear Cary Grant read the Reagan's letter to Clint; he had passed away two days before the show was aired.

FUZZY, KING OF THE SKINS

Fuzzy Zoeller showed the "big" boys how to play for "big bucks" during the recent "Skins Game" at La Quinta, near Palm Springs. Two years in a row, Fuzzy has been the big winner and it all came down to putting, which is where all the money is made on the tour. The PGA West course at La Quinta is rated at over 77 strokes, which makes it the toughest in the United States. Pete Dye designed the course as he did Carmel Valley Ranch where the Spalding will be played this year. Many consider him "a golf masochist" because of his course design, but he lays out a course so that you must execute "pure" golf shots. There is no deviation. If you want to get an idea of how he designs a golf course attend this year's Spalding at Carmel Valley Ranch.

See you next week!

CANTREE COLLECTION BOXES IN PLACE THROUGHOUT PENINSULA

The Christmas CanTree drive, sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula and Carmel boards of realtors, got into high gear Nov. 10 with the placing of collection boxes in eight peninsula communities.

The purpose of the drive is to collect cans of food, which will then be turned over to the Salvation Army for its program of feeding the hungry. All peninsula residents are urged to help bring some Christmas cheer to the needy.

The goal for the Monterey Peninsula is 100,000 cans, 5 percent of the state-wide goal of two million cans.

The canned foods may be brought to a collection box at a realtor office, or to a participating local business. For those who would like to donate money, a check may be sent payable to the Monterey Peninsula Board of Realtors, P.O. Box 108, Monterey, CA 93940. The check should be marked "Christmas CanTree." It is, of course, a charitable contribution.

Contributors can also bring cans of food to the big Christmas CanTree that will be built from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 13 at Colton Hall in Monterey. Mayors from peninsula cities will stack the first cans, and after that there will be day-long music and entertainment as the community CanTree, made up of canned foods, rises to a spectacular height.

The collection boxes will be set up at the following points in Carmel area:

CARMEL (Joanne Roberti, 624-3829): La Playa Hotel, Eighth and Camino Real; Carmel Youth Center, Fourth and Torres; Carmel Fire Department, Sixth between Mission and San Carlos; Carmel Highlands Fire Department, Fern Canyon Road.

CARMEL VALLEY (Louise Bishop): Heinrich, Dusenberry & Albers, 26385 Carmel Rancho Blvd., Hacienda Hay & Feed Co., Mid-Valley Shopping Center; Farm Center and Country Store, Carmel Valley Road; Murphy's Lumber, 10 Carmel Valley Road; Porter-Marquard Real Estate, Carmel Valley Road; Rancho Canada Golf Shop, Carmel Valley Road; Fox & Carskadon Inc., Carmel Rancho Boulevard.

MONTEREY COUNTY WINES MOVE "OUT IN FRONT"

In addition to winning a host of awards, Monterey County wines won the respect of a prestigious panel of judges during the 1986 California State Fair wine judging contest.

One half of the nearly 100 wines entered by Monterey County were awarded either gold, silver or bronze medals — the highest percentage of awards attained by any wine region in the state.

"Monterey did incredibly well at the state fair," John Movius, chief judge and wine department chairman, said. "This is the first time I've noticed Monterey moving out front. It surely received a lot of respect in our competition."

A total of 2,128 wines were entered in the competition — "the most thorough examination, by separate category, of California wines conducted in the state," according to one judge — with 632 winning awards, a 29 percent ratio.

Napa and Sonoma wines garnered medals with about 20 percent of the wines they entered, Movius said, further magnifying the impressive showing by Monterey County.

"The potential has always been there for Monterey," Movius said. "And now the potential is starting to be realized.

"Most of the vines were planted in the early 1970s and it typically takes vines 12 years to reach maturity," he continued. "And so we're seeing substantial numbers of

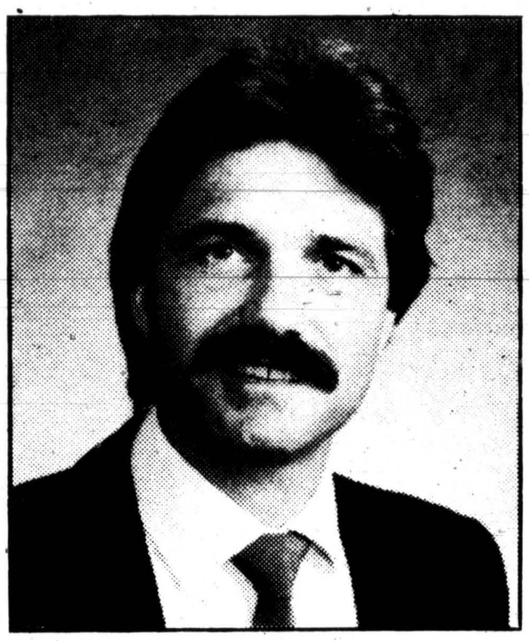
AUCTION GALLERIES UNLIMITED



CRAIG LEE HEMPHILL

You now have a choice. A new auction gallery has opened up on the Monterey Peninsula! Auction Galleries Unlimited, at 571 Lighthouse Ave., in Monterey is accepting consignments starting December 1.

Call for an appointment.

We at Auction Galleries Unlimited want to change the means by which you sell your precious possessions. We are a bonded and licensed auction company with a combined experience of over 40 years in the auction business.

MR. CRAIG LEE HEMPHILL was first introduced to the Peninsula as auctioneer and manager of the Auction Studio in 1972. Learning from the ground up, Craig gained valuable knowledge and experience in all phases of the auction business. His extensive background in economics and marketing enabled him to expand the scope of a small family auction business. Specifically, Craig expanded the research library; tripled the preferred customer mailing list; developed an inhouse advertising agency covering the media, developed new display techniques for better marketing of your antiques and collectables.

TOM JOHNSON, Manager of Auction Galleries Unlimited, offers 12 years of experience in the auction industry. Promotions from Warehouseman to Manager of the Friday Sale and then to Manager of the entire Saturday Sale demanded not only familiarity with antiques and art, but also experience in research, display, cataloguing of the sale, and customer relations. Tom's interest in and knowledge of art, particularly in limited edition prints, assures you an open and honest appraisal for your special item.

GEORGE STONE comes to Auction Galleries Unlimited with over 30 years in the auction business, as a Truck Service Moving specialist. George who will take special interest in the transportation of your valuables. He and his assistant will personally and professionally wrap and pack everything that you want to go to auction.

Auction Galleries Unlimited is a professional auction corporation dedicated to giving advice and assistance to individuals, executors, and trustees in the disposition of single items, collections, and estates.

Our services include the liquidation of estates — from the furnishings to the real estate. The same service applies to businesses, whether large or small. We also have on-site sales. Whether your needs are a "Tent Sale" complete with catering, or a "Price Tag Sale", Auction Galleries Unlimited has the complete auction plan for you.

Our newly remodeled gallery offers an elegant setting in which to display and auction your valuables. Auctions are held once a month and run 2 days in length.

HOW IT WORKS:
If you are selling, our sliding scale consignment rates keep interest high for both buyer and seller. The higher the hammer price, the lower the commission percentage! On a per item basis, the percentages are 25% for $100 and under; 20% for $101 to $500; 15% for $501 to $1500, and 10% for $1501 and above.

As a seller, your benefits include extensive advertising, insurance, truck service, storage, prompt payment, and more money returned to you. As an added service, Craig Hemphill, your auctioneer, will confer with you in the privacy of YOUR OWN HOME OR BUSINESS and give you a FREE written estimate of your valuables. Consignments are by appt. only. In this manner we can give you our individual attention. We at Auction Galleries Unlimited are ready and willing to be of service to you. Call today for further information.

Going to the dogs

WHEN WALTER Stewart isn't up in the air he is going to the dogs — Guide Dogs for the Blind, that is.

Walt's background has always been aviation. That is his life. After training in WWII he saw duty in the South Pacific, Burma, China, India, then he taught flying and ferried planes around the world. In 1976 he was the first flier to go around the world in a short-range jet.

"I couldn't go back to a sane job," he said with a grin, "so I stayed in aviation."

Despite his statement, Walt has taken on the important and sane responsibility of head pilot for the Monterey Peninsula Chapter of Guide Dogs for the Blind. He took Guide Dogs up in the air by participating in the Salinas Air Show and the next big event is a tribute to the legendary Gen. James H. Doolittle to celebrate his 90th birthday.

Arrangements for a reception Dec. 7 at Ford Ord have been made by Walt and Gen. (ret.) E.W. Holstrom (of the famed Tokyo raiders) with the assistance of John Doolittle.

Gen. Doolittle (recently awarded his fourth star by President Reagan) has several firsts: first to execute the outside loop in 1927; made the first blind flight in 1929; made the first transcontinental flight that took less than 24 hours; the first American to fly the Andes; and received the first doctoral degree in aeronautical engineering from MIT.

Robert Hershede, governor of the Quiet Birdmen of Doolittle Hanger, will be MC and congratulatory toasts will be given by Mayor Clint Eastwood, Assemblyman Sam Farr and Rep. Leon Panetta.

"I get more out of it than I put in," Walt Stewart modestly states about his involvement with the Guide Dogs program. He faithfully attends monthly graduations at the training center in San Rafael, and as a world traveler, he enjoys the interaction with representatives from Sweden, Germany, Japan, etc. who come to San Rafael.

"I have made visits to the Guide Dogs headquarters in England observing the differences and similarities," he said. "Both countries learn from each other. The training time seems to be the same but the completion rate in England is 85 percent to 50 percent here, so their placement in a collective family training situations works well for them. They use Labradors, Golden Retrievers and a cross-mix GLX which they find better. Here we allot 16 weeks for fund-raising — in England appeals are made for six weeks only.

"Guide dog training, which began in Switzerland in the 1920s is a rigorous process," Walt has found. "All trainers must be blindfolded for days and psychologically some people are not equipped to endure this."

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stewart made their decision in 1947 to live in this area. Walt and his wife Kit (who is a scientist and an authority on sea shells, abalone, etc.), live in Carmel Valley and Walt's company, Air Crews Ltd., is in Monterey.

"I like the environment, the texture of people. The beautiful complexity with diversity of fields of interests," his eyes twinkled with pleasure. "I never thought I'd meet so many wonderful people."

The party was light-hearted, full of holiday spirit with a lot of hand-shaking and good cheer, which pleased party chairs, Bud Allen and Rich Beacham. Tables were decorated with solid brass figures donated by Mr. Allen for sale to benefit the polio drive. The Dick LaSalle Band set the musical pace.

During a short awards ceremony Monterey club president Lou Rudolph presented the Paul Harris Fellow Award to a surprised John Keller (Bowen-Keller & Greco) and special plaques to campaign coordinators Ed McGloughlin and Norm Peterson. Special campaign contributor awards went to Bernard Poncelet (Color Ad Printers), Dick Rotter (Herald Printers), and Nick Lombardo (Rancho Canada Golf Club).

The seven local club presidents are Dick Trotter (Pacific Grove), Richard Whitworth (Carmel Valley) and Bud Allen (Carmel), Xavier Nady (Marina) and Bob Ernst (Monterey Sunrise Club), Jim Ward (Seaside) and Lou Rudolph (Monterey).

MC Bill Scofield announced that 416,667 children had been immunized against polio. For this, the seven Rotary clubs that pledged to raise $75,000 by Thanksgiving, deserve highest accolades.

to be displayed in the Cannon House Office Building Rotunda opening Dec. 11 with the tree-lighting there.

Iraj Taj Tehrani, with his mother and niece Natalie, were hosts at a celebration party Saturday evening in his Pebble Beach home prior to his departure for the capitol.

"It took nearly 10 years to make this painting for my country. The United States that I love so much," his exuberance lighting his dark eyes. "I am for peace. We should all do what we can for peace and that is why I did this painting. I want everyone to know that all Persians are not like Khomeni. I love America and this is a work of love."

The American eagle he portrays has an olive branch in its beak and a red and white ribbon to symbolize the American flag.

Taj has built a reputation as a skilled creator of pure silk batiks that require an infinite amount of patience. His meticulous works must be seen with a magnifying glass to be fully appreciated.

HOLIDAY TREATS AHEAD

Did you know that mice take bubble baths? A new feature of Festival of Trees opening today in Exposition Hall at Monterey County Fairgrounds is The Mouse House with seven resident mice with one lolling in a bubble bath. This year's theme is Joy To The World and the festival runs through Sunday which starts with a brunch and ends with raffle drawings for a fully-decorated tree, 50 master paintings by local artists, and several dolls. There are handcrafted items, art, international gifts, a Country Store with foods and antique kitchenware plus the dazzling display of 32 artistically decked-out trees to treat the eyes.

The 4th Holiday Auction to benefit the Boy Scouts is Saturday, Dec. 6 at 5 p.m. You will find gift ideas from $5 to $30,00 in the silent and live auction...an '87 BMW Sports Coupe, one-half acre of land, two sailboats, fur coats, jewelry and an '80 VW Rabbit. Eldon Dedini has done the program cover and a poster to add to those done the past few years by Hank Ketcham. Of course, there is a reception for the Honorary Chairman, the superstar slugger Reggie Jackson. For information call 625-6860.

The Country Store will be open at the Blind Service Center, 225 Laurel Ave., Pacific Grove from 4 to 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 5, with an auction, drawing, wine and tidbits, and gifts galore in ceramics, handcrafted items and baked goods.

An Evening of Music & The Arts is planned for 6:30 in the Monterey Plaza Hotel with champagne and hors d'oeuvres, music by Scott Fitzgerald and an art auction, which is perfect for gift-giving or for yourself. This benefits Friends of the Children (of Family Resource Center). Call 624-3448 or 394-4622 (reservations are limited).

Six B & B Victorian charmers in Pacific Grove open their doors Tuesday, Dec. 9 for another holiday treat, the second Christmas at the Inns. For $10 per person there will be colorful decorations, entertainment and refreshments. Tickets can be bought at PG Heritage Society, PG Art Center or the PG Chamber.

The Carmel Valley Country Club is the setting for the Jesters Jolly with prizes for masks: the most glamorous, most humorous, and the most original. The Do Do Wah Street Irregulars will play danceable music following a buffet. It will benefit the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art.

Friends of MIIS will drink Christmas cheers to each other at Stillwell House in Carmel, Thursday, Dec. 18.

Bonding is not a new procedure. In this, the era of holistic health, physical fitness, and "be the best you can be" mentality, bonding has come of age.

Bonding is a relatively simple procedure. A composite resin or porcelain material is added directly to the roughened enamel surface of the tooth. Usually no anesthesia is required.

VENTANA WILDERNESS REPORT

BY GLENN R. STEWART

Call of the wild

SOME OF the best naturalists I know are self taught. They are people that have begun with a general interest in the birds that we restore to the wild or with basic camping skills that are required to maintain the release sites. They find that a bond forms and they crave time in the wilds. They become students of the plant and animal life that surrounds them until they themselves become a part of the scenery.

These serious naturalists are drawn with greater frequency to their various outdoor pursuits until wilderness becomes like an opiate that addicts them to it's solace.

The poet, Robert Service, wrote of this basic human attraction to wilderness in his poem Call of the Yukon:

...Yet it isn't the gold that I'm wanting
So much as just finding the gold.
It's the great, big broad land 'way up yonger,
It's the forest's where silence has lease;
It's the stillness that fills me with peace.

This need is difficult to quantify, but I think we all feel it to some extent. Granted, there is a wide range of wilderness appreciation. To some, a wilderness experience may be driving down Highway 1 in a Maserati and pulling over occasionally to look out over the open and uninterrupted expanse of the ocean. A deep breath of sea breeze and an ear full of barking sea lions and it's back to the Maserati and on to Morro Bay.

Most of us do feel an attraction for "natural exposure," though. Whether it is a casual walk along an undisturbed stretch of beach or an afternoon hike out of earshot from the highway, contact is made with the wilds. Those wishing a deeper and more complete contact spend long periods trekking alone through areas where the artifacts of man are unknown and unwelcome.

That there is solace in such contact is self evident. We all pursue it one one level or another. The difficulty comes when we try to describe it or discover a reason for the sense of apparent well-being that seems to flow from our outdoor experience.

Mountaineers, deep sea fishermen, wildlife biologists, backpackers and hunters crave and seem to benefit from the time "out there." But inner city kids who have never been more than a few blocks from home also seem to benefit. When they are transported to camps in the forest under special programs designed to assist the underprivileged, many of the street-tough youngsters claim to have "life-changing" experiences as they commune with nature for the first time.

There is a beckoning from the wilds. A communication with the soul. It may be a primal memory of an earlier time that is tucked deeply away. A suggestion of the memory brought to the surface by undisturbed outdoor experiences. Or, it may be an awakening of long unused senses that are no longer needed in the plush interiors of our insulated lives.

SENSES HAVE been shown to exist in a variety of creatures that allow an awareness of changes in the atmospheric pressure, the earth's magnetic field, and the solar and lunar cycles. Oysters, collected from Long Island Sound in Connecticut, were transported to a Chicago laboratory where they were held in constant laboratory conditions and observed. For two weeks the oysters continued to open in unison at the time high tide washed the Atlantic coast, but suddenly a slippage in their timing was observed. As the oysters developed a new rhythm, it was calculated that they were opening at the time that would have been "high tide" in Chicago — a determination that the oysters could only have made by sensing the gravitational pull of the moon since the laboratory environment excluded all other clues.

From time to time we hear evidence of how the cycles of the moon affect people. There is a relationship between birth and tides. The times of births in communities living on the North Sea coast of Germany, show that an unusually large number occur just at the time of the high tide. In other words, there is a sudden increase in births each day when the moon is passing directly overhead. Lyall Watson's book, Supernature, chronicles many additional examples of the ways in which all ilfe responds to the cycles and rhythms of nature.

When we take the time to feel the cycles and hear the rhythms, we rejoin an interacting community of life. The solace we discover in that community we call "wilderness" is a peaceful homecoming for the mind of man — a mind born of the wilds but recently thrust behind the wheel of a Maserati.

I would not suggest that we all abandon our fast cars and comfortable ways to return to a life of squatting around our campfires in loincloths. I do, however, think it's incumbent upon us to recognize the importance of wilderness as a panacea for the neuroses of the day.

The preservation of the wilderness as a place for wildlife to live and prosper is extremely important. But it may be far more important to preserve pristine landscapes as corners of the earth where we can restore our own psychological well-being. People need wilderness too. My naturalist friends know it and I think that with a little though, many others will agree.

(Editor's Note: The Ventana Wilderness Report, written by Glenn R. Stewart, executive director of the Ventana Wilderness Sanctuary, will appear in The Pine Cone every fourth Thursday of the month. For more information or for comments or questions, contact the Sanctuary at 429-2466 or PO Box 894, Carmel Valley CA 93924.)

Intervention film, workshop scheduled

A free film and workshop to explain how a professionally arranged intervention can break the cycle of drug or alcohol addiction and begin recovery will be offered at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 10 in the Education Building behind the Community Hospital Recovery Center, 576 Hartnell St., Monterey.

The Intervention is a film which depicts an intervention, in which friends and family members confront the alcoholic or addict in a loving way to initiate recovery. All interventions arranged at the Recovery Center are free and confidential. For more information, call 373-0924.

Suicide Prevention seeks volunteers

If you are someone who can listen, understand and give calm, competent and gentle support to a distressed person, the Suicide Prevention Center will train you to become a member of a supportive team of volunteers helping people on a crisis line.

Crisis line volunteers serve an average of four hours per week, six months after training.

Volunteers are also needed to assist with the fund-raising committee and speakers' bureau. For more information or an application, call 375-6966, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. After 4 p.m. and on weekends, call 649-8008 or 424-1425.

Your place of business is our place of business.

...because:

- ☐ We get to know you better.
- ☐ We will understand your business and the community more thoroughly.
- ☐ Visiting customers and potential clients gets us out in the fresh air.
- ☒ All the above!

In Monterey, call John Bachus, 649-4600; in Carmel, call Howard Sehlin, 625-4300...and we'll be out to see you at your convenience.

...because we care!

BUSINESS BEAT

By Nancy Hills

Katy's in place

AFTER MONTHS of rumors and non-rumors about what's happening with the sale Katy's Place on Mission between Fifth and Sixth, things seem straightened out.

Katy and Harry Curry, owner of The Wagon Wheel in Carmel Valley and Katy's Cottage on Dolores in Carmel, sold Katy's Place last year to Randy Swedberg and Leslie and Kathy Leslie.

This past August, escrow had not closed for all those fun little reasons that come up in a business sales and the Leslies decided against continuing their interest in the restaurant.

Swedberg, however, felt differently and with the help of Don Nelson at Monterey County Bank and Herb Aarons of California Coastal Rural Development in Salinas found the financing to continue the purchase. Escrow should close in about two weeks, he said. (Cal-Coastal is a non-profit organization that guarantees loans to small businesses.)

Once again, no menu changes are planned and "homestyle cooking" will prevail, Swedberg said — except they will continue to serve dinners, something the Currys didn't offer.

"I would like to thank our locals for their patronage and support during the past year and hope they will continue to come back again and again," Swedberg said, with a "You're so right," from Katy and Harry.

The Leslies are still active around town. Kathy said she's helping with PR for Flaherty's Classic Catering and Leslie is working in Salinas.

TA-TA, TUTTO

Owner Jim Hinton, better known as J.D., said he's very sorry to leave his three-year Carmel location in The Mall on San Carlos, but traffic tickets and the need for more space prompted him to take to the road.

"I get 2,000 square feet (in Sand City) versus 250 square feet here in Carmel," Hinton said.

The wicked rent crisis strikes again. Can you imagine what 2,000 square feet in prime Carmel location would cost? Yes, I guess some of you already know.

Of course, that 2,000 square feet in the Carmel probably wouldn't come with parking. Not so the Sand City location. Trying to find parking was driving Hinton and his customers crazy, he said.

There might have been another problem if he had stayed here and that's how he is planning on expanding Tutto Bella.

The new location at 1805-C Contra Costa in Sand City will still offer all those things Tutto Bella fans know and love, plus Hinton said he will be starting a wholesale business. Open to the public, he added.

"My main purpose is to serve the needs of all the peninsula businesses," he said.

There will be branches, flowers, baskets — everything.

"It'll be like a San Francisco flower market," Hinton said.

And that's the whole point. Everybody was having to go to San Francisco to get their goodies, he explained, and now they don't.

However, though they will be doing the regular florist business — arrangements and all that — they won't be doing the wire service any more. But they do have contacts in all the major cities if you need anything, he added, and there is the added attraction of free delivery to Community Hospital from the new location.

HEAD ON

Bob Himelrick, former owner of the Running Iron, has taken on The Broken Bit at 3 Del Fino Place in Carmel Valley Village and changed it into an English pub called The Nag's Head.

Himelrick said he's redecorated the whole place, and is serving traditional English fare like steak and kidney pie to the more familiar — to Californians anyway — daily pasta specialty. Of course, there's fish and chips, seafood and steaks.

When just sipping beer or wine is more to your liking, try playing darts or pool.

WINDOW DRESSING

Showing off your best stuff for Christmas is the aim of the Carmel Business Association window dressing contest. Judges have been going around this week to award the best windows of 52 entrants in the contest.

Judging is in five categories: overall design, attractiveness, scale or placement of articles, and color scheme. Twelve awards will be handed out by Mayor Clint Eastwood at the tree lighting ceremony 5 p.m. Friday, Dec. 5.

Judges are Bud Allen of Bud's Pub; Russ Harris, The Gold Fork restaurant; Pat Grace, interior decorator; Chris Marcus-Strain, Illusions of Grandeur — theme parties; Joan Pease, vice president of Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce; Shirley Holt, local artist and illustrator; Dee Adolph, manager Bank of America Carmel; Peter Savale, local resident; Judy Cole, Carmel Plaza; and Elinor Laiolo, Carmel Councilwoman.

Also for Christmas, the CBA is asking businesses to stay open until 9 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 18 to allow local residents to shop downtown. Come one, come all and patronize local shops.

This December, rather than have its regular monthly meeting (that's why no one was there at La Playa this morning if you went) there's a CBA Christmas get-together at Pine Inn from 5 to 7 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 11. All CBA members are invited.

KATY CURRY and Randy Swedberg are all smiles now that the sale of Katy's Place on Mission Street is due to close escrow in a couple of weeks. The sale began a year ago. (Nancy Hills photo.)

ICE CREAM AGAIN

This time, it's The Crossroads. The former location of Bud's Ice Cream will reopen again, hopefully sometime this month, under the auspices of Ercelle and Richard Preston. New name will be Ercelle's Village Creamery and they will be dishing out Dreyers Grand ice cream.

No stranger to the frozen delights category of foods, the Prestons have owned Village Yogurt in The Crossroads for the past two years.

So far, plans are to have a full-scale ice cream parlor with about 25 flavors. Whether that includes seating, counter stools or prepared desserts like ice cream cakes remains to be seen.

KIDS CUTS

Cindy Williams isn't afraid to go where others fear to tread. She's a hairstylist who specializes in kids' hair — all ages, from pre-schooler to teenager. Adults, of course, are more than welcome, too.

Williams recently opened her salon, Ocean Kids, at 26384 Carmel Rancho Lane and offers books and toys in the waiting area, adapter seats for those smaller and shorter folk, and 12 years of experience as a cosmetologist.

Addiction intervention workshop set

Family and friends of someone with a drug or alcohol problem can help the addicted person to recovery through a professionally-arranged intervention.

A free workshop to explain how those who care can confront the alcoholic or addict in a loving way will be conducted from 1 to 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 9 at the Community Hospital Recovery Center, 576 Hartnell St., Monterey.

All interventions at the Recovery Center are offered as a free public service. For more information, call 373-0924.

OBITUARIES

Sioux Scott

Funeral services and burial will take place today in Largo, Fla. for Sioux Scott, a founding partner in Carmel Typesetters Inc. which publishes Coasting and The Exchange, and a former advertising manager for the Carmel Pine Cone, who died Saturday at her home in Carmel. She was 44.

She was born Susan Weiner in Tel Aviv, Israel on Nov. 2, 1942. Her parents had fled Poland from the Nazis during World War II, and she was 6 years old when she and her parents immigrated to the United States. She was raised in New York and graduated from Michigan State University with a degree in theater arts.

She moved to the peninsula in 1964 after arranging a summer job as a costumer at the former White Oaks Theatre in Carmel Valley, and began a career as a local entertainer. She teamed up with pianist Jerry Winters for a 14-year entertainment career with about nine years spent at Mark Thomas' Outrigger on Cannery Row. She took the stage name Sioux Scott, which become her legal name.

She and Winters performed for the USO in 1968 and 1970 and visited troops in military hospitals in Vietnam, Thailand, Guam, the Philippines and Japan, and they both were appointed to the USO board of governors in 1973.

"She was one of the most unusual people I had ever met," said Joan Medford, who worked with her at Coasting and The Carmel Pine Cone. "She really was an event. If she was part of your life, she was an event."

Medford, who had known her for more than 10 years, said she devoted almost all her time to Coasting, so much so that she was too busy to move into a new house she had purchased in the Carmel Highlands.

"She bought it in June, but she never had time to move in," Medford said. "She never took time from her newspaper. It was her life."

Her wittiness and sense of humor always livened up the workplace, Medford added.

"She was a practical joker, but never in a cruel way," she said. "She loved to play simple tricks, she loved her toys, she loved her cats and she loved her work."

What was also unique about her, she continued, was that she rarely talked about her charitable acts.

"Sioux did so many nice things for people," Medford said. "I never really heard about it until I read it in the paper. She had foster children. She was very generous."

She was a co-founder of the now-defunct Hospital Entertainment Liaison Program, (HELP) which provided entertainment to Veterans Administration hospitals in California. In 1979, she gave up her performing and spent two years selling newspaper advertising. She was ad manager for the Carmel Pine Cone during 1979 and 1980. In 1980 she and partner Roberta Little founded Coasting an entertainment weekly.

As for Coasting Medford said there would be few changes made.

"We won't let it change. What will change is that her personality isn't here, which is a lot. But we're not going to make any changes."

Survivors include her mother Leah Weiner of Largo, and a brother, Joseph Weiner of San Antonio, Texas.

A "going-away party" will take place in her memory from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 7 in the banquet room at Mark Thomas' Outrigger on Cannery Row, for all her friends. Some of her former colleagues in the entertainment business will contribute their time to the party.

Frances S. Creighton

Memorial services took place Oct. 27 for Frances Skinner Creighton, who died Oct. 19 at Community Hospital of the Monterey Peninsula. She was 93.

Born in Denver, Colo., May 28, 1893, she was educated in the United States and in Europe. She was a professional singer, using the name Frances Jenkins. She debuted in Geneva with the Swiss Opera during the 1926-27 season, singing the lead role in Carmel. After a successful operatic career, she gave recitals in New York, Vienna and Paris, and was considered a superb contralto.

Following her marriage to Navy Capt. John Creighton, she spent some years in China and became an expert on Oriental art and furnishings.

Albin Nystrom

Private graveside services took place at the Monterey City Cemetery for Albin Nystrom, who died Nov. 16 at Community Hospital. He was 94.

Born June 10, 1892 in Superior, Wis., he was a retired automotive sales representative. For the past 20 years he divided his residence between Carmel and Little Whitefish Lake, near Garrison, Minn.

Survivors include two daughters, Harriett Mayland of Carmel and Elinor Dynes of Washington; six grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. His wife, Irene, died in 1985.

The Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Evelyn E. McCabe

Evelyn E. McCabe, a former resident of Carmel, and a retired USIA Foreign Service librarian, died Oct. 20 at her home in Honolulu, Hawaii. She was 80.

She served in 1947 as Reference Officer with the American Mission for aid to Greece before joining USIA in 1948. AS USIA Foreign Service librarian she served in Denmark, Burma, Iran, Afghanistan and India.

She is survived by her son, Dr. Michael J. McCabe of Honolulu, Hawaii.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

This warning will never be seen again.

Instead, these new, more powerful Surgeon General's warnings will now appear:

- SMOKING CAUSES LUNG CANCER, HEART DISEASE, EMPHYSEMA, AND MAY COMPLICATE PREGNANCY.
- SMOKING BY PREGNANT WOMEN MAY RESULT IN FETAL INJURY, PREMATURE BIRTH, AND LOW BIRTH WEIGHT.
- CIGARETTE SMOKE CONTAINS CARBON MONOXIDE.
- QUITTING SMOKING NOW GREATLY REDUCES SERIOUS RISKS TO YOUR HEALTH.

We urge every smoker to consider the seriousness of these new warnings. And rid themselves of the most preventable cause of illness and death in the world today.

FATHER FARRELL'S WISDOM

'Real greatness'

Oct. 31 was Halloween, the eve of All Hollows or All Saints' Day when ordinary common-a-garden good men and women are honored for their holy and saintly lives.

Many people call themselves Christians but the real meaning of Christianity has missed them by a country mile.

The world honors and considers men successful and even happy when they are rich and powerful. However real greatness should be measured by what a man gives especially when he gives of himself generously. He must also be gentle, patient, searching for peace in his own home, his community and in the world.

He must be willing to give venturesome love which means he will be ready to get involved in a good cause despite the risk.

Most people look upon "saints" as plaster statues or stained glass windows, remote and detached, whereas they are really ordinary people doing their job in life and doing it well. Saints are ready to stick out their necks for others. Saints are easy to live with and enjoyable to be around.

By the bye, how does your halo fit these days? Is your harp in tune and are you playing in the right orchestra? Amen.

Child health clinics scheduled

The Monterey County Health Department has scheduled two well-baby and child health clinics this month.

Appointments are required for the clinics, offered Monday, Dec. 8 at the Monterey office, 1200 Aguajito Road, and Monday, Dec. 22 at the Seaside office, 1292 Olympia Ave. To make an appointment, call 899-4271.

Specially trained public health nurses examine and test the child, provide immunizations and counsel about correct feeding and nutrition, growth and development, and dealing with the child's behavior patterns. The clinic also provides school physicals.

Clinic fees are set by sliding scale, based on ability to pay. Minimum fee is $20.

Hosts needed for students

Help promote international peace and understanding by hosting a cultural exchange student through the Youth Exchange Service (YES).

We are currently seeking families who are interested in hosting a student from Mexico, Central or South America. These students are due to arrive in December and would very much like to spend the Christmas holidays with a host family in the United States.

Some of these students will stay for the second semester of the 1986-87 school year and others will stay for only three months during the second semester.

These students are intelligent, mature and very eager to experience the American culture as well as to share their culture with you. The students bring their own spending money and have excellent medical/accidental insurance. The family provides room, board and care.

You will also be able to claim a $50 tax deduction for each month that you host. So make a difference and say YES. Write to: YOUTH EXCHANGE SERVICE, 350 South Figueroa Street, Suite 257-P, Los Angeles, CA 90071 or phone: 1-800-533-0656.

COAST HIGHWAY IS NOT TO BE PAVED

"The matter of paving the Carmel to San Simeon highway was never considered in connection with the present money alloted for the work," said State Senator E.S. Rigdon in an interview of a few days ago. The Senator was questioned in regard to this matter and also concerning the investigation of L.A. Nares of Pebble Beach and J. Beaumont.

"It has always been my plan," said the genial legislator, "and I am sure it is the plan of the Highway Commission, to concentrate money and work on that part of the road which is now unopened. With good fortune there will be plenty of money to open this as a graveled road between Carmel and San Luis Obispo. There is $1,500,000 available for this purpose, and the contract already awarded has been taken at a price which would indicate that there is sufficient money available to open to road all the way through."

TAXPAYERS FASTER BY 25 PERCENT SAYS COLLECTOR

Carmelites are paying their taxes 25.69 percent faster this year than they did last, according to T. J. Hefling, deputy tax collector and demon statistician of the city hall. During the month of November, $19,957.37 came rolling into the city treasury, and during the same period last year, only $15,877.72 had been paid. There is still nearly a month of grace for taxpayers, before taxes go delinquent on Dec. 28.

GROUND BROKEN TODAY FOR NEW JR. HIGH SCHOOL

Ground was broken today at the site of Carmel's new junior high school. Granite Construction Co., which yesterday moved several pieces of heavy equipment to the spot three-fourths of a mile east of the junction of Highway One and Carmel Valley Road, had designated yesterday as starting day, but rain hampered the activity. Engineers staked out measurements for the excavating and building on Tuesday.

CARMEL VALLEY BEGINS TO PLAN ITS FUTURE

"If you turn this down," county planner Ed Demars told the audience at a hearing on the Carmel Valley Ranch Plan, "the problem does not go away."

The problem Demars referred to is the future course of so much controversy over the past year, is a proposal to build 80 residential units per year for five years. But during the past five years, 200 residential units have been added per year to the valley — residences which county planners have had little control over.

The reality is that Carmel Valley development is continuing (though at a somewhat slower pace this year) while county planners refer to a sketchy 10-year-old master plan for guidance. Valley residents battle the big developers, such as Carmel Valley Ranch builders, but the door remains open to possible abuse by hundreds of other projects.

KRML's Johnny Adams keeps tradition alive

By DAVID LELAND

JOHNNY ADAMS is more than a jazz disc jockey; he is a holdover from another era. Adams hails from a time when jazz was a lifestyle — a personal statement attesting to one's beliefs, intelligence and "hipness."

For the past 33 years Adams, 60, has been educating listeners to the nuances of jazz on his peninsula radio show All That Jazz. He peppers his broadcast with words like "swingin' " and "man," with an occasional snapping of fingers to accent a point.

Currently broadcasting on KRML, a peninsula AM radio station which switched from religious programming to a jazz format three years ago, Adams finds life to be sweet and fulfilling.

"Everyday to me is like my first ice cream cone," he said. "I still get nervous before my show."

Adams said he spends about two hours every night picking out the next day's jazz selections. He takes into consideration the weather (if it's gloomy you don't want too many ballads) and what time of day his show will be on the air (the closer to dinner hour, the mellower the sounds).

Right now Adams broadcasts on the 4 p.m. slot; his job is to get the people home from work. He stays on the air until the sun goes down and then goes home for more music.

"The first thing I do when I get in the house is to put on more jazz," he said.

KRML broadcasts at 1410 on the dial from "dawn to dusk," but all that may change when the station's owners find land to mount their three antennas, which will transmit 5,000 watts of power. At that time, it is hoped jazz programming will be heard around the clock, Adams said.

Throughout his years in radio, Adams has been able to meet and interview a myriad of people in the entertainment business. Among them have been the late vibes player Cal Tjader, trumpeter Dizzy Gillespie and vocalist Carmen McRae, all of whom can be heard each Sunday on his "Best Of" series.

But meeting Clint Eastwood in 1971 stands as one of the major events of Adam's career. Adams acted as consultant to Eastwood's film Play Misty For Me," the story of a disc jockey who becomes the target of a psychotic female listener with murderous intent.

KRML, located in Carmel Rancho Shopping Center at the mouth of the valley, was used as the studio in the movie. It remains unchanged today. Adams showed Eastwood how to run the equipment and act like a disc jockey.

"Everything that happened to him (Eastwood in Play Misty For Me) has happened to me," he said, referring to the lifestyle of the disc jockey. "Except for blowing the chick through the window, that's my life story."

The friendship between Adams and Eastwood still exists today; a sort of a mutual admiration society.

"He's a talented and devoted jazz fan," said Eastwood, who also plays jazz piano. "He listens to music at work and for pleasure, it's his whole life."

•

ACTUALLY, ADAMS' life story has more of a Cinderella quality to it then the character Eastwood plays in Play Misty For Me. Adams is a man who has been fortunate

KRML DISC jockey Johnny Adams is the consummate professional, who hasn't lost his child-like enjoyment for spinning platters. For more than 30 years Adams has delighted peninsula jazz fans with his inspired radio shows, which feature all facets of jazz, ranging from the '40s and '50s right through to the contemporary sounds of today. Carmel Valley ties bind comic actress Edie McClurg

By ANNE PAPINEAU

LAST THURSDAY, Edie McClurg's day off, found her serving a few dozen Thanksgiving dinners at the Iron Kettle restaurant in Carmel Valley Village. Monday the actress was back home in Hollywood, shooting final scenes for the John Hughes' film, She's Having a Baby.

"I play a neighbor in the suburbs. Kevin Bacon and Elizabeth McGovern — they're having a baby," McClurg explained.

Monday night she received her blocking for the newest episode of Valerie, a situation comedy starring Valerie Harper. If all goes according to plan, McClurg will be on the set tomorrow evening, portraying the comedic Mrs. Poole before three cameras and a live audience.

"It's like doing a one-act play every week," she said.

As if Monday through Friday aren't busy enough, McClurg regularly punctuates her weekends by performing, without pay, at the Viola Spolin Games Theater in Hollywood. There McClurg is able to return to her theatrical roots — improvisation. She acts out suggestions from the audience.

"We end the evening with improvised poetry. We get the first line of poetry from the audience, and we each provide a poem. Early on it was perceived I am the most political. I have strong points of view. They come flowing in these poems. This is an important release for me."

McClurg is a busy actress who, as a youngster, "didn't even know I wanted to be one," and, as a young adult, "never thought anybody could make a living acting."

She bought a home across Rosie's Bridge in Carmel Valley, but rents it out because her working base is Hollywood. McClurg has other valley ties. Her aunt, Donna Hamilton, has lived in Carmel Valley for several years and operates the Iron Kettle in White Oak Plaza.

"I'm looking forward to Carmel Valley being a kind of retirement home," she said. "At least, if it doesn't get saturated with many more people."

In her first film, Brian DePalma's Carrie, she played the comic relief in the high school clique. She was the Queen of France in Cheech and Chong's The Corsican Brothers, in her words, "one of the worst films of '84." McClurg was the voice of Miss Right in the animated feature, Secret of N.I.H.M. and a wicked stepsister in the Faerie Tale Theatre production of Cinderella. She also portrayed Lucille Tarlek, wife of Herb, the loud-suited salesman on WKRP in Cincinnati.

She described her role in Mr. Mom as "a grocery clerk who embarrasses Michael Keaton by asking for a price check for a ladies' personal product." In the January 1987 issue of Mad magazine, McClurg achieves immortality of another sort. She is caricatured in a Mad magazine take-off for her role as the high school secretary in Ferris Bueller's Day Off.

"Two of the biggest restaurants there are The Golden Ox and the Hereford House. The Cattlemen's Association has a huge bull that lights up on top of the building," she recalled.

She was a speech education major at the University of Missouri at Kansas City.

"I have a lifetime teaching certificate for the state of Missouri. Pray God I never have to use it," McClurg stated.

McClurg's stepping stone to acting was her work as a reporter and documentary producer for the National Public Radio affiliate on campus.

She recalls that her radio reporting was "legitimate, but always quirky.

"Like what vegetarians eat for Thanksgiving. I delivered a recipe for walnut lentil roast," she added.

Radio work was rewarding, but only for the time being. McClurg became intrigued by improvisational theater when she observed her brother's work with the Pitschel Players in San Francisco.

"I saw improvisational theater for the first time. Sometimes it was awful, sometimes wonderful."

McClurg attempted to land a radio job in San Francisco, to be near her new discovery. She was finally hired by the public radio affiliate at the University of the Pacific in Stockton.

"Then the Pitschels moved to L.A. They lost an actress. But I saw a preview performance and they asked to do the second half of the show. It turned out to be my audition."

"I don't think about career. I just go from one job to another. Ever since my first year I've lived above the poverty line. That moment when a TV show was over or a movie

EDIE McCLURG, a regular in the cast of the TV situation comedy, Valerie, maintains family ties and a second home in Carmel Valley. Before returning to work on the John Hughes film, She's Having a Baby, McClurg found time to help serve Thanksgiving dinners at her aunt's restaurant in the village. (Anne Papineau photograph).

County symphony, I Cantori join forces for 'Messiah'

THE MONTEREY COUNTY Symphony makes music this holiday season with two performances of The Messiah by Handel. The program features the symphony with the 60-voice choir, I Cantori Di Carmel, and four soloists from the San Francisco opera community.

I Cantori Di Carmel, now entering its sixth season, is a choral ensemble whose membership consists of singers from all parts of the Monterey Peninsula. In its continued growth and desire for excellence, I Cantori provides the area with quality performances of choral repertoire.

I Cantori is directed by Dr. Sal Ferrantelli, who as instructor of choral music at Monterey Peninsula College for six years, has received recognition for excellence in choral conducting and has been asked to adjuicate choir festivals as well as direct the Central Coast Honor Choir this year. His guiding hand continues to assist in the growth and reception of I Cantori.

TENOR JOHN DE HAAN, scheduled to perform with the Carmel Bach Festival, can also be heard as soloist during the Monterey County Symphony rendition of Handel's Messiah.

Soprano soloist for the Messiah will be Evelyn De La Rosa. She has appeared with the San Francisco, Merola, Houston, Anchorage and Western operas. She has sung with symphony orchestras throughout the west and has been selected as Entertainer of the Year in Reno.

Theresa Cardinaloe, alto, performs regularly with the Motherlode Musical Theatre Troupe and is the 1986 San Francisco Musical Club Scholarship winner. She has appeared with the Oakland Opera and as an oratorio and concert soloist has sung the Bach "Magnificat," the "Elija" and the "Alto Rhapsody."

John Mac Allister, bass, has spent several seasons with the San Francisco Opera performing in La Traviata, Madam Butterfly and Billy Budd. He has appeared with the San Jose, Sacramento, Long Beach Operas as well as the Los Angeles and San Francisco Light Opera companies.

Tenor John De Haan, who is an Adler Fellow with the San Francisco Opera, has sung under the baton of Kurt Herbert Adler in the 1986 Stern Grove Summer Festival as Romeo in Romeo et Juliette. In the fall season he sang the title role of Faust. De Haan has performed with the Western Opera Theatre's national tour and with the Merola Opera. He is an active concert artist, and he will be appearing with the Carmel Bach Festival in upcoming performances.

The Monterey County Symphony in its 41st season will present two performances of the Messiah. They will be staged at Sunset Theater on Saturday, Dec. 6, at 8 p.m. and on Sunday, Dec. 7, at 3 p.m.

Master dulcimer player performs

THE CHERRY FOUNDATION will present 1979 National Dulcimer Champion Mark Nelson in two concerts of fiddle tunes, cowboy ballads, story songs, Irish jigs and tall-tales at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 6.

The raconteuring folk artist, who has been described as a performer "with the animated flair of a medicine show hawker," plays traditional Scottish and Celtic music as well as Appalachian ballad and fiddle tunes.

In addition to the dulcimer, Nelson plays a wide range of instruments, including the Swedish hummel — whose sound evokes the feeling of some wild peasant celebration at harvest time — and the crittera, a Hungarian folk instrument with a harp-like sound.

Nelson, who is resident of the tiny hamlet of Talent in southern Oregon's Siskiyou Mountains, has performed throughout the United States, Canada and Europe and has recorded three albums of traditional and original folk music.

The mountain dulcimer is small, sweet-sounding folk instrument common to the Appalachian Mountains. For years dulcimers were used to accompany folk ballads in the almost inaccesible "hollers" of Kentucky. Jean Ritchie brought the instrument to the attention of the folk world in the 1960s and performers like Nelson have expanded its appeal by playing fiddle tunes and folk songs with drive and uncommon passion.

Nelson began playing the dulcimer in 1971.

"I had been interested in traditional music for some time," he says, "and I fell in love with the dulcimer's sweet sound and haunting quality. It was the perfect opposite to the electric bass I was playing."

He built his first instrument, which he confesses was "a piece of junk," but soon acquired a real instrument: a replica of a 200-year-old Swedish hummel.

Nelson has also spent a couple of years working with an internationally-touring troupe of clowns, performing in Holland, England and Ireland.

Nelson has performed children's concerts at both the Amsterdam and Vancouver Festivals of Fools and at numerous folk festivals and schools throughout this country.

The concert features sing-a-longs, humorous songs, tall-tales and instrument demonstrations and is intended for children of all ages — and their parents.

For more information call 624-7491.

NATIONAL DULCIMER Champion Mark Nelson will perform two concerts Saturday, Dec. 6 at Cherry Hall in Carmel. The 2 p.m. concert is designed especially for children, while the 8 p.m. performance will feature cowboy ballads, story songs, Irish jigs and tall tales.

Marisol Christmas fair features local crafts

THE SIXTH ANNUAL Marisol Christmas Faire arrives Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 6-7, at the Marisol Potters Studio located behind the Farm Center in Carmel Valley.

Hours will be 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days, rain or shine.

Artists represented at the faire this year will include Mark Andrews, sculpture and woodcarving; Missy Lofton, handpainted cloth items; Gerrica Connolly, drawings and paintings; Robin Begbie, porcelain and stoneware; Peter McArthur, photography and framing; Diane Swift, handpainted tile and wall hangings; Jennifer Long, stoneware and Hiroshi Ogawa, pottery.

The Farm Center is located 6.2 miles east of Highway 1 on Carmel Valley Road. For more information about the Christmas Faire, call 625-0140 or 624-7220.

Holiday festivities abound around Monterey Peninsula

MANY LOCAL organizations have planned a December stuffed with holiday activities guaranteed to brighten the Christmas season on the Monterey Peninsula.

The 18th Annual Festival of Trees

Sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art, the festival will showcase the handiwork of more than 50 volunteers who work all year to create the decorations designed for 32 unique tree themes. In addition to the array of trees, homemade foods, gifts from around the world and Christmas handicrafts will entice holiday shoppers.

The festival, presented Thursday through Sunday, Dec. 4-7, will be open at the Monterey Fairgrounds from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Admission is $3 for adults, 50 cents for children.

Christmas Tree Lighting

At 6:30 p.m. Friday, Dec. 5, residents can join Mayor Dan Albert in front of Colton Hall for the annual Christmas tree lighting ceremony. Music, entertainment and refreshments are all part of this traditional welcome to the holiday season.

Dickens' Festival

On Saturday, Dec. 6, the downtown Monterey shopping district is celebrating with a Dickens' Festival, a street fair complete with strolling carolers, roasting chestnuts and costumed entertainers. Food booths, merchant displays and activities for children will highlight this day-long event.

Christmas at the Inns

Six 19th century Victorians in Pacific Grove will be decked out in their hoilday best from 7 to 9:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Dec. 9. Visitors will have the opportunity to enter each of these bed and breakfasts for seasonal refreshments, caroling and good cheer. Admission to all six inns is $10.

The Posada Procession

The traditional Posada illuminates the downtown streets of Monterey at 6:30 p.m. Friday, Dec. 12. This candlelight procession dating back more than a century to the Mexican era in Monterey allows the public to participate in a re-creation of Mary and Joseph's search for shelter.

All invited to Carmel celebration

A CELEBRATION marked by music and a canned food collection, the ninth annual Christmas in Carmel gathering will begin at 3 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 6 at Sunset Center.

All are invited to join in this community activity. From 3 to 4 p.m., the combined choruses of local churches will present a program of Christmas music from many lands, including traditional American carols. Carols from Germany, France, Spain and Italy will also be sung. Several children's choirs will sing and Santa arrives at the end of the musical program to pass out candy canes to the little ones. The audience is invited to join in the singing, presented in Sunset Theater, San Carlos at Ninth, Carmel.

From 4 to 5 p.m., there will be a party in the patio with cookies and punch for all. Admission is free.

The audience is encouraged to bring canned goods to be placed under the tree in the lobby of Sunset Theater. The Salvation Army will distribute the food. Also collected under the tree will be holiday gifts that can be designated with the age of a child or senior citizen.

For more information about Christmas in Carmel, call 624-3996.

Lyn Bronson appears in recital

AT 2 P.M. ON Saturday, Dec. 6, pianist Lyn Bronson will play a recital in the Music Hall at Monterey Peninsula College.

The concert will be presented by the Keyboard Artist Series and will benefit its Master Class Fund which is bringing master pianist Gary Graffman to Monterey Peninsula College for an all-day workshop and master class for pianists in May. Graffman, author of the best-selling book, I Really Should be Practicing, is director of the Curtis Insitute of Music in Philadelphia.

Bronson, a graduate of Yale University's School of Music, studied piano with Artur Balsam and Bruce Hungerford in New York City and was later a member of the piano faculty of California State University, Fullteron; and Hartnell College in Salinas.

Bronson with his wife, Renee, also a pianist, started the Carmel Music Society's Young California Artist Competition and created the Keyboard Artist Series which this season brings pianists Jorge Bolet, Nelson Freire, Vladimir Ashkenazy and Misha Dichter to perform at Sunset Theater in Carmel.

Bronson's recital program at MPC will consist of Mozart's Fantasy in D Minor and Sonata in G Major, Schubert's Sonata in A Major, Op. 120, Three Song Transcriptions and Hungarian Rhapsody No. 11 by Liszt and ending with three virtuoso parlor gems by Louis Moreau Gottschalk.

Admission is $10 for adults and $5 for children under 12. Tickets will be available at the door or by calling 624-7971.

LYN BRONSON, founder the of the Keyboard Artist Series, will appear in recital at 2 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 6 at the MPC Music Hall. The concert will benefit a piano master class fund.

Costumes exhibited at Doud House

The Costume Committee of the Monterey History and Art Association will show a collection of vintage clothing at historic Doud House, located at Van Buren and Scott streets in Monterey.

The exhibit is titled "The Night of Dec. 24, 1910" and relates a two-part story — "I in my Hold-downs and Mama in her Peignoir" and "Fancy Dress, Ready at Last!"

These depict the activities of two families on Christmas Eve. One, at home with the children, enjoys the fireside. The other scene captures a couple dressed for a formal party. Old Monterey families donated the outfits.

Admission is free to the exhibit, shown 2 to 4 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays through December. For details, call 372-2608.

O Come All Ye Faithful

O come. all ye faithful.
Joyful and triumphant.
O come ye. O come ye to Bethlehem.
Come and behold Him.
Born the King of Angels.
O come. let us adore Him.
O come. let us adore Him.
O come. let us adore Him.
Christ the Lord.

Sing. choirs of angels.
Sing in exultation.
Sing. all ye citizens of heaven above.
Glory to God in the highest.
O come let us ...

Yea. Lord. we greet Thee.
Born this happy morning.
Jesus to Thee be glory given.
Word of the Father
Now in flesh appearing.
O come let us ...

O Come All Ye Faithful

White Christmas

I'm dreaming of a White Christmas
Just like the ones I used to know.
Where the treetops glisten
And children listen
To hear sleigh bells in the snow.

I'm dreaming of a White Christmas
With every Christmas card I write.
May your days be merry and bright.

White Christmas (French)

Oh! quand j'entends chanter Noël
J'aime à revoir mes joies d'enfant.
Le sapin scintillant.
Noel! mon beau rêve blanc.

Oh! quand j'entends sonner au ciel
L'heure où le bon viellard descend
Je revois tes yeux clairs. maman.

Silent Night

Silent night. holy night.
All is calm. all is bright.
Round yon Virgin Mother and Child
Holy Infant. so tender and mild
Sleep in heavenly peace.
Sleep in heavenly peace.

Silent night. holy night.
Shepherds quake at the sight.
Glories stream from heaven afar.
Heavenly hosts sing. Alleluia.
Christ. the Savior. is born.
Christ. the Savior. is born.

Silent night. holy night.
Son of God. love's pure light.
Radiant beams from Thy holy face.
Jesus. Lord. at Thy birth.
Jesus. Lord at Thy birth.

Silent Night (German)

Stille nacht. heilige nacht.

Away In A Manger

The little lord Jesus laid down his sweet head.
The stars in the sky looked down where he lay.
The little Lord Jesus asleep on the hay.

But little Lord Jesus no crying He makes.
I love Thee. Lord Jesus. look down from the sky.
And stay by my cradle till morning is nigh.

Be near me. Lord Jesus. I ask Thee to stay
Close by me forever. and love me. I pray.
Bless all the dear children in Thy tender care.
And take us to heaven. to live with Thee there.

Angels We Have Heard On High

Angels we have heard on high.
Sweetly singing o'er the plains.
And the mountains in reply
Echoing their joyous strains.

Gloria in excelsis Deo.
Gloria in excelsis Deo.

Shepherds. why this jubilee?
Why your joyous strains prolong?
What the gladsome tidings be.
Which inspire your heavenly song?

Gloria ...

Come to Bethlehem and see
Him whose birth the angels sing:
Come. adore on bended knee.
Christ. the Lord. the newborn King.

Gloria ...

Angels We Have Heard

O Christmas Tree

O Christmas tree. O Christmas tree.
Thou tree most fair and lovely.
O Christmas tree. O Christmas tree.
Thous tree most fair and lovely.
The sight of thee at Christmastide
Spreads hope and gladness far and wide.
O Christmas tree. O Christmas tree.
Thou tree most fair and lovely.

O Christmas tree. O Christmas tree.
Thou hast a wondrous message.
O Christmas tree. O Christmas tree.

Thou has a wondrous message.
Thou dost proclaim the Saviour's birth.
Good will to men and peace on earth.
O Christmas tree. O Christmas tree.

O Tannenbaum. O Tannenbaum.
Wie treu sind deine Blätter.
Du grünst nicht nur zur Sommerszeit
Nein. auch im Winer. wenn es schneit
O Tannenbaum. O Tannenbaum.
Wei treu sind deine Blätter.

O Tannenbaum. O Tannenbaum.
Du kannst mir sehr gefallen.
O Tannenbaum. O Tannenbaum.
Du kannst mir sehr gefallen.
Wie oft hat nicht zur Weihnachtszeit.
Ein Baum von dir mich hocherfreut.
O Tannenbaum. O Tannenbaum
Du kannst mir sehr gefallen.

O Christmas Tree (French)

Noble sapin. Roi des forêts.
Tu braves la nature.
Quand des l'automne comme un regret
Les bois perdent tous leurs attraits
Toi. beau sapin. Roi des forêts
Tu gardes ta verdure.

Noble sapin. Roi des forêts.
Constance est ton emblème;
Tes feuilles vertes.
Hiver. ete.
Enseignent la fidelite.
A toi sapin. Roi des forets.

Joy To The World

Joy to the world. the Lord has come.
Let earth receive her King;
Let every heart prepare Him room.
And heaven and nature sing.
And heaven and nature sing.
And heaven. and heaven and nature sing.

He rules the world with truth and grace
And makes the nation prove
The glories of His righteousness
And wonders of His love.
And wonders of His love.
And wonders. and wonders of His love.

Back to back projects punctuate Edie McClurg's career was finished, I'd feel that impending doom. But I've found out even Henry Fonda experienced that unsettled feeling."

•

THE ACTRESS can breathe easy in the coming months, since her Mrs. Poole is a regular in the cast of Valerie.

"The show is set in Oak Park, Ill., and Mrs. Poole is from a little town in Iowa. The history I made up for her they use on the show. She's carried with her her small-town mannerisms, that 'everybody's your friend,' which is strange for Valerie. She's not used to people like Mrs. Poole, who brings over an extra gelatin dessert. She overfeeds Valerie's three sons."

She noted, "A lot of situation comedies take someone like Mrs. Poole and make her a subject of ridicule. They don't on Valerie. The boys think she's funny, but they love her."

On any project, McClurg said she enjoys thinking her characters through and, when possible, embellishing their dialogue.

"There have been a lot of sayings, figures of speech, that I add to a script. Most of them get in. Recently I covered a crossing to the door by saying, 'I've gotta be going, it's almost time for Wheel of Fortune. My cover was, 'That Pat Sajak, he's so cute. He's from Chicago, you know.' "

Valerie is filmed before a live audience of about 300 at MGM studios.

"During the actual filming process, we have a little room where we can run lines for the scenes coming up. We try to keep our sight lines clear to the audience. They don't have video monitors. I've done TV where the audience is 15 feet from me and all I see is their nostrils and chin because they're all looking at the monitors instead of us. H[illegible] you ever visited somebody in the hospital and they just keep staring at the TV set instead of you?"

McClurg said one of her favorite characters was that of Suzy in the television special, Bill: On His Own. Mickey Rooney played the mentally disabled Bill, and McClurg played a woman with the mentality of a 5-year-old.

She received the national excellence in media award from the Association for Retarded Citizens for her portrayal of Suzy.

"I had my hair cut in the institutional style and so did the doll, which was my own doll from childhood. We were looking for large, shapeless dresses, and I said if you cut the hair this will look right. Hair and shoes are an important part of character. I have to live with the results, and I learned that by keeping my mouth shut it's detrimental to me and my work."

McClurg described her newly remodeled home in the Hollywood Hills as "a real sanctuary for me. I don't do a lot of entertaining. It's my refuge. I make silk flower arrangements. I read all the time and love watching documentaries on PBS."

She has built a collection of dream projects.

"There's always the one-woman show of all my characters. I wrote it and it's in a very unusual format. I have an idea for my own series. I'm ready for that to happen, but I don't pin hopes on these things. I spend a lot of time in my so-called career doing the right things. In improvisational theater you learn to trust your instincts."

Community invited to join P.G. church sing

"To play music and get paid for it all these years and to make people content is a good feeling," he said.

Born in Trenton, N.J., Adams dabbled with the trumpet when growing up. He listened to Miles Davis ("terrifying,") but never found the urge to make music a full-time career. It wasn't until he was stationed in Monterey while in the U.S. Navy, that he got a glimpse of what his life would become.

One night while dancing at the old San Carlos Hotel, where the Sheraton now stands, Adams observed a radio broadcast of the Jose Flores Band. He became fascinated, staring at the broadcaster so long that the man suspected he was a policeman.

After talking, the radioman suggested to Adams that he go to school and get his radio license, which he did. But Adams did not immediately skyrocket to the top of the radio world.

Instead, he tried a singing career with KDON radio, which was also broadcast from the San Carlos Hotel — but singing was not the answer.

"After singing for three weeks I realized I wasn't Frank Sinatra; he's my God," Adams said. "So I said to myself 'I can't sing, maybe I can talk.' "

The rest, as the saying goes, is history. Through the years, Adams has made the rounds of peninsula stations, always playing jazz and creating his own listening audience.

"I've been in radio 35 years and never been out of a job," he said, referring to his dependability.

Except for a brief stint in Las Vegas, Adams has remained in the area. Though this is not to say he has not had some tempting offers.

"I've had plenty of opportunity to work in the big city," he said.

One instance came in 1971, when a radio station in Washington, D.C. offered Adams $150,000 a year to work only 15 hours a week. He nixed the offer.

"You have to pay the price (for that much money,)" he said. "There are 15 guys behind you waiting for you to make a mistake so they can take your job."

Besides, Adams said he enjoys the "laid back lifestyle" of the Carmel Highlands, where he has constructed the "round house" to shelter both himself and his collection of 15,000 records.

At one point Adams did his daily broadcast on KOCN from his living room, while lounging in his pajamas. It was during this period that the new owners of KRML asked him to come aboard for some interim management.

•

ADAMS SAW this as an opportunity to play his style of music and give definitive proof to the San Francisco-based owners that jazz can work on commercial radio. It did.

Now, KRML is one of only 13 stations nationwide (and three in California) to program just jazz music.

"I don't know anything about women; I don't know how to cook; but when it comes to jazz I think I do know a little bit," Adams stated modestly.

The secret to programming, Adams said, is "continuity and blend." If you get these two things right, you can segue any two songs. But they have to be the right two songs, this is the trick.

Part of Adams' charisma lies in his ability to recall pieces of trivia about the jazz artists he plays. He slips these facts in off-handedly while introducing their record.

He talks of vocalist Joe Williams' love for golf, which is not a well-known fact, or organist Jimmy Smith's farm on the East Coast. "It's so big they would call it a ranch in California."

"I'm not here to entertain me," he explained. "I'm here to entertain you."

"I don't read copy," he said. Instead, he reviews a fact sheet relating to the advertiser and then is able to give a different pitch, without repeating himself, for up to three days of programming.

Off the air, Adams spends his time writing an autobiographical book, writing liner notes for jazz albums and teaching gifted children about jazz.

Adams pointed out that the main jazz event here is the annual Monterey Jazz Festival, held each September. But besides this, there is a limited outlet for jazz musicians and listeners alike.

"For some reason enthusiasm for jazz has been avoided simply because of the word jazz," he said. He added that this is not helped by the listening habits of younger people.

"I think it's sad that young people today (don't listen to jazz,)" he said. "They should open up to the other doors of music."

Nevertheless, Adams remains happy with his role in attempting to spread the gospel of jazz on a daily basis. In fact, he's not taking anymore; he's giving back to the listening audience.

"I haven't had to work for the last 10 years," he said, referring to some successful investments in real estate. "I do it for fun. I'm paying radio back — it's been good to me."

Crafts sale will benefit service organization

A collectibles and you-name-it sale will be held at Handicapped Activities Unlimited, 511 Grand Ave., Pacific Grove from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 6.

Proceeds will benefit H.A.U., a non-profit organization dedicated to helping people with disabling conditions — mentally, emotionally and physically handicapped adults — lead fuller and more rewarding lives.

Participants served at HAU need a closely supervised and highly supportive environment in which to learn and work. They are offered instruction and evaluation in several areas including prevocational and academic education, independent living skills, artistic expression and physical education.

Yearly since 1973, HAU has sponsored an art show for artists with handicapping conditions. HAU is funded by community organizations, businesses, the United Way, California Department of Developmental Services and individuals.

Services for the handicapped began in 1964, part-time, at the New Monterey Neighborhood Center. In 1965, a group of dedicated and resourceful individuals formalized these services by founding HAU.

Dancers audition in Carmel

Choregrapher Gaye-Mikel Bennett will audition Monterey Peninsula dancers for dance performance training. According to Bennett, she will train a dance team that will ultimately seek employment in professional productions, commercials and dance-video entertainment.

The auditions are scheduled 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. Friday, Dec. 5 at the Carmel American Legion Hall. Participants should be prepared to dance. They should bring water, towel, resume and — if possible — a photograph.

A Chorus Line

Celebrating the unsung hero of American musical theater — the chorus dancer — A Chorus Line opens Thursday, Dec. 4 at the Monterey Peninsula College Theater. Peter DeBono directs the production, which features choreography by Carlton Johnson.

The show's score, composed by Marvin Hamlisch, includes the songs "What I Did for Love" and the rhythmical theme, "One."

Curtain is at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays and 2 and 7:30 p.m. Sundays until Dec. 21. Admission is $10 general, $7 student, senior or military and $4 children. The theater is at 980 Fremont Blvd. Information: 646-4063.

About Bulls & Bears & Savings Bonds.

The stock market says that bulls are good and bears are bad. But if you buy U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan, you can get the most out of both markets.

Rates are high during bull markets, so the variable interest rate you get on Bonds lets you share in those higher returns.

But if the bear takes over and rates fall, don't panic; you're protected by a guaranteed minimum of 7.5%.

Take stock in America.

Dogs to be prohibited from Pt. Lobos

Dogs will no longer be allowed in any portion of Point Lobos State Reserve beginning Jan. 1.

A revision of the California Administrative Code states:

"No peson shall bring a dog into, permit a dog to enter or remain, or possess a dog with or without a leash, in any portion of the Reserve. The only exceptions are a seeing-eye, signal, or service dog used to guide a physically impaired person."

The prohibition is already in force at four other state park units: Torrey Pines State Reserve, Penasquitos Marsh Natural Preserve, Angel Island State Park and Hearst San Simeon State Historical Monument.

State Park District Superintendent Mary Gunter explained, "Point Lobos is a unique wildlife habitat and is one of the most significant areas of natural beauty in California. The disturbance cause by the presence of dogs has become unacceptable in this highly protected reserve, even with the restrictions placed on dogs in other state park units.

"Dogs have been seen running deer through the meadows, barking at birds at Weston Beach, chasing squirrels at Sea Lion Point, and swimming at Whaler's Cove. Even the odor of domestic pets disturbs the reserve's wildlife."

Dogs on leash will still be allowed at Carmel River State Beach, just north of Point Lobos. This includes those portions commonly known as Monastery Beach on Highway 1 south of Rio Road, Middle Beach below the Carmel Meadows subdivision, and River Beach along Scenic Drive in Carmel where the river enters the ocean.

However, dogs will not be permitted in the lagoon area of the Carmel River Lagoon and Wetlands Preserve.

In all other state park units, several restrictions on dogs apply:

•Dogs are not allowed beyond the limits of campgrounds, picnic areas, parking areas, roads, structures, or in posted portions of units, except for special regulations in parks where hunting is permitted.

•Dogs are not allowed on any beach adjacent to any body of water in any unit excetp in areas designated for dogs.

Carmel High music groups star during Dec. 4 Carmel concert

U.S. CONGRESSMAN Leon Panetta will headline Carmel High School's first concert of the academic year. It will begin at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 4 in Sunset Theater, Carmel.

Under the direction of Carmel High's new music director, Richard Robins, formerly of the William S. Hart School District of Newhall in Southern California, the school's chamber orchestra, wind ensemble, concert band and jazz ensemble will perform a varied program of 12 classical and contemporary pieces.

Panetta will be featured piano solist of the Carmel High School program. He will perform "Prelude, Opus 28, Number 5" and "Waltz, Opus 69, Number 1," both by Chopin, during the classical half of the program.

Violinist Misha Rosenker, a senior at Carmel high, will perform two contemporary violin solos during the second half of the program: "Zapateado" by Sarasate and "Hoe-Down" by Aaron Copland. Rosenker will be accompanied by pianist Carole Erickson during both pieces.

Vincent Gomez, musical director and conductor of the non-profit Youth Orchestra of Monterey County, will be present as guest conductor to lead the Carmel High concert band through "Cambridge (Overture for Band)" by John Tatgenhorst. The Youth Orchestra of Monterey County will perform its own season opening concert at 7 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 6 in the Music Hall (Room M-1) of the Music Building at Monterey Peninsula College.

Classical pieces of the Carmel High School chamber orchestra will perform during the first half of the concert program include: "Allegro from Symphony No.12" by Mozart, "Finale from Symphony No.5" by Beethoven and "Serenade from Eine Kleine Nachtmusik" by Mozart.

Contemporary pieces that the Carmel High School wind ensemble, concert band and jazz ensemble will perform during the second half of the concert include: "Queen City March" by W.H. Boorn, "Latin Winds" by Bryan Kidd, "Cambridge (Overture for Band) by John Tatgenhorst, "Embraceable You" by Ira and George Gershwin and "Novena (Rhapsody for Band)" by James Swearingen.

"We've invested a great deal of effort in the initiation and building of a new music program at Carmel High. Even though we're only two and a half months in the making, we are attemping a very ambitious concert program to let everyone know how serious and sincere we are," explains Richard Robins, music director of Carmel High.

"I want to thank the community for supporting our 'new beginning' at Carmel High. The community is an active part of our music program, and its guidance is important in order for us to give the Monterey Peninsula a music program it can be proud of. The one thing that would really make our efforts complete would be to have a large and enthusiastic audience for our Dec. 4 concert. We hope everyone who is interested in our program can come."

A donation of $1 will be requested at the door. All proceeds will go to the Carmel High Music Booster Club, an organization of parents of Carmel High and Carmel Middle School students that raises money to enhance the music programs in those schools.

Art sale benefits wildlife refuge

THE "SPIRIT of Christmas" is alive and well at the Mission Ranch, located behind the Carmel Mission. On Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 6 and 7, area artists will gather with local wineries in staging a wine and art benefit for Ventana Wilderness Sanctuary.

This annual benefit for wildlife draws artists and craftsmen from all over California who are dedicated to wildlife preservation.

Jack Wall of Carmel, whose finely detailed watercolors of birds in their most realistic attitudes, has created a painting of a peregrine falcon which will be the subject of a drawing Sunday afternoon, along with works donated by a number of exhibitors and wineries.

Diane Balda of Castroville, also a noted wildlife artist, and Susanna Denton of Costa Mesa will exhibit their paintings.

Collectors always await the exquisite dolls and other creations by Dorothy Smith of Carmel, teddy bears by Beth Reidel of Carmel, hand-spun and woven wraps by Susan Fife of Cayucas, hand-carved carousel horses by Joe Napoli of Brass Ring/Carmel, gold jewelry created by David Moses of Grass Valley and turned wood sculpture of Dale Bush from Montana. Bush will demonstrate wood turning during both days of the show.

The show is free and open to the public from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, with wine tasting from noon both days. Free parking is also available at the Mission Ranch, located at the south end of Dolores Street in Carmel.

ADVERTISMENT FOR BIDS

Notice is hereby given that sealed proposals will be received at the City Hall, for the construction of the Police/Public Works Facilities — Heating/Ventilating Modifications, Junipero Avenue, between 4th & 5th Avenues, Carmel-by-the-Sea, California. Sealed bids will be recieved at Carmel-by-the-Sea City Hall, East Side of Monte Verde Street, between Ocean & 7th Avenues, Carmel-by-the-Sea, California, on Monday, January 19, 1987, at 3:00 p.m., and then at said location opened and publicly read aloud.

Each bid document shall be in accordance with the plans, specifications and other contract documents prepared by Frank Lee, Consulting Engineer, P.O. Box 1581, Monterey, California 93942. Bids shall be submitted on the form to be obtained from the office of the Engineer.

The information for Bidders, Bid Form, Agreement, Plans & Specifications may be examined and/or obtained at the office of Frank Lee, Consulting Engineer, 7 Tweed Place, Del Rey Oaks, California 93940.

Copies of the Contract Documents are obtainable by General Contractors at the office of the Engineer by depositing SEVENTY-FIVE DOLLARS ($75.00) for each set so obtained. Reference copies are available for the use of subcontractors and material suppliers at bona fide Builder Exchanges.

The deposits will be refunded when the Contract Documents are returned to the Engineer's office in good conditoin within seven (7) days after the bid opening date.

The City of Carmel-by-the-Sea reserves the right to waive any informalities and/or to reject any or all bids.

Each bid must be accompanied by cash, certified check of the bidder, or a bid bond duly executed by the bidder as principal, from a surety company approved by the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea; in the amount of ten percent (10%) of the base bid, made payable to the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea. This check or bid bond shall be given as a guaranteed that the bidder will enter into a contract and furnish bonds as specified within ten (10) days after notice of award of the contract to the bidder, and will be retained as liquidated damages by the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea if the successful bidder fails to execute the agreement as herein stated.

The successful bidder shall be required to furnish a Payment Bond in an amount equal to one hundred percent (100%) of the contract price, and a separate faithful Performance Bond in an amount equal to one hundred percent (100%) of the contract price, said bonds shall be secured from a surety company satisfactory to the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Prior to commencement of work, the successful bidder must obtain a city business license. Proof of valid workmans' compensation insurance and general liability insurance in the amount of $1,000,000 shall be submitted to the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea. The certificate of insurance shall guaranteed that the issuing company shall provide to the named certificate holder, 10 days written notice of cancellation of the public liability and property damage policy. Proof of all applicable insurance coverages as required by the Stat of California or by the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea shall be on file with the City Clerk before work shall commence.

Attention of bidders is particularly called to the requirements of Labor Code 1773.2 and 1775 as to conditons of employment to be observed and minimum wage rates to paid under this contract.

Contractors shall not pay less then the prevailing rate of wages for each craft as determined by the local wage agreements between employers and unions. Deductions from wages are allowed for (1) federal old age retirement benefits, (2) State of California unemployment compensation, (3) federal withholiding tax, and/or, as otherwise stipulated by public law.

No bids shall be withdrawn for a period of thirty (30) days subsequent to the opening of bids without the consent of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea.

Restored 'Lost Horizon' shown

The original Lost Horizon directed by Frank Capra and containing restored footage not previously screened will be shown Friday, Dec. 5 at the Carmel Valley Library.

The cast includes Ronald Colman, Margo, Edward Everett Horton and Thomas Mitchell. Lost Horizon will be shown at 7:30 p.m. sharp at the library, located at 65 W. Carmel Valley Road in Carmel Valley Village. Admission is $2.50 for adults and $1 for children. For details, call 659-2377.

College Christmas crafts fair slated

Christmas crafts will be on sale 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 7 in the Monterey Peninsula College Center. The public is invited to come and make a day of it as either a craftsperson or shopper.

Items must be handcrafted and there is a $10 space rental fee. The cafeteria will be in operation, and parking at the college will be free.

Society screens international films

Dim Sum (A Little Bit of Heart) and Stolen Kisses are the upcoming offerings of the Monterey Institute International Film Series.

Wayne Wang, who directed the acclaimed Chan is Missing, also directs Dim Sum (A Little Bit of Heart. Shown in English and Cantonese with English subtitles, Dim Sum is a sensitive comedy about familial relationships in the Chinese/American community. It will be shown Friday through Sunday, Dec. 5-7.

Francois Truffaut directed Stolen Kisses, the Wednesday, Dec. 10 feature. The film is a continuation of the story of Antoine Doinel, first told in The 400 Blows, and in many respects, the autobiography of the late director. The 1969 production is shown in French with subitles.

All films begin 8:15 p.m. in Morse Auditorium, 440 Van Buren St., Monterey, in the Monterey Institute of International Studies. Admission is $3.50 general, $3 students and $2.75 for senior citizens.

Senior citizens offered check-ups

Free health check-ups for persons over age 55 will be offered by the Senior Citizen and Nursing Services (SCANS) program of the Monterey County Health Department. Appointments are required for the check-ups, which are offered at different sites in Monterey County throughout the month.

The service will be offered in Carmel at the Presbyterian Church, Ocean and Junipero. To make an appointment, call 899-4271 or 757-1061.

Workshop studies tax reform

An evening seminar on the new governmental tax reform laws will be conducted by David Huey and Carlos Hudson of the Huey and Hudson CPA firm. The Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce sponsors the workshop, offered 6:30 to 9 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 4 at the Doubletree Inn in Monterey.

A repeat of Huey and Hudson's tax seminar held in November, this program will be conducted in two parts. The first session deals with how the new tax laws affect the individual and the second part deals with businesses and corporations.

Cost of the seminar is $10 for non-Chamber members. For details, call 649-1770.

St. Moritz sweaters offer you the 'aristocrat of wools'

We warned. Once you've tried a St. Moritz sweater, you won't want to settle for anything less.

It's the wool that makes these beautiful sweaters so special. It comes from the Merino Sheep of South America and is referred to as the "aristocrat of wools" because of its many properties: it's lightweight, soft, durable, washable, warm in winter and cool in summer. See why you'll be spoiled?

The sweaters come in a variety of styles for men and women, including the often hard-to-find classic crewnecks and cardigans, and sizes from extra small to double extra large. Be sure to see the special holiday collection of sweaters featuring beads and leather appliques. They're simply beautiful.

If you're not a fan of wool, see St. Moritz' collection of sweaters in lightweight knits from South America, France, Spain and Italy, or their cotton styles.

So what will all this luxury cost you? Suprisingly very little. The sweaters range in price from a low of $30 to a high of $149.

But there's one catch. Because St. Moritz, a family-owned company, manufacturers their own label, you won't find these uniquely beautiful sweaters anywhere else, so, should you become a St. Moritz fan, you'll have to stay close to home.

The store, located in the Paradise Building between Ocean and Dolores in Carmel, is open 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily. If you love sweaters, you'll love St. Moritz.

ST. MORITZ is the name to remember when you're thinking of sweaters for the people on your gift list. The sweaters come in a variety of styles for men and women, including the often hard-to-find classic crewnecks and cardigans, and sizes, from extra small to double extra large. They also carry lightweight sweaters from South America, France, Spain and Italy, as well as sweaters in cotton. (Will Robinson photo.)

Christmas

Brad Whitney's recent move means low sale prices are on There's good news and bad news.

This Holiday season, Brad Whitney's factory outlet store is offering large reductions off already low prices on high-quality men's, women's and children's clothing.

For 14 years, Brad Whitney, the largest manufacturer of men's and women's western-style sportcoats west of the Mississippi, has operated a factory outlet store at 1 Garden Road near the Monterey airport, offering locals a chance to buy quality clothing at factory-direct prices.

The retail outlet is a casualty of a recent decision by Brad Whiteny Sportswear Manufacturing Co. to relocate to the Firestone Industrial Park in Salinas, where such a store is not permitted under the Industrial Park's charter.

But, for this season, it means huge savings on Brad Whitney label sportcoats in western, traditonal and corduroy styles, blazers, slacks, down and Holofill jackets and vests, as well as hundreds of other fashionable items from nationally advertised makers.

Stop by the store from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday; noon to 5 p.m. on Sundays, and take advantage of good thing one last time.

BRAD WHITNEY may be moving their factory outlet store to Salinas, but that means low prices and large reductions on high-quality men's, women's and children's clothing. There are aisles and aisles of great prices now, so don't waste time, get down to 1 Garden Road before they close down for good. (Will Robinson photo.)

Fresh, original design jewelry custom-made for you, makes Coques Jewelers of Carmel a novelty in itself.

Walking into the shop, located in the Su Vecino Court on Dolores between Fifth and Sixth, you won't find a large selection of jewelry. That's because jeweler/designer and co-owner Lewis F. Garza, prefers to tailor his one-of-a-kind designs to a specific customer.

However, Coques Jewelers does offer a wide selection of diamonds, rubies and other precious stones. The stones, selected by Margaret Sutherland, a certified gemologist and co-owner of the store, are of the highest quality available.

With an original-design mounting and your choice of a stone, the jewelry you buy at Coques Jewelers, is unmatched anywhere.

The process of creating custom-design jewelery takes about one month and begins with a consultation. Garza will discuss your wants and needs with you, then make a drawing of the piece. Next, he makes a clay model for your approval, then a wax replica. Finally, the piece is cast in gold, silver or platinum.

Garza, a fourth generation jeweler, learned much of the trade first-hand from his grandfather, but he also received three years of formal training at Paris Junior College.

All of the jewelry sold in the store, including everything currently on display, is handmade by Garza.

Expert jewelry repair of all types is also a specialty at Coques Jewelers. From watches and rings, to earrings, all repairs are done on the premises by Garza and goldsmith Diana Marie, so there are no lengthy delays.

Discover the beauty of original design jewelry with a visit to Coques. The store is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Cooking up new gift ideas? Try a gourmet cooking class

Certificates are good for classes in French Cooking, Desserts, Appetizers and Bread Baking, so you can leave the choice up to the lucky recipient. Classes meet once a week, beginning in January, and are taught by the school's chef, Louis Luzzatti.

The school moved to it's present location on Fifteenth St. between Lighthouse and Central Avenue in Pacific Grove in 1984. Here students from all over the country participate in an intensive eight-month long course in preparation to become chefs. Locally, some of the school's graduates are employed at The Lodge at Pebble Beach and Monterey Sheraton, just to name a couple, while another has opened a catering business.

Perhaps best-known to locals is La Maison Grenouille restaurant, where advanced students, under the direction of Luzzatti receive hands-on training. The restaurant opens at 6 p.m. and you can call 646-1322 for reservations, but, remember, because it is school-related, the restaraunt is closed on holidays and for two weeks during Christmas break.

For information on gift certificates stop by the office from 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday, or call 646-1322.

Quail and Thistle celebrates Christmas Southwestern style

This year, Quail and Thistle, located in The Lodge at Pebble Beach, is celebrating Christmas Southwestern style.

With true Western flair, owners Diane Daube-Ditty and Mel Yocum have rustled up a beautiful and fun collection of denim skirts, pants and jacekts, along with bandanas and cowboy hats.

Team 'em up with colorful moleskin blouses from Ruffhewn or handknit sweaters featuring cowboys, Indians, teepees and pony and buffalo nickel buttons, and you got an outfit you can be proud of.

Just in time for Christmas, Diane (pronounced Dion) has stocked the store with those adorable pull-over holiday sweaters and vests you've come to love. This year's creations feature a decorated Christmas tree and Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus.

Of course sweaters are a specialty at Quail and Thistle. Featured this season are cashmeres in a rainbow of colors.

To complement the clothing, there's a beautiful selection of sterling silver jewelry, antique-look pins, and pearls, as well as accessories like socks, belts and lace scarves.

But it's not just the fine selection of clothing that makes Quail and Thistle such a unique store — it's the shop itself. Housed in a former bank building (the dressing rooms are actually the vault), the shop features a beautiful bay window (where husbands can perch while the wives shop), and a warm decor created with antiques and baskets.

Christmas is always a special event at Quail and Thistle and each year the owners come up with special treat for customers. This year you'll find a tree decorated entirely with handmade teddy bears — some are even wearing sweaters.

Round up friends and head on over to Quail and Thistle for a truly unique shopping experience. The store is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday; 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday.

THE STAFF at Quail and Thistle, located at The Lodge at Pebble Beach, is ready to serve you this holiday season, this year with an emphasis on Christmas Southwestern style. Give the gift of a lifetime at Elizabeth Modeling Agency

This Christmas, give your child a gift that will last a life-time: the poise and confidence gained through classes at Elizabeth Modeling Agency.

Gift certificates are available for all of the agency's three classes. Those 5 years old and older are eligible to attend.

The first class, a five-week course for those 5 to 9 years old, offers an introduction to poise, grace, etiquette and basic modeling skills.

A six-week course for those 11-14 is an introduction to modeling as well as a self-improvement course. Goal setting, personality and makeup skills are among the topics covered.

The eight-week long course, for serious-minded 14 year olds and those 15 and up, is aimed at students interested in pursuing a modeling career. It can be used as a self-improvement course, but there is intense training in modeling skills.

In the advanced course, runway modeling is taught by Rene Rolff, a former Ford Agency model, now listed with the Grimme Agency in San Francisco, as well as Elizabeth Modeling Agency. A top model, she has worked extensively in Europe.

Other talented instructors include Robyn Schott, a model and expert in fashion merchandising; Eve Alexandria Rey, a nutrition expert, skin care consultant and yoga instructor; and Gloria Jelladian, a makeup artist and licensed cosmetologist.

Since its inception two years ago, Elizabeth Modeling Agency has been a high-quality operation, offering an over-expanding portfolio of talented, experienced models.

Self-confidence and poise, or a successful modeling career — it could all begin for your child this Christmas.

For more information or gift-certificates, call Elizabeth Brown at 624-3882. It could be the start of something lasting.

ELIZABETH BROWN heads one of the area's top modeling agencies, appropriately called Elizabeth Modeling Agency. Gift certificates are now available for all three of the agency's classes. It's a gift that will last your child a lifetime with the poise and confidence gained through the experience. (Will Robinson photo.)

If you're dressing for success, finely-tailored suits and shirts from Dick Bruhn will take you to the top in style.

Boasting a staff of four full-time tailors, Bruhn's offers the finest in custom-made dress shirts. Ten measurements are taken to ensure a perfect fit with neck size fitted to one-fourth of an inch and sleeve length to one-half inch. In addition, customers may choose cuff and collar style and have the shirt monogrammed free of charge.

Team up your made-to-fit shirt with stunning ultrasuede jackets by Halston, hand-tailored suits and coats by Hickey-Freeman or suits and sport-coats by Lanvin and Burberry. Complete the look with a pure silk tie by Talbot, classic shoes by Johnston and Murphy or Bostonian and accessories by Burberry. Bruhn's carries an extensive selection of Burberry accessories including blankets, luggage, neckwear, golf bags and scarves. Ladies, remember that the scarves and ties would make excellent stocking-stuffers.

For more casual moments, Bruhn's offers pure cotton and cotton blend sportswear by Thompson — perfect for those warm spring and summer days.

You'll also find pure wool slacks by Asher and Handelman, along with wash and wear slacks by Jaymar, and, to top it off, 100 percent Merino wool sweaters by St. Croix. Available in 13 colors, St. Croix sweaters make popular Christmas gifts.

Dick Bruhn, where customer satisfaction is always a primary concern, is open special holiday hours for your shopping convenience. The store will be open 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Dec. 15-19, and Dec. 22-23. On Dec. 20, hours are 9 a.m. to 7 p.m.; and, on Dec. 21, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The store will close at 5 p.m. on Christmas Eve.

Whether it's hiking or skiing, Outdoor World has it all

Before rushing off to the great outdoors, plan a trip to Outdoor World — they have all the clothing and equipment you'll need.

Whether it's a ski trip or a hike up Mount Everest, Outdoor World, at 712 Fremont Blvd. in Seaside, has what you're looking for.

Inventory varies according to the sports of the season. Right now for instance, Outdoor World has a great selection of ski accessories. You'll find jackets, bibs and ski pants for men, women and children from White Stag, Kraussfels, Alps and Outdoor Products, just to name a few, as well as hundreds of ski sweaters and inexpensive cotton turtlenecks.

Also in the clothing department, you'll find a great selection of Levi pants and jackets for men and women.

Outdoor World's footwear department features tennis, running and hiking shoes as well as a complete line of Sperry Topsiders. New to the store are Gortex hiking boots from makers such as Hi-Tech and Rocky Mountain. These innovative boots are lightweight, waterproof, breathable and reasonably priced. You'll also find the popular Herman Survivors.

Camping gear is a specialty here. For instance, Outdoor World carries 20 different models of sleeping bags, ranging in price from $12.99 to $198. There's also a variety of tents, as well as stoves, lanterns and other accessories. Although the selection is good now, the camping stock will greatly increase as spring approaches.

But, you still find some great stocking stuffers for the camping enthusiast including first aid products, fire starter, compasses, insect repellant, knives and other miscellaneous items.

Should you need some help selecting the right equipment for your next adventure, ask a member of the staff for help. Because they're outdoor enthusiasts themselves, they know how to answer your questions.

For all your outdoor needs, visit Outdoor World from 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Monday through Friday; 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. In addition to the Seaside location, Outdoor World has a store in Santa Cruz and, one scheduled to open in May, in Capitola.

WHETHER IT'S a ski trip or a hike up Mount Everest, Outdoor World at 712 Fremont Blvd. in Seaside has everything for the skier, hiker, camper, hunter or even day hiker. Right now the emphasis is on the ski season and Outdoor World carries everything from skis to clothing and accessories. (Will Robinson photo.)

French fashions guaranteed to take you through the holidays in style are at Rodier Paris in The Crossroads, Carmel.

It's a classic line of clothing you'll find here, all conveniently grouped into collections of coordinating skirts, jackets, pants and blouses with several styles to choose from. Fashioned of wool chalais, gabardine and silk, Rodier Paris designs are as comfortable as they are beautiful and they appeal to women of all ages and lifestyles.

To complement the outfits, Rodier Paris offers beautiful silk and wool chalais scarves as well as handmade jewelry from Italy. Fashioned of sterling silver with an oriental flair, it adds the perfect touch to any wardrobe.

Perhaps the best news of all is Rodier Paris isn't just for women anymore. Just in time for the holidays, the store has just received it's first shipment of men's sweaters. Every bit as beautiful as the Lady Rodier sweaters, they're also available in a variety of colors from vibrant reds, blues and greens to classic black.

With fashions from Rodier Paris, you'll be the hit of the party this season, or any time of the year. Special holiday hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. In addition, owner Vonnie Hammer does wardrobe consultation by appointment.

RODIER PARIS carries the French fashions guaranteed to take you through the holidays in style, from their classic line of clothing — coordinated skirts, jackets, pants and blouses — to contemporary styles and festive colors.

Just for yourself.

From bicycles to accessories Aquarian Bicycles has it all

If Santa had spent all these years doing his rounds on a bicycle instead of letting those poor little reindeer do all the work, he'd be healthy and fit.

But, you can't blame Santa. He doesn't have all the advantages we do: great year-round bicycling weather, bike paths and Aquarian Bicycles.

Located at 444 Washington St. in downtown Monterey, Aquarian Bicycles prides itself on offering a great selection of merchandise at comparable prices, and tender loving customer care. It's a combination you'll love.

Here you'll find a variety of specialized bicycles from such makers as Univega and Cannondale, and, because the store is doing spring cleaning in December, you'll find great buys on the 100 or so bicycles now in stock.

If you're playing Santa this year, it's worth noting that they also carry models for children.

For men and women, you'll find Aquarian Bicycles well-stocked with clothing, including bicycle shorts, tights, shirts and shoes, as well as needed equipment, such as helmets, gloves, toe clips, tire pumps and more. Literally, everything you need for competitive or pleasure riding can be found here.

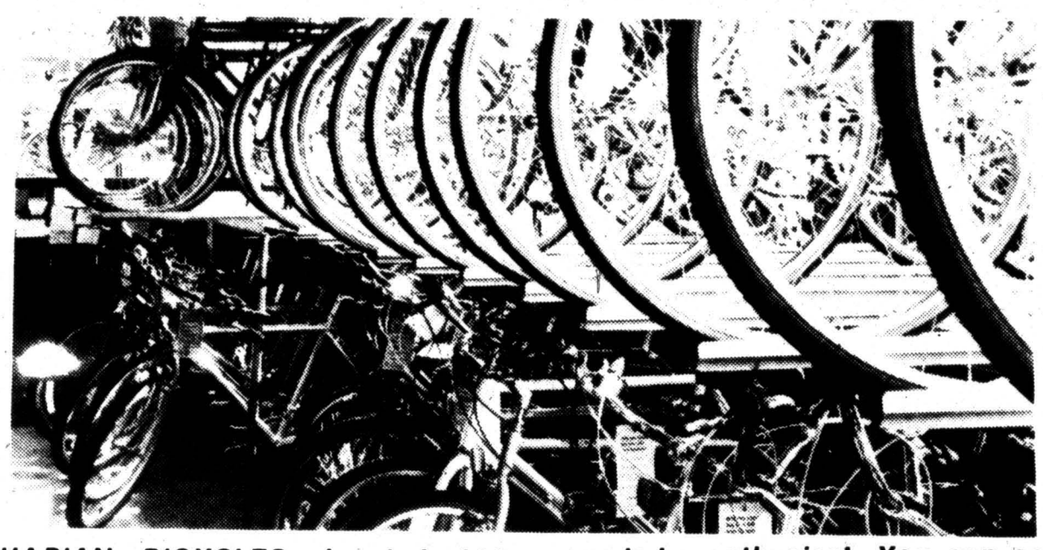
Best of all, there's a friendly, knowledgeable staff on hand to answer questions and to help you choose the right equipment to meet your needs.

Because Aquarian Bicycles is concerned with meeting all your bicycle needs, they offer repairs on all makes and brands. With an appointment, most repairs can be completed in one day.

Visit Aquarian Bicycles from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday; noon to 5:30 p.m. on Monday, or stop by their smaller, satellite store located at 7150 Carmel Valley Road in the Valley Hills Shopping Center.



AQUARIAN BICYCLES, located 444 Washington St. in downtown Monterey, is the place to go for everthing you ever wanted for the biking enthusiast or the soon-to-be enthusiast. You can select from the more than 100 models currently in stock, as well as accessories and other biking gear. (Will Robinson photo.)

HANSON GALLERIES on Ocean Avenue has built of reputation among collectors and art lovers for offering a large selection of modern paintings, rare prints,

Founded in 1974, Hanson Art Galleries is the largest gallery on the West Coast and one of the foremost fine art organizations in the entire country.

At the Carmel gallery, located on Ocean Avenue between San Carlos and Dolores, you'll find an outstanding selection of modern paintings, rare prints, sculpture and original objects d'art by some of the world's most renowned artists, including Mark Chagall, Pablo Picasso, and Joan Miro.

There's works from contemporary artist LeRoi Neiman, Thomas McKnight and Hisashi Otsuka and serigraphs from the internationally known master of Art Deco, Erte. The works of Joanna Zjawinska and Colleen Ross are represented exclusively by Hanson Art Galleries.

"Our staff takes a tremendous amount of pride in their service," explains Gallery Director Fred Holmes. "We feel that art collecting should be fun and completely pleasurable, so we're very aware that every potential collector will receive an educational experience to enhance the collecting experience."

Should the artwork fall a bit out of your gift-giving budget, Hanson Art Galleries has some other beautiful ideas: a wide selection of art books and fine art posters.

Experience the thrill of fine art with a visit to this leading gallery. Hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday through Thursday; 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday. The gallery will be closed Christmas Day.

For style, elegance in hats Chapeau Chateau is the place

East coast style and elegance has found its western home in the newly-opened Chapeau Chateau, a women's fine hat and accessories shop in Carmel.

Owner Geni Giles, a chapeau designer, and devoted fan of hats, believes in bringing the glamour and elegance of past eras to the woman of today. That philosophy is reflected in her shop, located in the white gazebo behind the Anton & Michel Restaurant on Mission and Seventh.

Here you'll find a wide selection of hats from well-known manufacturers including an especially fine line of cocktail hats echoing the style of the 1940s, as well as styles worn by Joan Collins on Dynasty.

If by chance, nothing suits you quite right, Giles will custom-design a chapeau, matching the color and style of your outfit, in as little as two weeks.

Giles, an experienced commercial, as well as fine artist, first designed hats for holidays like Halloween, then for dolls. As her expertise grew, so did the business of custom-designing fashionable chapeaus.

In addition to hats, you'll find other wonderful accessories, such as holiday gloves in black, gold and silver, elegant belts, fine Italian handbags and a nice selection of costume jewelry.

Other great gift ideas from Chateau Chapeau are pen watches, introduced recently on Good Morning America, and gift certificates good for any item in the store or applicable towards the order of a custom hat.

For the elegant at heart, Chateau Chapeau is a welcome addition to Carmel. Visit the store from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. A note for last-minute Christmas shoppers: the store will be open Christmas Eve.

THIS IS one place you can go to "hang your hat" or, better yet, pick one up — that's Chapeau Chateau, located in the white gazebo behind Anton & Michel, Mission and Seventh in Carmel. Hats, accessories and gifts such as watches are yours at the newly-opened store. (Will Robinson photo.)

TYPEWRITERS HAVE come a long way since the old manual Royals and Smith-Coronas. At Pacific Office Products, 459 Alvarado in downtown Monterey, you'll find everything from basic models with little extras to word processors that can do just about anything but type your manuscript for you.

Carmel's Polo/Ralph Lauren has elegant holiday clothing

The Carmel Polo/Ralph Lauren Shop at the corner of Mission and Sixth across the street from the Carmel Fire Station is currently featuring a wide selection of Ralph Lauren's most elegant and traditional holiday clothing and Christmas gift items.

"This year we have an excellent selection of men's and women's merchandise, including everything from formal evening wear to the more casual active sportswear," said Blake Everett, manager of the Carmel Polo/Ralph Lauren Shop. "There's merchandise to suit a variety of lifestyles."

In additional to the collection of clothing there are leather goods including belts, handbags, luggage and other accessories such as antique watches for men and women, cameos, scarves and fragrances.

"Our accessories make wonderful Christmas gifts," Blake said. "And many of our customers are shopping well in advance this year to purchase just the right items for special friends and relatives."

The Polo/Ralph Lauren Shop, which has been a part of the Carmel community since 1982, is a licensee of Polo Fashions, New York. For more information, contact Blake Everett at 625-0562.

Take the financial burden out of Christmas at MFCU

If the added financial stress of Christmas has turned you into a Scrooge, call Monterey Federal Credit Union. They've got the cure for the holiday blues.

Here you can get a holiday cash loan with no payments due until March. That means you can relax and enjoy this special season, knowing you aren't going to be faced with bills you can't pay in January and February.

With Monterey Federal's personal, unsecured loans, at a 16 percent annual percentage rate, you'll pay as much as 25 percent less than you would at seven other peninsula banks, according to the bank's loan officers.

Imaginative ways of dealing with your financial need is the hallmark of Monterey Federal. Founded in 1968, it is believed to be the fastest-growing financial institution on the peninsula.

This fall, Monterey Federal introduced a program to allow members to refinance automobiles purchased when interest rates were much higher. The program, originally to end in November, has been extended through the end of the year because of high member acceptance, according to marketing Vice President Ramsey.

Maybe Christmas isn't a problem, but you need money for school next semester. Here again, help is available. Monterey Federal is among the leading student loan lenders in the area and it welcomes student loan applications through the Presidio Office.

Monterey Federal Credit Union currently serves more than 23,000 people living and working on the peninsula through five local offices. For the location nearest you, call 647-2400.

Farm Center Country Store is really four stores in one

From horse blankets to boots and jeans, you'll find everything you need for you and your horse in the friendly, relaxed atmosphere of the Farm Center Country Store.

Located a half block past Mid-Valley Shopping Center on Carmel Valley Road, this friendly little store is really four in one, offering clothing, boots, hats, and tack.

In the clothing department, you'll find basic jeans from Levi, Lee and Wrangler as well as denim skirts. For men, there's lots of flannel, and long and short-sleeve Western shirts. For women, long-sleeve Western shirts.

A great Christmas gift idea for men are down and denim-lined vests and Comfy jackets. These Western-style denim jackets lined with polar fleece are available in women's styles also.

Cowboy hat are by Resistol and Stetson, and for your feet, there's Western style boots by Tony Lama, Justin, Laramie, Acme and Abilene.

Of course, The Farm Country Store also offers custom English riding boots by Dehner and Vogel, as well as a complete line of riding clothes including breeches, helmets, whips and more.

The store, as an approved Miller's dealer, offers a full line of English tack, as well as some Western tack. You'll also find bits, bridles and a large selection of blankets.

Some gift items and stocking stuffers for horse lovers, include placemats, key chains, books, sweatshirts, glasses, and cups in a horse motif, as well as mane combs and a variety of brushes.

Whatever the need, now through Dec. 31 is the time to buy, because The Farm Country Store is holding a huge holiday sale with different items discounted 20 to 50 percent every week. But, every day of the year, you'll find a good deal on Made in the U.S.A. products.

Best of all, shopping is easy at The Farm Country Store. There's plenty of parking, no lines, and Mastercard and Visa are welcome.

Stop by the store from 10:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday; and, for the holidays, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

What started in a 400-square-foot garage in Soquel in 1972 has grown into five stores featuring full-servic laboratories able to meet all your developing and printing needs.

Here you can get Christmas cards, personalized with our own photograh, in just one week. Simply bring in a negative and choose from cards featuring five different sentiments. Pictures can be mounted horizontally or vertically. The cards, with a finished size of four-by-eight inches, come with envelopes and are available in denominations of 25. The prices are the same as Kodak offers, but at Bay Photo Lab the sentiments expressed on the cards are different.

Just in time for the holidays, Bay Photo Lab has added a new service: video transfer — transferring old movies onto video while adding music and titles. Now, in as little as one week, you can have those old family movies transferred onto video. It's a perfect gift idea for mom and dad.

Custom color enlargements are a specialty at Bay Photo Lab with Type R prints from slides up to size 20x30 inches, Cibachrome prints from slides up to size 20x24 inches, and Type C prints from negative up to size 30x40 inches.

In developing services, Bay Photo offers overnight developing and printing from 35mm color and black and white film (provided the film arrives at the store before 10:30 a.m.) They also develop 120 and several other sizes of film.

BAY PHOTO Lab offers a wide variety of photographic services, not just photo processing. They can help you with your personalized Christmas cards, transfer your old home movies onto videotape, copy your old photos, even find a frame that will fit your color enlargements you can order there. Why go anyplace else? (Will Robinson photo.)

GOING ON a long trip but don't know what to do with your pets? Creature Comfort now has the answer for you: "pet-sitting." Art Keesler and his wife Carroll will care for your pets while you're on the road; they'll even water your plants and pick up your mail along with watching over Rover, Tabby or Tweety. (Will Robinson photo.)

Keeping cats and other creatures comfortable and cared for while you're away from home is the whole idea behind this new peninsula business, owned by life-long Carmel resident Art Kessler and his wife, Carroll.

Whether you're gone for a weekend or weeks, the Kesslers will visit your home daily, feed the pet, clean the cage or litter box, dispense medication, and check for health problems. Should a problem arise, they'll take the animal to a veterinarian recommended by the owner, or to an emergency clinic.

Most important, they provide pets with attention. "A primary part of the service is just to be there and spend time with them," Art explains.

Creature Comfort, a bonded company, limits its service to cats, birds, fish, rodents, reptiles and other animals requiring only one house call per day. As a rule, dogs are not included because they usually require two daily visits. However, the Kesslers will care for dogs included in households with pets they normally care for.

As an added service while creature-sitting, the Kesslers will pick up your mail, newspapers, turn lights on and off, and water plants.

Take care of your pet and your peace of mind with a call to Creature Comfort, 626-1118. Leave a message and the Kesslers will return your call.

Whether the event you're planning is a gourmet sit-down dinner, wedding or an office Christmas party, all it takes is one phone call to Your Maitre'd and the event is as good as planned.

Just in time for the holidays, Johnston and Johnston, located on Fifth Street between Mission and Junipero in Carmel, has opened it's doors, offering Carmelites a new twist on the old gift basket idea.

In all there are more than 15 basket "themes" from elegant to casual, so you're sure to find at least one to fit the occasion. There's a "Super Bowl" basket packed full of goodies like smoked salmon, sausage, cheeses, salami and condiments — perfect for hours of munching.

For the more discriminating palate, there's the "French Pate" basket featuring mouthwatering pates, asparagus spears, cocktail toasts and brandied pears, and, for those with a strong stomach, "Jumpin' Jack Flash," a basket full of hot foods like mongolion fire oil, jalapeno mustard, salsa and cajun magic.

Theme baskets make great hostess gifts and can often be used to compliment the meal. Two good ones are the salad basket containing dressing, tie bags and bread sticks, and the Italian basket, filled with dried gourmet pasta and sauce, garlic, herb tomato bread sticks, chocolates and even an apron.

It seems there's no end to the creative ideas owners Bob and Cindy Johnston have come up with, but, should you have an idea of you're own, they'll be happy to help put it together.

Theme baskets come in a variety of sizes to serve just one or several people, and, accordingly, different price ranges. Recognizing that the basket itself is an important part of the gift, the Johnston's have stocked more then 400 in all different shapes, colors and sizes.

Of corse these baskets are great for every personal gift-giving occasion, but they're also good for business people to deliver to clients and customers.

PICNIC BASKETS don't have to be just for picnics any more, they can be used for entertaining, tailgate parties, Super Bowl parties, all-night study sessions, even breakfast. Johnston and Johnston, on Fifth between Mission and Junipero, is the place to go for gourmet gift baskets also. (Will Robinson photo.)

When your son's looks are important, Top Notch Boys Wear in Carmel can provide the help you need. Since 1977, this high-quality clothing store has built a reputation for producing some of the best-dressed young men and boys in the nation.

Although you'll find a wide range of fashions from over 100 different manufacturers, classic, traditional clothing is the specialty here. You'll find classic navy blazers, tweed and madras sportcoats, knit turtlenecks in a variety of colors, tailored dress shirts and ties.

If your young man is prep school or college-bound, the knowledgeable staff of Top Notch Boys Wear will help you get the right combination of clothes and the right fit — the two key ingredients of a winning wardrobe. The store regularly ships wardrobes to young men all over the country.

Of course, Top Notch Boys Wear, outfitting boys sizes 8-20 and young men through size 39, also boasts an outstanding selection of casual wear. Especially popular are sweaters, pants and shirts by Polo, Alexander Julian and Gant, along with fashion sweatshirts from Gotcha.

Authentic leather jackets, so popular today, would make a great Christmas gift, as well as sport shorts and bermuda shorts for the boy planning a tropical holiday vacation.

But whatever the style, you can count on getting only the highest quality clothing from Top Notch Boys Wear. Durability and wearability are of prime consideration in choosing every item displayed in the store.

For the best in boys' and young men's clothings, visit Top Notch Boys Wear, located at the end of the Su Vecino Courtyard on Lincoln between Fifth and Sixth in Carmel. The store is open from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday; noon to 5 p.m. Sunday; and by appointment.

BOYS WILL be boys in fashions from Top Notch Boys Wear, located in the Su Vecino Court on Lincoln between Fifth and Sixth in Carmel. Since 1977 this high-quality clothing store has built a reputation for producing some of the best-dressed young man and boys in the area with a wide range of fashions from more than 100 manufacturers. Village Golf Shop is the place for golf addict on your list

If shopping for the golfer on your gift list turns you into a Scrooge, treat yourself with a visit to Village Golf Shop. Here owners Larry and Belle James make shopping easy with a store-full of winning gift ideas sure to please even the most hard-to-buy-for fairway addict.

Put your golfer into the swing of things with fashionable, yet comfortable attire by companies such as Izod, Leon Levin, David Smith, and Vogin of Scottsdale. There's an extensive collection of knickers for men and women in a variety of colors and patterns by Aureus, T. Barry Knickers, and Head (that's the brand Payne Stewart wears). And, to complete the outfit, there's vests and knee highs, and imported Irish tweed caps, made especially for Village Golf Shop.

There's shoes by Foot Joy and Dexter, as well as the new Bobby Clampett shoe from the makers of Reebok.

For golfing or relaxing in the clubhouse, Village Golf carries a wide selection of warm-up suits and sweaters, including the popular all-cotton sweaters embroidered with the Pebble Beach logo. Available in several colors, they sell for $49.50.

Other great ideas (or stocking stuffers) include ball marker and divot tools; golf tee trivia; a fun, new book entitled, "How to Talk Golf"; Golf Control Pills (a.k.a. gourmet jelly beans) by Dr. Mulligan Von Sandtrap; ear muffs; towels from St. Andrews, available in a variety of colors; and 1987 calendars featuring famous golf holes and Gary Patterson cartoons.

This Christmas, don't be a Scrooge. With the help of Village Golf Shop, located in the Del Dono Court, (corner of Fifth Avenue and Dolores Street near the Post Office) in Carmel, shopping for the golfer in your life can actually be fun...and easy. Special services include gift wrapping and shipping.

The store is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, and until 9 p.m. Fridays during December. If you prefer to do your shopping at home, call Village Golf at 624-9551 to request a catalog, then just phone your order in — the James' will be happy to help you.

"DUCK YOURSELF out" in knickers for the wet season at Village Golf Shop, which has everything to get the golfer on your holiday gift list into the swing of things. You'll find them at the Del Dono Court near Fifth and Dolores in Carmel. (Will Robinson photo.)

Christmas

Recapturing a bit of the past is Tancredi & Morgen's charm

Recapture a bit of Christmas' past with antiques, collectibles and gifts from Tancredi and Morgen, located next to Quail Lodge in the Valley Hill Center on Carmel Valley Road.

Beginning and experienced collectors will be thrilled by Tancredi and Morgen's large selection of carved Santas. Made in the Midwest and Oregon, each creation is signed by the artist.

Other Christmas items include antique molds, including a tin one in the shape of Santa Claus; and beautiful handpainted ornaments. Some of the ornaments are reproductions from the late 1800's and are made by an elderly woman in Rhode Island who learned the craft as a child.

New to Tancredi and Morgen is a line of herbs and dried flowers. Herbs, as well as some wonderful olive oils from Spain and herb vinegars from Carmel Valley, can be included in gift baskets. What a treat!

Especially beautiful and very appropriate for the holidays are herb wreaths of bay leaves, rosehips, eucalyptus pods and persimmons. Many are available in the store, or can be made to order.

Rediscover the beauty of a bygone era with a visit to Tancredi and Morgan. The store is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

TANCREDI AND Morgen will help you recapture a bit of Christmas past with antiques, collectibles and gifts, from antique toy trains and teddy bears to handpainted ornaments and wood carvings.

GEPETTO'S, LOCATED at The Crossroads, is a magical shop filled with beautiful and enchanting collectible toys and gifts to bring out the kid hiding in every adult. Once inside the shop you may never want to leave. (Will Robinson photo.)

Gepetto's: It'll bring out the kid in you

Here owners Dennis Smiley and Dale Williams have successfully created a very "fun" store, but one emphasizing the quality merchandise and service of an era gone by. Once inside the shop, you may never want to leave.

One glance and you'll fall in love with Gepetto's beautiful antique reproduction porcelain dolls. Hand-made in Old World tradition here on the West Coast, each doll is intricately detailed and costumed, numbered and signed by the artist. There's also Harlequin clowns and Pierrot design dolls, Madame Alexander dolls, as well as Cabbage Patch kids delivered exclusively from Babyland General Hospital.

Gepetto's also features a large selection of handcrafted and hand-painted Nao-Lladro porcelain figurines from Spain, as well as Italian design music boxes with Swiss-made Reuge sound systems.

Treat yourself to a beautiful limited edition Chilmark pewter sculpture. Made in Massachusetts, each piece is signed by the artist.

Of course no toy stores, for adults or children, would be complete without loveable, huggable stuffed animals. Here again, Gepetto's is well-stocked with everything from one-of-a-kind handmade teddy bears to a variety of Italian-made stuffed animals, as well as creations from Steiff, Herman, and Auxnations of France.

Christmas, well it only comes once a year, but Gepetto's can keep you feeling like a kid year-round. Come experience the magic t 208 in The Crossroads. Holiday hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday; and noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

Bright, fun, creative gift wrapping and gifts guaranteed to put a twinkle in the eye are what you'll find at Creative Spirit, a contemporary paper goods store, located in The Crossroads (in Steinbeck Court, next to the Crossroads Cafe).

Especially for the holiday season, owner Debi Netzly has set up a custom gift wrap center right next door to the shop where you can buy paper and ribbon by the yard or piece, and purchase fabulous package toppings like ornaments, stickers and balloons. Simple to elegant, the choice is yours.

Do the wrapping yourself using the shiniest paper and prettiest ribbons in town, or have Creative Spirit do it for you. "We'll wrap anything you can get in the front door," says Netzly.

If you're planning to give a gift certificate, check out the adorable collection of gift certificate cards. There's 14 designs in all, ranging from "Tickets for Two," to "Holiday Kisses." Using these cards, give a special someone a gift certificate for each of the 12 days of Christmas. What a treat!

To help make the season even brighter, Creative Spirit has a sleighfull of fun hostess gifts like Christmas toilet paper, jingle bells, festive table decorations, Christmas balloons, placemats and place cards, and very funny Christmas buttons.

Of course you'll find a wide selection of invitations, paper plates, napkins and streamers, everything you'll need to produce a colorful, well-coordinated party. Creative Spirit even has paper goods with a footbal theme for all those bowl game parties.

A very appropriate Christmas gift idea is a collector's plate by Mary Engelbreight. The first in a series, the plate, rimmed in 14 carat gold, features a picture of Santa going down a chimney with "Believe" written across the top. Only 10,000 plates have been made and you can pick up one for only $30 at Creative Spirit.

Some fun stocking-stuffers include sidewalk chalk, pencils, pens, stickers and some very special candy. There's chocolate angels and Santas, sold by the box or piece, and bubbleheads, a peice of bubble gum decorated with frosting to look like Santa Claus or elves. They make perfect treats for schoolchildren.

Whether you're planning a party or wrapping a gift, don't hesitate to seek some inspiration from Netzly. Her very fun and creative ideas will help bring out the Santa in you.

The store is open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday (until 8 p.m. starting Dec. 10); 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sundays. The gift wrap center will be open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. Tis' the season to visit Creative Spirit.

Cherished country collectibles Carmel Country Home special

Leave behind the well-beaten path of Ocean Avenue and you'll find treasures such as cherished country collectibles in the warm, home-like atmosphre of Carmel Country Home.

Located in the mall on San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth, this charming shop is rich in primitive and antique reproduction furniture from the early 1900s and American folk art accents.

Warmed by the shop's fireplace, you can stroll leisurely about the store, taking in the marvelous selection you'll find here.

Don't miss Carmel Country Home's special collection of hickory twig and oak furniture made by the Amish in Pennsylvania. With slat made of oak, walnut or cherry wood, it's furniture you'll cherish for years.

You'll also find pine furniture made by the Everetts, originally of North Carolina. The pieces are finished in natural stain or painted in lovely colors like Williamsburg Blue an Barn Red.

Especially for Christmas, Carmel Country Home is featuring carved primitive wood figures from Wolfcreek, including Santa and Mrs. Claus, toy soldiers, Christmas trees, and snowmen. Of course, each piece is signed by the artist.

There's some beautiful handcarved boxes in a variety of shapes, including Christmas trees. Given alone, or filled with candy or a special piece of jewelry, they're perfect for gift-giving.

Some fun items are Christmas door mats with geese on them, and carved wood blocks bearing messages for several seasons. Just turn the blocks to display messages such as Merry Christmas, Happy Halloween, Happy Valentine's Day and Welcome Friends.

Another good gift idea are Turtlecreek Potters Redware plates bearing messages in slip writing. Shown in Country Living and Country Home magazines, each piece is signed by the artist.

Of course Carmel Country Home offers friendly old-fashioned customer service and flexible hours — they're open from 10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. everyday.

CARMEL COUNTRY Home, on San Carlos between Fifth and Sixth, offers treasures such as cherished country collectibles — furniture, carved wooden figures, toy soldiers, handcarved boxes, wooden clocks and handcarved signs — all in a warm, friendly, country atmosphere, just the thing to take you back during the holidays. High quality kids' clothing can be found at Allison's Irresistable. That best describes the special collection of high quality children's fashions you'll find at Allison's. Located in the Carmel Plaza, lower level, Allison's carries a full line of clothing for girls 0-6X and boys 0-7.

This holidays season, you'll find the store well-stocked with the very popular fleece jogging suits. Made by Bullfrogs, these cozy, comfortable outfits come in a variety of colors for both boys and girls.

Also for the holidays, Allison's has put together a beautiful selection of holiday dresses from Dorissa in sizes 4-6X. Made of lace and velvet, the dresses come with matching coats. You'll also find some eye-catching dresses by Youngland.

Of course Allison's also carries a variety of sweaters, stretch overalls, buntings, pants and shirts from such famous makers as Osh Kosh and Sweet Potatoes as well as fine gift items such as quilts, diaper bags, and frames.

The store's accessory department offers some fashionable stocking stuffer ideas including pins, earrings, necklaces, barrettes, ornate headbands, sunglasses, belts, suspenders, socks, hats and visors.

Best of all, clothes and even gifts can be personalized with Allison's monogram service. Choose from a variety of lettering and design styles. It's the perfect way to make a child feel very special.

Allison's is open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday; noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday. On weekdays, from Dec. 15-23, the shop will remain open until 9 p.m.

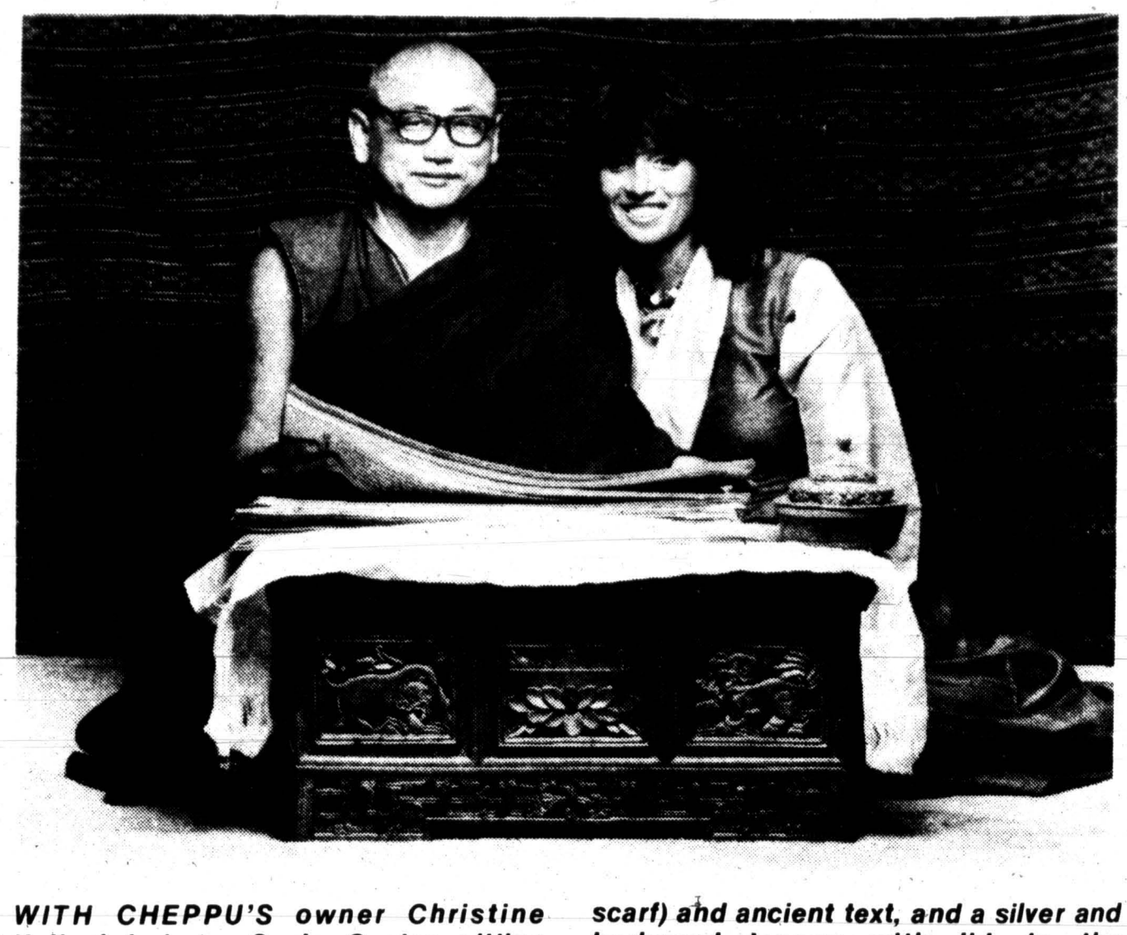
Christmas



WITH CHEPPU'S owner Christine Kolisch is Lama Geshe Gyatso, sitting at a hand-carved antique monk's table designed for recitation of the Buddhist scriptures. Also shown are katak (prayer scarf) and ancient text, and a silver and burlwood teacup with lid. In the background is an antique handwoven textile from Nepal.

A stop at Cheppu is like a trip to the Himalayas

If you would like to take a trip to the Himalayas but prefer sea level to the higher elevations, or if your hiking boots are worn out, a stop at Cheppu from Himalaya will transport you there right from downtown Carmel.

The wonderful ambiance of this newly-opened shop offers antique and contemporary treasures from Nepal, Tibet, Bhutan, Burman and Sikkim. Christine Kolisch, the proprietor of Cheppu, collected the wide range of exotica over the past 12 years, while she was living in Nepal. Cheppu exhibits a profound understanding of and respect for the culture in which Christine immersed herself.

Cheppu is located in Pantilles Court on Dolores between Fifth and Sixth (behind Em Le's restaurant).

Inside the store you still find hand-woven Tibetan rugs, made with pure sheep wool and vegetable dyes, puppets and dolls, antique jewelry, Buddhist ritual objects, hand-carved masks worn in festivals and plays. A beautiful antique copper and silver Tibetan teapot is just one of many intriguing vessels to be found; others are made of wood or brass.

One section of the store is devoted to clothing, which includes hand-loomed jackets, hand-painted pure silk dresses, pants and tops. Elaborate antique silk brocade "chubas" (gowns similar to kimonos) are available as well as wood-block printed T-shirts on the more casual side.

Her Asian gallery also specializes in woodblock prints on rice and silk paper. Both the blocks and their prints are in her Carmel shop, as well as a large assortment of hand-made rice paper stationery.

Kolisch is currently in Tibet and Nepal on an extended adventure and buying trip.

It is difficult to describe all that awaits you in this Himalayan bazaar — so save a little time to explore another world at Cheppu.

Hart's for the Home offers decorator fabrics galore

Located at 1132 Soquel Ave., Hart's offers the largest and most complete inventory of decorator fabrics on the entire Central Coast.

At Hart's there's no such thing as sample books — instead you'll stroll through aisle after aisle of beautiful decorator prints, elegant laces, upholstery fabrics, and drapery materials from such famous makers as Waverly, Robert Allen, Cyrus Clark, Heritage Lace, just to name a few.

Best of all, Hart's fabrics are priced well below what you'd expect to pay from sample books — often more than 50 percent less. For example, decorative prints from Waverly are sample book sample book priced from $20 to $25 per yard. At Hart's the same material sells for $9 to $12 per yard.

Store hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday; noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

ALAYNE'S, IN The Crossroads shopping center, has opened just in time for Christmas with a wide selection of decorator items, from crystal lamps, stemware and crystal, to metal and brass wall hangings and figures from Bijan. It's a must-see on your shopping excursion this season. (Will Robinson photo.)

Alaynes carries a full line of Swarovski (best known as the manufacturer of Strauss chandelier components) silver crystal from Austria, everything from animal figurines through boutique items, including lotus candleholders, as well as gold and crystal table lamps and accessories imported for Quist and Company of Sweden.

Of course you'll find a variety of beautiful, as well as functional home furnishings items at Alaynes, including high-quality tray tables and inlaid wood tea carts from some of the finest master craftsmen in the country.

A great gift idea are fine inlaid music boxes able to take you from childhood through the golden years. Alaynes carries a large selection, including several from Wedgewood.

Picture frames are another good idea.

Words cannot describe the beauty of Alaynes holiday collection of stained glass figurines. There's angels with harps and horns, and angels in groups, as well as a complete 10-piece creche set. Made in Minnesota, they come in brilliant hues of red, green, blue and amber, as well as white. It's worth a trip to the shop just to see them.

Locals and visitors alike to Carmel will appreciate the exquisite merchandise Alaynes brings to the area. This holiday season, make it a "must-see" stop on your shopping rounds.

The store is open Monday through Saturday 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. (8 p.m. from Dec. 15-23); Sundays noon to 5 p.m. For last-minute shoppers, the store will remain open until 6 p.m. on Christmas Eve.

Natural history and science is byword at Nature Company

If it has anything to do with nature, chances are you'll find it at The Nature Company, a unique new store located on Ocean Avenue at Mission in Carmel.

Unusual and discriminating gifts for children and adults abound in this attractive store where natural history and science meet the retail world.

And have they got animals — everything from small 32 cent rubber replicas and giant blow-up dinasours to carved paperweights and a $1,700 rhinocerous from Zimbabwe, carved from the rare green stone, verdite. Signed by the artist, it comes with a Certificate of Authenticity.

In Nature Company's gallery section you'll find several beautiful sculptures, mainly of fish, as well as a selection of wildlife prints by Morten Solberg, Robert Bateman, Claus Sievert, A. Ray Burrel and others. Matting and framing services are even available.

There's an extensive book section, including many interesting, but educational books for children of all ages.

Records and tapes featuring the soothing sounds of nature are a popular item at The Nature Company. Speaking of tapes, the store has the best selection of New Age materials in town, as well as some beautiful videos like Techniques of Birding and Natural States.

For those interested in the atmosphere, the store carries a large selection of weather instruments as well as some sophisticated star-gazing devices.

A beautiful gift idea are bronze-cast Soleri windbells. Each piece in the collection is designed by Paolo Soleri, a visionary in urban planning, and handcrafted at Arcosanti, his urban laboratory in Arizona.

Especially for Christmas you'll find bay leaf wreaths and some beautiful boxed Christmas cards. Of course, year-round, The Nature Company carries a selection of cards and wrapping paper with a nature motif.

There's bird feeders, T-shirts and hats, backpacks, knives, survival tools, sundials, globes, calendars, even animal coat racks. It seems there's no end to the interesting items you'll find here.

Should you need some help sorting it all out, there's a friendly and very knowledgeable staff, including a geologist, geophysist and marine biologist, to help.

There's nothing, outside of nature, like The Nature Company. See it for yourself from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday; 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

FINE WOOLENS are making the Hilda Ltd. of Iceland name known the world over and there's a shop right here on the peninsula — on Ocean Avenue in Carmel — to fill out your Christmas shopping list, from warm and rich sweaters to wool pants, jackets, vests, hats and mufflers. Share a bit of the beauty of Iceland this Christmas. (Will Robinson photo.)

Capture the spirit of Iceland at Hilda Ltd. store in Carmel

With the recent U.S.-Soviet summit held in Iceland, the world's attention has focused on this very unique country. The cradle of Norse culture, Iceland is the site of the world's oldest parliament, magnificent volcanic landscapes, and Hilda Ltd., maker of the world's finest woolen fashions.

Capture a bit of the spirit of Iceland for yourself with a visit to the Hilda Ltd. store in Carmel — one of only five U.S. stores devoted exclusively to Icelandic woolens.

Here you'll find a rich collection of traditional handknits and European style woolen fashions, made by the very talented and hardworking people of this historic country.

But what makes these woolens so special is the wool itself. Today's Icelandic sheep, introduced into the country 1,000 years ago by Vikings, adapted to their new home by evolving a long outer coat for protection against wind and rain, and a thick inner fleece for warmth. The result? The world's warmest wool, lightweight, yet rich in moisture and soil-resistant lanolin.

Centures of breeding have produced hundreds of beautiful subtle earth and dark sky tones in the wool's color—all-natural colors you'll find in the majority of Hilda Ltd. creations.

Step into the store on Ocean Avenue (between San Carlos and Dolores Streets) and you'll find a wealth of beautiful sweaters for men and women. There are classic styles in natural and man-made colors, as well as long pullover styles that can be worn alone as a dress or layered over stirrup pants or tights.

There's fully-lined lightweight flannel wool pants in natural tones; jackets and vests in new eye-catching designs; European-style suits for women, as well as hooded pullovers, capes, and coats. Hilda Ltd. even has the woolen hood wrap, so popular in Europe now.

New for the holidays is a beautiful line of sweaters featuring new designs and wool dyed to shades of icy blue, soft mauve and teal. What a treat. Also included in the new holiday line are jackets and skirts.

Share a bit of the beauty of Iceland this Christmas with a very special gift from Hilda Ltd. A free catalog is available if you prefer to order by phone, and, for your convenience, Hilda Ltd. will wrap and ship your gift anywhere in the U.S.

Stop by the store from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday; 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

The Crossroads is the place for your one-stop shopping

Leave behind the hustle and bustle of malls and make Christmas shopping a memorable experience with a visit to The Crossroads, Highway 1 at Rio Road in Carmel.

Stroll arm and arm down lamplit sidewalks, amid fragrant flowers and trees and twinkling Christmas lights, listening closely for the chiming of the Westminster clock.

Nestled in this warm atmosphere of a charming mountain village, you'll find more than 80 shops filled with the best and brightest new clothes, specialty items, handmade crafts, and treasures from the past.

Although he's very busy, Santa's sure to keep his promise to visit The Crossroads from Dec. 10-24. Won't you join him?

Want to give a unique gift? Try a health club membership

If we were to define the perfect gift, you'd probably agree that it should be something a bit unusual, not just a run-of-the-mill gift, useful, but fun, with benefits to last at least a year.

Well, that's the perfect description of a membership to Garden Raquet Club, located at 2000 Garden Road, between the Monterey fairgrounds and airport.

It's a well-rounded club boasting excellent facilities and instructors, as well as a wide variety of activities including tournaments, ski trips, and even pot-luck dinners. Certainly there is something for everyone here.

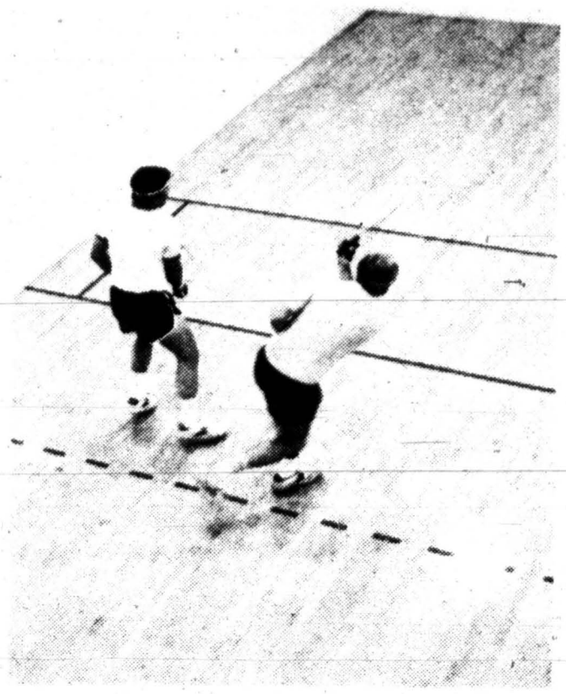
First of all, the club features nine racquetball courts, which can also be used for handball play. Racquets are provided and the club's three racquetball professionals (all are state-ranked and have competed nationally) give free classes twice a week, in addition to private instruction.

For those seeking a bit of competition, the club offers racquetball leagues as well as tournaments, usually two per month.

In the weightroom, you'll find a full circuit of Nautilus equipment, as well as Universal equipment, free weights and Life Cycle bicycles. Best of all, the Club has highly trained instructor/athletes available to work one-on-one with members, to help set up a safe, but effective work-out program.

Co-ed aerobics classes, led by certified instructors, are available daily in the morning and evening. Five levels of classes are offered, raning from beginning to advanced, so no matter what condition you're in, there's an aerobics class for you.

The help members unwine and relax after workouts, Garden Racquet Club provides an outdoor jacuzzi with sundeck, a Swedish sauna, and lounge area with snack bar. There's even a Solana tanning bed available to help you look as good as you feel.



RACQUETBALL, handball, basketball, a weight room and aerobic classes are some of things available if to members of the Garden Racquet Club in Monterey. (Will Robinson photo.)

Also on site, you'll find a pro-shop to supply members with the clothing and equipment needed to look good and participate in all of the activities of the Club. From sportswear and exercise gear, to shoes and racquetball racquets, it's all right here.

Sound like the perfect gift? Just pick up the phone and call Garden Racquet Club at 646-0550 for information on memberships. Several options are available. The Club is open daily, except Christmas Day. Hours are 6 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. weekdays; 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. weekends.

Located at 500 Polk St. in downtown Monterey, Video Express has one of the Monterey Peninsula's best selections of top-rated movies. With nearly 3,000 titles in stock, you're sure to find a movie everyone wants to see.

Here, all classic and children's movies, musicals and music videos rent for a mere 99 cents; while the newest releases like Out of Africa, Cobra, Raw Deal, and Trip to Bountiful, rent for a only $2.49.

Especially for the holidays, Video Express has more than 100 movies for sale at more than 50 percent off the regular price. Pick up several for gifts and stocking stuffers.

You'll find a large selection of children's classics, including Sleeping Beauty, Pinocchio, Alice in Wonderland and Dumbo, regularly priced at $69.96 to $79.95, on sale for $29.95.

Also priced at $29.95, there's blockbusters like Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom, Rambo, The Terminator and Amadeus. For only $19.95, you can pick up the classics, with Bing Crosby and Rosemary Clooney, as well as Witness, Raiders of the Lost Ark, An Officer and a Gentleman, and Beverly Hills Cop. With prices like these, now is the perfect time to begin or expand your video library.

That's just one of the many special services you'll find at this customer-oriented video store. With the exception of the newest releases, anyone can call Video Express at 375-9995 and reserve a movie — they'll be glad to hold it for you.

Even on the hottest new releases, you won't have to wait months to rent it because Video Express stocks as many as 10 copies of each.

The store, centrally located in downtown Monterey, even has a convenient drop box where customers can return movies when the store is closed.

Of course they also rent and sell VCRs and blank tapes.

For all your video needs, and the best selection of movies in town, see the friendly, knowlegeable folks at Video Express. The store is open 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily (Sunday until 8 p.m.)

Christmas

Pine Inn hosts Christmas Open House at hotel Dec. 11

THE PINE Inn will host a Christmas Open House featuring fashion shows, refreshments, entertainment and Christmas shopping at the inn's complex of outstanding shops. All but one of the inn's eight shops will be open until 9 p.m. for your shopping convenience and refreshments will be served from 3 to 9 p.m. in the hotel lobby. Entertainment will also be provided during those hours. The Pine Inn staff awaits you this holiday season. (Will Robinson photo.)

Write "fun" across your calendar on Dec. 11, then go enjoy a leisurely day of fashion shows, refreshments, entertainment and Christmas shopping at the Pine Inn's complex of outstanding shops. It's a special Christmas Open House you won't want to miss.

The festivities begin with informal fashion shows featuring a variety of classic and elegant looks for women. The modeling will begin at noon and last throughout the day with fashions from Rittmasters and McKibbens, two of the shops located in the Pine Inn building.

From Rittmasters you'll see cashmere and silk separates from New York designer, Jonathan; dressy sportswear from the store's Escada collection; elegant dresses from New York designer Judy Hornby; and leather and suede pants and skirts, as well as jackets trimmed in crystal and silver fox. The outfits will be accented with Rittmaster's collection of fashion jewelry from Wendy Gell and Martha Sturdy.

McKibbens will be featuring furs, as well as knit suits, tops and slacks from their St. John's collection for women.

Refreshments will be served in the hotel lobby from 3 p.m. to 9 p.m. and entertainment is planned.

All but one of the Pine Inn's eight independent businesses will be open until 9 p.m. for your shopping conveience. Listed below is a brief description of just some of the exciting merchandise you'll find herre.

Rittmasters — It's here you'll find all those beautiful designer clothes seen in the fashion show, as well as shoes, furs and other exciting gift items for the special woman in your life.

McKibbens — In addition to the gorgeous furs and popular St. John's clothing for women, you'll find men's classic, traditional clothing featuring ultrasuedes. It's all perfect for gift giving.

Borsella Art and Dress — Unique, fashion forward clothing by fresh, young designers are what you'll find here. A clothing gallery, Borsella's features one-of-a-kind creations of natural fiber by designers from all over the United States. Spotlighted this month are leather and suede jackets and accessories by California designers. See Borsella's for a truly unique gift.

Fourtane's Jewelry — An especially fine collection of estate jewelry, as well as unusual contemporary designs are what set this jewelry store apart from the rest. You'll also find a good selection of jade, and, because they're certified gemologists and a member of the American Gem Society, you can count on the expert advice and service you receive herre. The friendly folks at Fourtane's will be available to welcome you to the open house and help you wrap up a very special Christmas gift.

Tokyo Gift Shop — Great ideas for gifts and stocking stuffers are to be found here. Miniatures by Wendy Brokaw, dazers, holograms, cloissone bookmarks, traditional kimonos, jewelry and other antique items are just a few.

Great Things Antiques — It's not only the merchandise, but the service that makes this a truly great store. Just a few of the many terrific gift ideas are perpetual calendars, picture frames, biscuit barrels, postage scales, and an assortment of fireplace accessories. European 19th and 20th century furniture items are the specialty here. Modifications can be done to adapt the furniture to your special needs, and, best of all, Great Things Antiques delivers nationwide. That simplifies holiday shopping for faraway friends or relatives.

Garden Realty — In the market for a new home or property here or far away? Talk with a realtor or pick up a brochure on international realty. Garden Realty offers you a portfolio of distinctive properties around the world.

Pine Inn — No special plans for the holidays? The Pine Inn, respected nationwide for it's fine cuisine, has some very special dinners planned for Christmas Eve, Christmas Day and New Year's Eve. Make your reservations now.

A team of hair professionals awaits you at March Hare

Christmas

At most salons, one person takes care of all your hair needs. But at March Hare Hair Design, it's a very different story.

At March Hare, located on the southeast corner of Mission Street and Fifth Avenue in Carmel, you'll find four talented and highly skilled hair professionals available to cut, style, color or perm your hair, while Kathe is adept at manicures and makeup applications.

Nancy is the resident hair coloring expert at March Hare. As a past official educator for the Goldwell Hair Color System, a German hair color company, Nancy has 20 years experience in the field.

Hair tinting is not a job Nancy takes lightly. She works closely with a client in choosing the right color, taking into consideration eye and skin tones, wardrobe colors and even lifestyle.

Nancy often performs corrective coloring as well as highlighting to enhance haircuts, using the Goldwell Hair Color System, a protein-based coloring product she calls the finest in the world. Says Nancy, "It's superior in every way. The color lasts long, is richer and leaves hair shinier."

Perms, cuts and special occasion hairdo's are the specialty of salon and owner and stylist, Mary Anna.

Using the Goldwell perming system, Mary Anna often works with hard-to-perm or damaged hair. "I am unique in my way of perming because I devote the time it takes to care for a client's individual hair needs and if it's fine or problem hair I work with them to restore and recondition it," she explains.

Her dedication to providing clients with personal, individual service, plus her 17 years experience as a stylist make Mary Anna a natural choice for wedding and other special occasion hairdos. Says Mary Anna, "I like to work with a client for a total individual look."

Haircuts for men and women are Catherine's field of expertise. With 13 years experience in the business, she has received extensive training by Sassoon and Tony and Guy of London.

Working as an artist, she designs and adapts haircuts to fit the lifestyle and appearance of her clients. "Everyone needs something different..it's just like fingerprints," says Bobbie. "Every person has a different set of fingerprints, likewise, their hair should be a trademark."

For each client she tries to design a cut that's unique, yet wearable, and easy to maintain, then she teaches the client how to style it.

"What I do, I do well and it pleases me to see pleased clients," she says.

Kathe, who has been at March Hare three years, is a specialist in all areas of nail care, able to accommodate manicures, pedicures, sculptured nails and silk wraps.

For all your beauty needs, call on the team of experts at March Hare, 624-3024. The salon is open 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and Wednesday and Thursday evenings by appointment.

THE STAFF at March Hare Hair Design — Kathe Wall, Nancy Burgess, Bobbie Lochowitz, Catherine Forsey, and owner Mary Anna Bostwick — combine their expertise to create a look that best suits the client, from cutting, styling and perming, to manicures, pedicures, makeup application and hair coloring. You'll find five talented and highly-skilled professionals at March Hare, lcoated on southeast corner of Mission and Fifth in Carmel. (Will Robinson photo.)

For everything in sewing needs Thompson & Free is the place

If you or someone you know loves sewing, then you need to know about Thomspon and Free, Monterey County's largest sewing machine store.

Of course you'll find the best in sewing machines here, but that's only the beginning. There's notions, fabric, sewing cabinets, knitting machines and a complete line of vacuum cleaners and accessories. On top of that, they offer repairs on every make and model of vacuum cleaner and sewing machine, plus a long list of sewing and craft classes for all ages.

With merchandise and service like this, it's easy to see why Thompson and Free has been around for more than 50 years.

Located at 847 S. Main St. in Salinas, Thompson and Free offers an extensive selection of sewing machines (home and industrial), from basic models to the most advanced on the market, including Pfaff and New Home.

Pfaff, the largest European sewing machine manufacturer, offers machines with many exclusive features including a dual feeding system to eliminate fabric slippage. The machines are also programmable, so you can choose a stitch automatically or design your own, then enter it into the memory.

Thompson and Free also features New Home sewing machines, seen in advertisements by the American Sewing Association. New Home, award-winning manufacturers of sewing machines since 1860, are leaders in development. Their programmable machines also include several fine features including a large memory capacity, versatility in handling fabrics and craft applications.

Of course Thompson and Free offers repair on any make or model of sewing machine or vacuum cleaner. One-day service is available by request and all work is guaranteed. It's rare to find service like this today.

In the fabric section, Thompson and Free has put together a beautiful, and ever-expanding, selection of materials for crafts and for the home. There's also quite of an array of notions — many of them hard-to-find specialty items, craft patterns, and stenciling materials.

Gift certificates for Thompson and Free's many sewing and craft classes are a great idea for Christmas. There's classes in sewing, tailoring, applique, machine embroidery, thread painting, slip coverings, window shades, lampshades, quilting, trapunto, and entredeux (French hand sewing by machine). These and other classes will begin in January.

For those who would like to learn at home, Thompson and Free also rent video tapes. There's 15 available covering every aspect of sewing.

Of course, the wonderful selection of quality merchandise sets Thompson and Free apart from other stores, but even more so, is their commitment to put the customer first. There's no high pressure sales here, just a friendly relaxed atmosphere where customers can get exactly what they want.

Discover for yourself what has made this store a leader in the county for more than 50 years. The store is open from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday. During the holidays, they will stay open until 9 p.m. on Thursdays.

FOR ALL your sewing needs it's Thompson and Free, Monterey County's largest sewing machine store, located at 847 S. Main St. in Salinas. They also carry a wide variety of accessories and merchandise, including fabrics and vacuum cleaners. (Will Robinson photo.)

Personal service, top fashions are yours at M'Lady Bruhn

At M'Lady Bruhn, top-quality fashions combined with the best in personalized service, are a long-standing tradition. So it's easy to understand why, for many locals, Christmas shopping at M'Lady Bruhn has become a tradition in itself.

Why shop anywhere else when M'Lady Bruhn offers the best of both worlds?

This year at M'Lady Bruhn, you'll find a beautiful selection of wool coordinates from Paul Stanley. There's skirts, pants, jackets and sweaters in a variety of colors.

Perhaps you'd prefer the updated classic styling of a Flora Kung dress, available in dramatic designs to soft pastels. Also at M'Lady Bruhn you'll find comfortable, versatile loungewear from Flora Kung — perfect for entertaining or sleeping.

As always, M'Lady Bruhn has put together a fabulous selection of sweaters ranging from casual to dressy in everything from bold black and white combinations to soft pastels that not only look great now, but can be integrated into spring wardrobes.

There's also a wide selection of holiday sweaters sparkling with sequins and beadwork, as well as elegant fur-trimmed jackets.

This past year, M'Lady Bruhn's accessories department has literally blossomed into one of the finest anywhere. Here you'll find some great stocking-stuffers including beautiful beaded bags by La Regale, slippers by Natori, beautiful costume and fine jewelry, silk scarves by Burberry's and belts by Alexis Kirk (custom made because you choose the buckle and belt).

A great selection of merchandise means little without customer service. But, there's no need to worry — no matter what the season, you can depend on personalized one-on-one customer service.

M'Lady Bruhn offers free alterations, free gift wrappings, and a very special no-hassle Green Frog return policy which states, "If by chance this doesn't fit or the color makes you look green like a little frog...please bring it back."

WOMEN'S FASHIONS — both classic and contemporary — are the bywords at M'Lady Bruhn, which has become a Christmas shopping tradition on the peninsula by combining top fashions with personalized service. In addition to a wide selection of fashions M'Lady Bruhn also offers free alterations, free gift wrapping and their famous Green Frog return policy. (Will Robinson photo.)*

ALMOST EVERY country has a favorite sweet bread traditionally served during the holiday. German people bake fruit and nut-laden breads called stollen, which pastry chefs Hans Fruhman and Fritz Naef prepare at their Del Monte Pastry shop, located next to Lucky's near Del Monte Shopping Center. They also offer other holiday treats such as streudel, holiday coffee rings, Black Forest tortes, Scottish scones, Napolean whip cream cake and cinnammon pretzels. They also offer homestyle pies and can whip up a batch of festive pastries for large parties or gatherings.*

Gift of cakes and pastries is yours at Del Monte Pastry

Whether it's for gifts or entertaining, European Christmas cakes, breads and pastries from Del Monte Pastry are a special treat.

Holidays are always a special event at this top-quality bake shop, but at Christmas owners Hans Fruhmann and Fritz Naef, both European-trained pastry chefs, outdo themselves, filling the shop with a wide variety of festive and taste-tempting creations, as well as imported chocolates from Austria, Germany and Switzerland.

There's European Stollen, cinammon pretzels, Scottish scones, Napolean whipcream cake, Black Forest tortes, holiday coffee rings decorated with candied fruit and nuts, nut and poppy seed streudel, as well as a coffee cake shaped like a Christmas tree (a perfect idea for breakfast on Christmas morning).

Date-nute bread and the store's specialty, Old Country Dark Bread are nice hostess gifts. Cheesecakes, made to serve eight or 14 are another good idea. They come with a choice of toppings and are very reasonably priced at $6.75 and $13.50.

Gorgeous and very tasty centerpiece ideas include decorated gingerbread houses and Christmas Yule Logs - a cake topped with buttercream icing and filled with tempting chocolate, mocha, or chocolate pistachio.

Christmas wouldn't be complete without cookies, and at Del Monte Pastry there's a beautiful selection, including cinammon stars, pfeffernuesse, springerli, and snow fingers, just to name a few.

To save you baking time this holiday season, Del Monte Pastry has homestyle pies to complement your Christmas dinner. Varieties include pumpkin, pecan, mince, and berry. They ususally have a few on hand, but it's a good idea to order ahead to make sure you get one.

Remember, Del Monte Pastry can produce any of their mouth-water pastries en masse for parties and special occasion celebrations. In fact, their creations are used by several caterers.

When you're doing your holiday shopping at Del Monte Center, take a break, sit down and enjoy a pastry and coffee at Del Monte Pastry — it's located next to Lucky's in the convenience center. Take the first right as you come into the center. The shop is open daily.

Gallery VSR: Diversity of style, technique

Diversity of style and technique are what bring excitement to the fine arts and crafts of Peninsula artist Virginia Sevier Rogers.

Working in a variety of mediums, including stained glass, oils, pottery and wall hangings, she is constantly finding new ways to interpret the world around her.

Her work is on display now through January at Coco La Fleur, located in the Valley Hills Center in Carmel, and, as always, at her gallery, Gallery VSR, located at 897 Carmel Valley Raod, directly across from the Carmel Valley Manor property. Through Christmas, Virginia will be at the gallery from 1 to 4 p.m. daily to greet and talk with visitors.

Many modestly-priced items on display at the gallery would make beautiful Christmas gifts. Of course each one is an original and will remain unduplicated.

Metallic and brilliant-colored wall hangings perfectly reflect the joy of the season. Here again though, Virginia's diversity of style shines through, and you'll find tapestries with very soft as well as very loud personalities.

Virginia's own unusual technique brings new beauty to the old art of stained glass. The composition, assembled in parts and fused togehter in a kiln, can be hung in a window or as a decorative relief on the wall.

Virginia, with a life-long dedication to art, has worked in Boston, New York and San Francisco, just to name a few, with many civic commissions to her credit, including a sculpture in China. She has also taught privately and at Monterey Peninsula College.

Herbs, spices, teas highlight the selection at Herbal Effect

ERBS AND spices — the largest selec- n on the Central Coast — are at your ngertips at Herbal Effect, 600 ghthouse Ave. in Monterey. Whether u're in the market for a Christmas gift, a, herbs, spices, ginseng, incense, cosmetics or herbal cookbooks, this is the place to stop. Chefs at many peninsula restaurants — including the Sardine Factory and The Point — use the spices and herbs found at Herbal Effect. (Will Robinson photo.)

Located at 600 Lighthouse Avenue in Monterey, Herbal Effect boasts the largest selection of herbs and spices on the Central Coast. So, whether you're in the market for a Christmas gift, tea, or some spices for holiday cooking and baking, this is the place to stop.

Chefs at many of the Peninsula's finest restaurants, including The Sardine Factory, The Point, and the Cannery, use the superior-quality spices found at Herbal Effect. These very special spices could be just what you need to give the winning edge to your own culinary creations.

Just in time for the holidays, the friendly people at Herbal Effect have cooked up one of the most beautiful and useful gift ideas around: designer spice racks filled with 12 of the store's culinary herbs. Priced at $14.95, you're sure to want on for yourself as well.

If tea is your bag, you'll find an excellent selection of classic as well as unique blends here. If black tea is a favorite, you'll be impressed by the quality of the Earl Grey, English Breakfast, Darjeeling, Seattle Spice and other varieties.

There's also a fine selection of herbal teas, with many unique varieties blended by owners Michael Baer and Richard Hilton. The benefits of herbal tea, known for thousands of years, are being rediscovered today, and Baer and Hilton, drawing on their own extensive experience and knowledge, have created teas to soothe, cleanse, balance, stimulate or simply taste delicious.

Create a gift box containing a sampling of several of herb and classic teas, or choose one or two favorites to be packaged in Herbal Effect's attractive Plaxicon jars, especially designed to preserve freshness.

Of course Herbal Effect also carries a variety of herbs to be used as energizers. Best known is Ginseng, and the store has several varieties and forms of the herb available. They also carry an Australian bee pollen that Hilton says is "the most nutritious and delicious we have found, and we have tried them all."

Other herb products include beautiful potpourri from Carmel Valley, herbal facial stams, mudpacks and other cosmetics, incense, incense holders, and a fascinating collection of books, including an herbal cookbook. All are great gift ideas.

Gift wrapping is available (free if the purchase is over $10) and the store is open extra hours to make shopping convenient. Holiday hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday (until 7 p.m. on Wednesdays and Fridays); noon to 5 p.m. Sundays.

THE COMPANY Store near The Lodge at Pebble Beach is actually five stores neatly wrapped into one: it's a deli, liquor store, grocery story, gift shop and convenience mart all in one. It's easy to see why it's a Forest favorite. Gourmets and wine lovers on your Christmas list will be especially pleased that you shop at the store. (Will Robinson photo.)

Company Store is five stores wrapped in one cozy package

What ever you need this holiday season, be it party and hors d'oeuvre trays, great gift ideas, a bottle of German wine, or some aspirin-free pain reliever, you'll find it in The Company Store at The Lodge at Pebble Beach.

It's actually a deli, liquor store, grocery store, gift shop and convenience mart all wrapped up in one very cozy, country store. It's easy to see why it's a Forest favorite.

For all your holiday entertaining needs, The Company Store offers party and hors d'oeuvre trays as well as mouthwatering pastries and desserts from Creme de la Creme and other speciality shops.

The liquor department features a large selection of domestic and imported beer, wine and other liquors. There's an especially fine selection of California and French wines as well as a few from Italy and Germany. You can sample some of the store's premium wines at the Lodge-wide open house scheduled for 5 p.m. Dec. 2.

Great gift ideas for Christmas or any time of year are The Company Store's pre-packaged or made-to-order gift baskets filled with taste-tempting meats, cheeses, wines, jams or candies.

For the gourmet on your gift list, there's a full line of sauces, toppings, oils, vinegars, mustards, jams, jellies, candies, cookies and Hillside Gourmet and Jamaica Blue Mountain coffees. New to the store is a line of all-natural pasta sauces from Golden Whisk of California. Made from imported Italian herbs and vegetables, they're simply delicious.

Best of all, The Country Store is convenient. It's open every day of the year, from 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. with friendly people waiting to serve you. They'll even wrap and ship gift items.

This holiday season, whatever your need, remember that The Country Store has it all.

Quality and fashion-forward children's clothing couple with fun accessories, toys and teddys, to make Pebbles a favorite with adults and kids alike.

Pebbles, which caters to boys and girls size infant to 7, has recently relocated just a few doors down, across from The Lodge at Pebble Beach.

In spite of the move, they're busy celebrating the Christmas season with a beautiful collection of holiday dresses by talented new designers. There's eye-catching creations in crisp white linen and pink flannel accented with gold flecks. For boys, there are adorable dress suits.

There's even a large selection of wooden ornaments selected especially with children in mind. There are several designs for "Baby's First Christmas."

For cold Carmel nights, there are handknit wool sweaters from Uraguay in a variety of colors for both boys and girls. But, if you're planning to spend Christmas in a warmer climate, Pebbles offers a "Holiday Cruise Line" collection of all-cotton sweaters, as well as the very beautiful and intricate all-cotton Berek pullover sweaters for girls.

In addition to clothing, some other great gift ideas from Pebbles include teddy bears, music boxes and a variety of fun, yet educational board games, including "Let's Pretend" and "The Dinosaur Game," for children 4 and up.

As always, Pebble's accessories section is just brimming with gifts and stocking stuffers like jewelry, ties, headbands, bows, barrettes and a large assortment of socks in whimsical and computer-print designs.

At Christmas time or anytime of the year, Pebbles makes shopping for the wee ones in your life a holiday. The store is open 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily until Christmas. Christmas Day hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Treat yourself to a tour around this spacious gallery and you'll be amazed at how many items bear bird designs. And if the man in your life just happens to be a sportsman, you've just found the perfect place to buy him a gift.

You'll find an extensive collection from the duck stamp program, a conservation program started in 1934 by Ding Darling, a cartoonist and conservationist. Each year since then limited edition prints were made to match the stamps. These prints are not only beautiful, but have proven to be an excellent investment.

For the decoy collector and admirer, the gallery offers works by 16 decorative waterfowl carvers, including award-winners Ernie Muchlmatt, Manfred Scheel, Dan Brown and Bob Allen. These artists, each with their own unique style, seem to breathe a life into the birds that can only be matched by nature itself. These are a definite must-see item.

Of course The Decoy Gallery offers a vast selection of "the real thing," — old working decoys from the early 1900s. These rustic, antique birds have become an American folk art.

Should you wish to try your hand at carving your own duck decoy, there are basic decoy forms in solid wood just waiting for your embellishment, or do-it-yourself decoy kits, plus paints, a complete line of carving tools and a rather comprehensive library of how-to-books.

No gallery would be complete without fine art work and The Decoy Gallery is no exception. Original watercolors by Jim Killen and Gerald Pettit, as well as oil paintings by an exciting new English artist, Jim Withey are represented here.

The gallery is open 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday; 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. For your shopping convenience, the store will remain open until 7 p.m. beginning Dec. 11.

EVEN CHILDREN get a kick out of The Right Byte, located at 596 Fremont Blvd. near the El Estero Car Wash, where you'll find one of the peninsula's best selection of computers, computer software, educational videos for children, and a trained knowledgeable staff to help you get over your fear of computers or your confusion about software. Their object is to produce satisfied customers. (Will Robinson photo.)

If shopping for the computer phobic in your life has left you confused, see the experts at The Right Byte, located at 596 Fremont Blvd., near the El Estero Car Wash. They can help make sense of the madness.

At The Right Byte, open since February 1984, you'll find one of the best selections of computer software around, and all at discounted prices. Every software and video selection in the store has been carefully evaluated by the knowledgeable, trained staff, so they can help you choose a program to best fit your needs.

If that's not enough, you can preview most of the store's selections yourself, before you buy. That's a rare service to offer, but The Right Byte is dedicated to producing satisfied customers. "We want you to feel satisfied that your selection was the best for you, and that you will return to The Right Byte again when searching for your computer needs," explains owner/manager Susan Rinderknecht.

As founder of the store, it's her dream for The Right Byte to grow into the peninsula's foremost resource information center to help new users successfully adjust to owning a personal computer.

The Right Byte is not only a problem-solver for many of your business needs, but it also offers a large selection of educational software.

As a supplier of software to area schools, The Right Byte can advise you on the software currently being used in your child's classroom, then you can pick up a copy for use at home. Working at home in a rewarding and non-threatening environment, your child can master standard skills and, as a result, improve classroom grades.

Also for children, The Right Byte stocks the newest educational videos, featuring Sesame Street and other famous school-book characters. Topics include Safety Tips and Techniques, Pre-School Education, Bedtime Stories with Grover, and games to play along with Big Bird and others. Priced from $19.95 to $24.95, they're perfect for gift-giving. And, for the child in all of us, The Right Byte carries the newest software games.

Especially for the season, The Right Byte has put together the latest software hits in holiday packages designed for all budgets. You'll also find the Christmas printer paper and ribbons needed to custom-design greeting cards.

With a new year just around the corner, it's worth mentioning that The Right Byte carries all the software you need to get your 1987 financial planning and tax preparation off on the right foot.

In addition to software, you'll find other great gift ideas throughout the store including pre-packaged blank diskettes, printer ribbons, modems and other computer accessories.

Stop by The Right Byte from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday. There's plenty of two-hour parking available.

Customers get wide variety at Mediterranean Market

When a business manages to stay aournd for 33 years, it's usually with good reason. In the case of Carmel's Mediterranean Market, the reasons are many.

Since 1953, owner Philip Coniglio has built a thriving business by offering an extensive line of quality food products and just plain old-fashioned good service. In other words, customers get their money's worth at Mediterranean Market.

This full-service Italian delicatessen offers a wide selection of meats and cheeses, including rare Italian cheeses, as well as salads, made fresh daily on the premises. Every salad is delicious, but Mediterranean Market's own pasta with pesto sauce is a favorite.

For all your holiday and entertaining needs, Mediterranean Market can put together lovely hot and cold hors d'oeuvres trays to serve anywhere from 10 to 200 guests. Choose from simple meat and cheese trays to elegant combinations of smoked salmon and caviar. Fresh fruit trays are a specialty here, and especially appropriate for the holiday season are sweet trays, featuring homemade mini pecan tarts, classic Christmas cookies and other taste-tempting goodies.

Although Mediterranean Market can handle last-minute calls for hors d'oeuvres trays, it's best to call a couple days ahead. Because personal service is a trademark here, they'll be happy to fit the order to meet your needs and budget.

Great gift ideas this Christmas are pre-packaged or made-to-order gift baskets filled with cheeses, salami, chocolates and Christmas sweets, jams, jellies and specialty decorations. The market is famous for its fruit baskets and delivery service — they'll deliver your basket free of charge anywhere on the peninsula. Now that's service!

You can also choose from a full line of copper utensils and decorations for gift-giving, as well as beautiful and fragrant herb wreaths. You'll find a fine selection of laurel, bay leaf, and even chili pepper wreaths.

Mediterranean Market's liquor department boasts a wide selection of wines from popular brands to very rare vintages. They have one of the most extensive selections of French wines on the peninsula, as well as some German makes. Should you need some advice, the knowledgeable staff will be happy to help you select a wine to fit your needs. Remember, wine is a good item to include in gift baskets.

For all your gift-giving, entertaining and deli needs, visit Mediterranean Market and discover the quality and service that have made it a landmark. The shop is open daily from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. for last-minute shopping needs, the market will be open until 4 p.m. on Christmas Eve.

THE MEDITERRANEAN Market, corner of Ocean Avenue and Mission in Carmel, has been in business for more than 33 years, and for a reason. Owner Philip Coniglio has built a thriving business based on customer service and an extensive line of quality food products, from imported wines and cheeses to pastas and breads, even gift baskets, ceramic coasters, and copper kitchen decorations. The Med Market can put together holiday hors d'oeuvres and party trays, both hot and cold. That's not all, the market also carries hard-to-find spices, fresh pates, imported Beluga caviar and the traditional Italian specialty cake, Panforte. (Will Robinson photo.)

CARMEL DRESS Shop, season after season, offers one of of the most outstanding collections of classic clothing under one roof, from quality knits to ultrasuede to a wide selection of sweaters in a variety of colors and styles. Of course accessories and stocking stuffers abound, from scarves and handkerchiefs to jewelry and watches. They're located under the striped red-and-white awning at corner of Ocean and Dolores in Carmel. (Will Robinson photo.)

Season after season, the Carmel Dress Shop offers one of the most outstanding collections of classic clothing available under one roof.

Owners Gordon and Lucille Winge pride themselves in putting together one of the best selections of classic, quality knits and ultrasuedes around. There's a lot of goodies packed into this little shop, housed under the red-and-white striped awning on Ocean Avenue and Dolores Street.

To take you through the holiday season in style, there's one and two-piece dresses by Lilli Ann and eye-catching knits by Castleberry, as well as slacks and skirts by Vivanti.

As always, the Carmel Dress Shop has a beautiful collection of luxurious Ultrasuede suits and slacks with coordinating sweaters, as well as dresses and jumpers. Available in a wide variety of colors, they make fine gifts.

On cold days, snuggle up in a warm sweater from The Carmel Dress Shop. There's a variety of styles from LeRoi, but a specialty here are novelty sweaters featuring kittens, flowers, penguins and other motifs too numerous to mention. They're a fun gift idea.

Some great stocking stuffers are Bon Bons, durable, long-wearing panty hose from Italy; mink teddy bears, belts, scarves, ultrasuede purses, hand embroidered handkerchiefs from Switzerland and jewelry from Christian Dior and Napier. There's quartz watches as well as a large selection of earrings in pierced and hard-to-find clip-on styles.

This season and every season of the year, for the classic in clothing there's only one place to go — The Carmel Dress Shop. It's worth noting that along with the beautiful merchandise comes some of the best costume service in town.

Stop by and see for yourself, or give them a call at 624-3389. The store is open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday; noon to 4 p.m. Sunday.

With Mail Boxes Etc. USA extra service is the key

If you're time is valuable, rent a post office box from Mail Boxes Etc. USA. This little shop, located at 225 Crossroads Boulevard, has got to be one of the best time-saving inventions of the century.

It's not that there's anything outstanding about the post office box itself, but it's the unbelievably long list of extra services you get from Mail Boxes Etc. USA that make a box rental the investment of a lifetime.

Some of those "extras" are 24-hour access to a copy machine, notary service, a secretarial and phone message service, passport photos, and money orders. You can have keys, business cards and rubber stamps made here, or you can send a telegram.

OWners Jim and Jill Sleeper are Western Union agents, but they can also send messages via telegram, cablegram, mailgram, worldwide Telex and Facsimile. They also provide overnight mail service via UPS, Emery, Airborne and Federal Express.

Of course with a box rental, you'll get all the services of a U.S. Post Office will provide including first class, certified, domestic and foreign mailings, as well as stamp sales. But there are several extras like 24-hour access to your box, mail holding and forwarding, as well as a call-in mail check service.

One significant difference is that instead of a P.O. Box number, your mail will be addressed to 225 Crossroads Blvd. and a "suite" number. But with that small change, come more advantages. The bes one is that Mail Boxes Etc. USA will be able to receive deliveries for you — that means no more sitting at home waiting for a package to arrive.

With holiday season here, it's especially important to mention that Mail Boxes Etc. USA offers a complete line of shipping and packaging supplies at discount prices, as well as a custom packaging service. After shopping in The Crossroads, just drop off the purchases at the store and they'll custom pack and ship them insured via United Parcel Service. Now that's a real time-saver.

Mail Boxes Etc. USA opens at 9 a.m. Monday through Friday (that's one hour earlier than other shops in The Crossroads) and closes at 6 p.m. Weekend hours are 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

For those living outside of Carmel, the best news so far is that the Sleepers, as owners of the franchise rights to Monterey and Santa Cruz counties, are planning to open shops in Capitola, Scotts Valley, Watsonville and Monterey.

Postal and Business Services

MAIL BOXES ETC. USA

MAIL SERVICES aren't the only thing you get with Mail Boxes Etc. USA, concocted by owners Jim and Jill Sleeper, whose store is located at 225 Crossroads Blvd. A variety of mail services is available, but it's the extras — notary service, Western Union, passport photos, secretarial and phone services, overnight mail and 24-hour copying, etc. — that make this business truly unique and convenient.
